Europe Does Not Love Us.
An Italian Bulldog.

Uncle Sam is headed for the world court, no doubt about that, apparently. How soon will the United States slip through the world court into the league of nations, and what will be the cost of the slip? That question interests this country.

Henry Ford, in his Dearborn "Independent," asks these questions: "Are we ready to subordinate the constitution of the United States to the covenant (or constitution) of the league?"

"Are we ready to place the monroe doctrine at the disposal of a European court whose principles run counter to it?"

"Are we ready to resign our decision as to when, if ever, we shall fight to a court, one of whose powers is to tell us when we must institute an economic boycott, and when we must fight to enforce its decrees?"

"Have we, as citizens, or has Congress, as our representative, or has the President, as our chief magistrate, the right or the power to do any of these things? We think not?"

To Henry Ford's questions about the world court add these:

Are we ready to submit to that court the question of Asiatic immigration? Japan will take that question to the court as soon as it is in working order.

Are southern states willing to submit to the world court the payment of Confederate bonds issued during the Civil war? That question will be brought up.

Asking questions won't do much good. The world court is practically in the world court now and will know more about European diplomacy presently than it ever knew before.

The league of nations offers a prize of 250,000 francs for an architectural competition. American architects are barred, because we are not in the league or nation—yet.

One hundred and twenty thousand francs are worth about $4,800, so the American architects can stand it.

More unpleasant is the loud applause with which Paris every night greets Marcelle Parisys, when that young lady denounces this country for its "bloodthirsty stinkiness," saying, "honest French girls are taxed to pay the debts of France to those stubborn Americans."

They do not LOVE us in Europe, and our lonesome little representative in

Eight Men Face Death on Tugs in Ice-bound Lake

MUSKEGON, Mich., Jan. 28. — Night-long efforts to reach two fishing tugs with eight men aboard caught in the ice a mile off Muskegon were unavailing at daybreak today.

The ice floes are crushing the tugs—the Helen and the Indian, both of this port—while a 50-mile gale, getting steadily worse this morning, makes hope of rescue slight.

Two coast guard crews from here are trying to reach the tugs.

The ice breaker Alabama has made several futile attempts to crush a path to the stricken boats.

SOLONS VOTE $302,741 FOR CITY EXPENSES

Appropriation Ordinance Adopted at Special Meeting.

APPORTION FUND

Decide to Move Traffic Light on Fourth Street.

It will cost $302,741.59 to meet the operating expenses of the city during 1926, according to the appropriation ordinance passed on three readings under suspension of the rules at a special meeting of the municipal legislators last night.

Of this amount, $119,618.81 is derived from taxation, while the remaining $183,122.78 will come from water rates, gasoline tax, automobile licenses and other sources.

The water works department gets the "lion's share" of the appropriation, $147,109.00 being set aside for this fund. Most of this money is used for interest on bonded indebtedness and liquidation of bonds.

The safety department, which has both the police and fire departments

Boy Coaster Hurt When Auto Strikes Sled; Driver Flees

George, Jr., 8-year-old son of Councilman and Mrs. George Hughes, of West Third street, sustained an injury to his right leg when struck by an automobile while coasting in East alley yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred as the youngster's sled was crossing Second street at the foot of the alley. The car, a sedan, knocked him from his sled to the street, but the driver failed to stop. The boy was assisted to his home by two companions.

Two youths, who witnessed the accident, took the number of the car. An arrest may be made in the case, it was said today.

TWO SEAMEN DIE SAVING COMRADES

Crew of Antiope are Snatched From Death as Men on Laristan go to Watery Grave.

Thrilling stories of battles with tempestuous seas of sinking ships, daring rescues, and of disaster, were flashing into New York today in laconic radio messages telling of the terrific storm that has been raging in mid-Atlantic for four days and which has spread to the western coast of Europe, the North Sea and to the Azores.

Twenty-four were drowned when the British freighter Laristan went down in mid-ocean. The liner Bremen succeeded in saving six of the Laristan's crew.

Schooner Hits Rocks.

The entire crew of 24 of the sinking British freighter Antiope was rescued by the liner President Roosevelt, after a desperate battle with the elements. Two of the President Roosevelt's crew lost their lives.

Four were drowned when the schooner Dorna hits the rocks off the Spanish coast.

Ships were imperilled off the coast of Sweden.

In the Azores, the British steamer Errington has been drifting since Sunday, and one officer lost his life when the vessel careered in the storm.

Violent gales are sweeping the North sea.

Rumors that the S. S. Olympic was experiencing difficulty in mid-ocean were disposed of in radio reports from that ship that "all is well."

Reports Are Ridiculed.

White Star officials today did not attempt to hide their displeasure over the circulation of these reports in the United States, which they said were obviously "non-sense" inasmuch as they came from points inland and were not confirmed by any messages picked up by the powerful coastal radio stations.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—White Star line officials today ridiculed reports circulated in the United States that the Olympic had sent out S. O. S. calls. The Olympic is proceeding on her way and is in no trouble whatever, it was said today.

CALL FOR SLASH IN FARM LOANS

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 28.—Formal notice issued by the federal farm loan board through the joint stock land banks that 20 per cent reduction must be made at once in the total amount of loans carried on farm lands by the board, announced here as delegates to the middle west farm conference assembled today, threw consternation into bankers and agricultural leaders and threatened to upset all the well-laid plans for a harmonious and orderly meeting.

CAPITAL TAKES STOCK AS U. S. GETS PLACE IN WORLD COURT

Marks End of Three-Year Tumult and Shouting.

ANTIS BITTER

Both Sides Emerge With Measure of Victory.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. — Three years of tumult and shouting over the world court came to an end today. America is in the court, theoretically at least, and official Washington began to take stock of just what American adherence to the league tribunal means.

Both sides emerged from the memorable struggle with a measure of victory.

Those who have consistently advocated American adherence claimed a great moral victory, those who have fought bitterly against it found their satisfaction in the stringent, even devastating reservations that were attached, and claimed the practical, if not the moral victory.

But for the bitterness that remained today—and it is real bitterness in the senate—it might truthfully be said that both sides are fairly well satisfied.

Theoretically in Court, America is theoretically in the court—yet actual American participation is still a long way off, and is hedged about with so many ifs, ands, and buts, that a court decision affecting the United States appears only in the dim and misty future.

In the first place, the emasculating reservations attached to the original Harding-Hughes proposal—without which it could not have passed—must be ratified by 49 other nations before American adherence becomes an actual fact. Each of these 49 nations must, by an exchange of notes with the state department, signify their willingness to let America come in on her own terms.

This procedure alone may take several years. International machinery is cumbersome. It moves slowly, as evidenced by the fact that the Washington conference treaties, now four years old, are not yet completely ratified.

Should even the smallest of these nations, Costa Rica, Latvia, Liberia, Panama, Salvador, San Domingo, let alone the great powers like France, Italy, Japan and Great Britain, decline to give their consent to America adhering to the court in terms so radically different from their own, then the senate's vote of adherence last night means nothing. The whole business is invalidated.

Irreconcilables Claim Victory.

CRABBE RULES ON GASOLINE TAX

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28. — Attorney General Crabbe today ruled that a municipality cannot legally buy street repair equipment, tools and machinery with any portion of the gasoline tax fund. A similar opinion was announced recently by the attorney general affecting county officials.

The lunch room fund, provided by state law, shall be considered as a part of the general school funds to be deposited in the usual depositories and paid out upon warrants properly signed by the president and clerk of the board of education, Crabbe also ruled.

Both opinions were addressed to officials of the state bureau of public accounting and inspection.

Approximately $2,000 was in cash, while the remaining $1,723 was in the form of pledges payable not later than June 1. Of the fund $2,500 will be placed to the credit of the county organization, while the remaining $1,723 will be retained for special work among troops of the local district.

The workers in Dr. R. R. Bode's division carried off honors collecting contributions of $1,403 as compared with $1,345 secured by teams under the leadership of Attorney W. S. Stevenson. BUCKET FORCE FIGHTS STOP 55 BLAZE IN NEAR ZERO WEATHER

William Rose Meat Market Destroyed; $2,500 Damage.

SNOW DRIFTING

Curtail Gas for Potteries; Trolley Service Suffers.

With the mercury hovering around the zero mark and a 25-mile gale sweeping the district, a butcher shop owned and operated by William Rose, near Stop 55 in Glenmoor, four miles north of here, was destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. The loss is estimated at $2,500, upon which there is no insurance.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and kept the flames from spreading to a warehouse adjoining the meat market.

Motorist Discovers Blaze.

The blaze, discovered by an automobile driver, who awakened neighbors, is believed to have been started from a gas fire which was left burning in the building. Rose has been confined to his home near Stop 55 during the last few days of illness and the business was being conducted by his son. The fire department was notified, but did not respond inasmuch as the shop was located far beyond the city water mains.

The temperature dropped approximately 26 degrees between 10 o'clock last night and 6 o'clock this morning. A gale began blowing shortly before midnight and the mercury this morning averaged from two to four degrees above the zero mark. Readings of zero and below were reported from the country districts.

Snow Plows on Highways

Transportation was crippled this morning due to the heavy drifts, which covered the street car tracks, especially in the outlying districts.

Service on the Grandview line was irregular until 9 o'clock when the tracks were cleared by the sweeper. Schedules were maintained after that hour. The Y. & O. cars were late during the forenoon. Service on the Steubenville and Beaver branches was almost on schedule after the first cars had broken through the drifts.

The road between Salem and Lisbon was closed all night while automobiles made fruitless efforts to plow through the drifts on the Lincoln highway, west of Lisbon, this morning. County and state snow plows cleared the Lisbon-Salem road before noon. Another truck is working out of Lisbon in the direction of Minerva.

J. T. Croxall Named President at Meet Of Health Board

J. T. Croxall, who resigned from the board of health a year ago, was sworn into office to serve the unexpired term of Mayor Ralph C. Benedum at the monthly meeting last night. At the reorganization session, Croxall was elected president.

The monthly report of Health Commissioner John Fraser, showed 10 cases of smallpox, 10 of scarlet fever, 15 of measles and one each of diphtheria and tuberculosis. Four cases of smallpox and seven of scarlet fever are under quarantine.

In the clinic, nine new cases were reported. There were 58 male and 37 female treatments given.

Mrs. Alice Davidson, deputy registrar of vital statistics, reported 39 deaths, 21 males and 15 females. Births numbered 58 of which 32 were males and 26 females.

LATE PRESIDENT M'KINLEY'S FAVORITE HYMN WILL BE PLAYED AT CEREMONY OF COLORS OF EIGHTH OHIO VOLUNTEERS AT STATE CAPITAL

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—"Lead, Kindly Light," favorite hymn of McKinley, will be played by the United States Army band from Fort Hayes, as the opening selection of the ceremony of the colors which the veterans of the Eighth Ohio Volunteers, "McKinley's Own," war with Spain, will hold at the state house, tomorrow afternoon, anniversary of the birth of the late president, when the colors carried by this regiment in '93, will be formally turned over to the state for placement in its archives.

The program will open with brief exercises promptly at 3 o'clock at the McKinley monument, at the main entrance to the state house, opposite the Neil House, residence of McKinley during his four years as governor of Ohio, where the colors will be unfurled for the last time and dipped as a mark of respect and honor to the memory of McKinley and the comrades of the attending veterans, who lost their lives during the war or have died since.

The colors will be borne by the regiment's original color guard, headed by John M. Eldt, Ashland, who was the "Eighth's" chief color sergeant, and who has sent word that he will surely be on hand for the occasion. A uniformed squad with rifles, furnished by Columbus camp No. 49, United Spanish War Veterans, will act as escort for the color guard. The trumpet and drum corps of the camp will take part in the exercises.

Critchfield Will Present Colors.
Judge Lyman R. Critchfield, of Wooster, who was a buck private, will present the colors on behalf of the regiment, to Governor Donahay, who will receive them as representative of the state. The governor will turn them over to Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, to be placed in a hermetically sealed case in the rotunda of the capitol, where the Ohio battle flags are kept.

The ceremonies will be followed by speaking in the senate chamber in the afternoon and at Memorial Hall in the evening, with a banquet at the latter place at 6 o'clock. Principal speakers will be former United States Senator Charles Dick, Akron; General Edward Vollrath, Bucyrus; General A. B. Critchfield, Shreve; Col. Frank C. Gerlach, Wooster; W. R. McCord, New York city; Thomas M. Bell, Mansfield; Judge Charles F. Schaber, Bucyrus; Harry S. Quine, Akron, and

Rev. Mr. George W. Brown, Nankin. Frank A. McGowan, Canton, presides in the afternoon, and C. H. McCowan, Alliance, in the evening. Arthur C. Johnson, Sr., Columbus, is officer of the day.

To Place Wreath on Monument.

A feature of the ceremonies will be the placing of a wreath of McKinley carnations at the monument, for the veterans, by Miss Miriam, young daughter of William H. Hughes, of 212 North Powell avenue, Columbus, formerly of Wooster, who served in the regiment.

The "Eighth," commanded by the late Colonel Curtis V. Hard of Wooster, served at Santiago and was recruited from central and eastern Ohio.

The colors of the regiment, lost years ago, recently were found in the basement of the state house.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL EDGAR POE NORRIS WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

FIFTY-EIGHT.

What had happened between Noble and Laurel? Mrs. Mary Farr Harwood was endeavoring to solve a puzzle presented by the report of Operative Michael Finnerton of the Star Private Secret Service, and a guarded, unsigned note that she guessed was from Louis.

She was worrying over the matter when her desk-clock warned her it was time to be preparing for the guests she was to have that afternoon. Her daughters were coming to tea. She had not had them both in the house at the same time before.

The girls came together in Lilah's car. Mrs. Lyons' little daughter was with them, a silent figure on the rear seat. Marion was uncomfortable; Lilah was expectant.

They found their mother in her drawing room reading a French novel with a plain paper cover; her knowledge of French was superficial, but when she came to a passage she thought might be particularly interesting, she had her maid to call upon for assistance. The title of this particular novel was "A Lovely Day."

She could not have told you the name of the author without looking at the cover.

"I'm so glad you brought little

Honey along; I've wanted to see her so much," she said, taking one of her granddaughter's hands and offering her lips to be kissed.

"Little Honey" had to be coaxed. "Kiss granny, dear. The child did so reluctantly."

Lilah felt the need of being apologetic. "I'm afraid that she doesn't know granny very well; but she is going to know her better, aren't you, Honey?"

The child only stared at her mother. Mrs. Mary Farr Harwood affected a smile. "I could hardly expect her to remember me. But sit down, dears."

Honey wandered away from the group to the window and looked out. There weren't any interesting pictures, here, and no dog, or anything. She remembered about this from the first time she had been in the house, the other day. Nothing of interest was in the street, either; just old automobiles passing by. She wished she had her dolly. She gravely surveyed her mother, and aunt, and grandmother, and walked slowly around the room and into the hall. Maybe there was something interesting leading upstairs. There might, for instance, be a dog. She would see.

"These are my daughters, Felice," she said, when the maid appeared with the tea-wagon.

"Out, madame. I have seen them before." She beamed upon one, and then the other.

Marion didn't like her manner, and frowned. How had her mother happened to employ such a maid?

Lilah smiled appreciatively at the servant. When the girl departed, she said to her mother: "She's a dear, isn't she?"

Marion, before her mother had time to answer, put in some words: "I thought you called her Marie the last time I was here."

Their mother laughed. "I did. I give her a new name every day. I play that I have a new maid every day."

Marion looked at her sister, then down at her hands. Her mother certainly had changed. This sounded like childish foolishness.

"And how is Mrs. Laurel Todd Harwood?" the elder woman asked as she handed her youngest daughter a steaming cup.

"Very well, I believe." What else could she say?

"I saw her the other day." The two girls turned their eyes upon her with surprised interest.

"Yes, she was with Wyman Holt." Marion's eyes flamed.

Mrs. Joseph Lyons laughed a little. "Oh, I suppose she was just furthering Marion's cause with Wyman."

Marion turned upon her sister furiously. "She's in love with him?"

Their mother was electrified by this announcement. She was not aware of her daughter's deep interest in Wyman Holt.

"I don't think you ought to say that, Marion," the elder said. She was scared of such an accusation.

"It's true. Oh, mother!" Mrs. Harwood was moved. A fierce light was burning in her eyes. "Just wait! Just wait!"

The intensity of her tone got her the attention of her daughters. "Laurel Todd is getting her foot in a trap." She wondered if she should tell her daughters about the detective, and, swayed by her agitation, did so.

"Here's his first report. . . . The visitors bent over it avidly. Marion was the first to speak. "I don't think this is right, mother. "It's—"

Lilah turned a deprecating look upon her sister. "You think that whatever father does is all right. He has bought you—"

Marion got up, setting her teacup down on the tea-wagon with such force that its contents were spilled.

"You're a liar, Lilah, and you know it. He's our father, whatever he has done. . . . Mother, I love you, and I'm not excusing father, but I won't see him—"

"But," Lilah broke in, "we're not saying anything about father. It's Laurel—"

Marion subsided. "Before I am done with her, she's going to suffer something of what I have suffered," her mother exclaimed. "He needs me. Me—"

Marion got up in desperation. She couldn't stand it here. She had listened to the brawls of her father and mother all of her younger years; now she must listen to her mother's attacks on her father. Her dislike of Laurel was outweighed for the moment by her sympathy for her father. To her he was a tragic figure. Understanding of him that had come with the awakening womanhood swayed her thoughts now. Could she save him from more unhappiness? "I'm going—I must go." She fled out into the world that of late had become to her a distorted thing. She was very unhappy.

"Bobbed Hair," Film Classic, Featured At The American

"Bobbed Hair" the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, now at the American theatre, is a picturization of the popular novel written by twenty well known authors.

How the book came to be written is told in entertaining fashion by Marguerite Aspinwall, who acted as a sort of liaison officer among them all, picking up lost clues, keeping track of geographical positions and seeing that enthusiasm didn't lead to the cast's growing over-crowded.

"The idea of producing a composite mystery novel of twenty chapters, each chapter to be written by a well known author," says Miss Aspinwall, "originated with Mr. George Palmer

Putnam. After he had interested the twenty authors of his choice in the idea, it naturally remained for one person—quite outside of the actual collaborators—to keep a watchful eye on the trend of the story. I happened to be the one chosen for the work.

"Until about the middle of the book, the writer had a free hand in building the plot, each one, of course, receiving carbon copies of all the chapters preceding his; but about that time they voted to have a skeleton outline of the rest of the story made, and allotted to them, chapter by chapter.

"By gathering together the clues to date, taking into account what we had already decided the end must be, I managed to work out a rough synopsis, which I submitted to them for approval.

"My thanks to every one of the twenty, here and now, for the fine

spirit of team-work they showed! While entirely ready to give all the credit in the world to everyone else's ideas, there wasn't one who hadn't some little helpful suggestion of his or her own to slip into place—for all the world like fitting the pieces into a picture puzzle.

To The People

Irreconcilables in the senate, defeated, talk of starting a campaign now to take the country out of the world court into which the United States will enter as a result of last night's vote in the upper house, when American adherence was approved, 76 to 17. They may think better of that, on reflection.

"Carrying the issue to the people" may bring them disappointment. There should be little doubt, among open-minded observers, as to what the public thinks about this matter. Many organizations, political, economic, financial, social, religious and educational, have declared for the court, with suitable reservations. A recent census of American newspapers showed four-fifths of them for the court.

In fact, there is little uncompromising opposition to this step toward international justice and world peace.

Cloture In The Senate

Cloture—the closing of debate by two-thirds vote—is a dreadful thing, according to Senator Blease, of South Carolina.

"If the gag rule is applied in the senate," he declared just before cloture was adopted as the only way to reach a vote on the world court, "the day is going to come when, instead of the senate being a great open forum, it will become like some other legislative bodies where the only consideration given measures is in committee."

"If these states want now to put a gag on me and those standing with me in this great battle, in which we believe we are right, you may have the power to do so; but you will set a precedent that will break down the whole principle of debate in this senate."

The public is inclined to think that senate debate ought to be broken down. This was supposed to have been accomplished when the cloture rule was first authorized, as a necessary recourse in emergencies.

What the senate needs most is to stop being an "open forum" and start being a legislative body. It will never serve the purpose intended by the constitution until it comes to regard legislation as more important than oratory, team work more important than individual whim and the rule of the majority more important than the rule of the minority.

Equal Rights For Working Women

Organized feminism is heard from again, at a national gathering of feminine leaders in Washington for an industrial conference. And a curious situation develops.

The conservatives and radicals divide. The former, working in harmony with the women's bureau and the department of labor, want safeguards thrown around women in industrial work, comparable with the safeguards that modern civilized society seeks for its children. The radicals, ignoring these agencies, demand direct action on a basis of absolute equality in industry for men and women.

This branch of the feminist movement, represented by the National Woman's party, insists that women want no coddling, that they are as capable of looking after their own interests individually and privately as men are, that they want the same industrial rights and privileges of men. They want the eight-hour day along with the men, and they want to go into any occupation they choose, by day or night, and they want to work overtime when they are so inclined. They have as good a right to put in long hours in the factory, they say, as they have in the kitchen.

So these militant women propose to demand an amendment to the federal constitution guaranteeing them all these masculine rights.

Will they also amend the physical constitution that nature has given them, to qualify for their industrial equality?

Poor Forest Economy

Wherever there is great natural wealth there is great national responsibility to conserve it and to use it thriftily. Canada suffers as greatly from forest fires as this country. Yet it spends on fire protection, according to an official, only an amount equal to two-tenths of 1 per cent of the total estimated value of its standing forests. It is a poor sort of forestry economy.

On both sides of the border the public is beginning to rouse itself to the need of reforestation. Hundreds of communities in the United States are establishing local forests and the government is setting aside for permanent maintenance national forests and parks. But the general attitude toward fire-prevention remains indifferent. Campers continue to be careless about their fires and the appropriations for fire-fighting remain low in proportion to the value of the timber tracts needing protection.

This is something for every citizen to think about, both those who got into the forests for business or pleasure and those who have it in their power to strengthen the means of protecting the forests.

Public sympathy seems to be with Vice President Dawes. Senate filibusters annoy the public, too; but Dawes has to listen to them.

If the prison population's any criterion, Texas is a mighty law-abiding state.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Catching the eye of million-footed New York is an art that pays golden dividends. Behold the window dresser! We used to laugh at the man who draped waxen ladies behind window curtains. He was a topic of vaudeville and comic weekly jest.

He was generally a blond and slightly effeminate young man, as thin as a flue. Today the window dresser is considered an artist, and in some instances is paid $25,000 a year. He has a corps of assistants and tours European capitals for ideas.

Windows used to be dressed semi-monthly and the big splash was around the holidays. Now windows are decorated three and four times a week, and in many cases daily. Thousands of dollars are spent weekly and effects achieved are worthy of Belasco and Ziegfeld.

Many small and exclusive shops on Fifth and Madison avenue depend almost entirely upon their window display for patronage. As an example of the pulling power it is cited that one window blown in by a storm resulted in a total suspension of patronage until it was repaired.

A novel given a window display in a certain chain of drug stores in New York will almost invariably make it one of the best sellers of the week in the city. The mah jong and crossword puzzle books are said to have received the first impetus of popularity through window displays.

Yet it has been discovered the pantomime performance of a window demonstrator rarely increases sales. Passersby will stop to watch and usually bulge the sidewalk, but will not go inside to buy the article demonstrated. They are seized by fear of being thought a Rube.

Very few high class jewelry establishments will run the risk of an expensive exhibit. The rewards for the daring and successful thief are too great, yet they say if they could display their most expensive baubles their business would be greatly increased.

The tragedy of failure seems to fall heaviest on those who pursue music as a career. There is an agency that furnishes singers, pianists and violinists for private home teas. Most of the performers are those who just missed fame and fortune. The field for operatic and concert work is small and as those who have failed have usually spent their all in pursuit of their studies they are forced to take whatever comes along.

One of the best short stories ever written was by Charles R. Barnes about 15 years ago. It was a true story, although the names were fictitious. The plot concerned a young girl from a small town whose parents mortgaged the home to cultivate her voice. A shy teacher promised an operatic career when he knew her voice was mediocre. She wound up singing mawkish tunes in a cabaret. One night the teacher came in. She went to his table, as was the custom in those unhalloved days, and said, "Meet your pupil and don't laugh!" and then sang her favorite aria he had taught her in her now cracked and gin husky voice. And the next morning they found her floating in the Hudson.

New York was nicknamed Gotham by Washington Irving in his Knickerbocker History. Hotels, apartment houses, banks, theaters and what not have been named in honor of the odd sobriquet. The men of the original Gotham in England were wise men or fools, as you please. The original Gotham is seven miles from Nottingham. The present population is 1,066. The men of Gotham, mostly farmers, are employed in the gypsum mines, which furnish England's plaster floors and ceilings. There is a legend that

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A New Reclamation Policy

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.—It is estimated that there are approximately one billion acres of arable land in the United States, barely half of which have been converted into improved land. There are 452,000,000 acres never brought under the plow.

Much of this vast uncultivated area consists of neglected, exhausted, or abandoned lands, or cut-over lands capable of being brought into agriculture. Millions of acres are located outside of the arid and semi-arid regions of the west. A considerable portion is to be found at the gates of the great cities of the East and Central states.

Within sight of the city of Washington, or readily accessible from the city, are thousands of acres of neglected lands in Virginia and Maryland, worn out and abandoned, yet susceptible of regeneration. In North Carolina 22,000,000 acres of the State's 31,000,000 acres are unimproved. Only 8,000,000 acres are in farms. Of 19,500,000 acres in South Carolina only 5,000,000 acres in 1924 were crop land. Tennessee cropped less than 8,000,000 of her 26,000,000 acres.

In the New England States several million acres of land have reverted to pasture. Of the 3,000,000 acres in Connecticut 497,435 acres were harvested in the last year for which figures are available. Vermont harvested 1,124,000 acres. Added to this were approximately 1,000,000 of unimproved land lost to agriculture through non-use, while the pasture lands in this State total 2,175,000 acres. New Hampshire cropped but 542,846 acres out of 2,262,000 acres in farms. The pasture lands in this State aggregate over 1,000,000 acres. Maine, with 5,164,000 acres in farms, cropped only 1,659,000 acres. Similar proportionate conditions exist in other States in this section of the country.

Great forests have been razed in Mississippi, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota during the last half century. The land lies idle. The soil in some localities requires only stumping to prepare it for the plow. Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, and Kentucky also contain neglected land and waste areas that might be utilized.

Sermon by Secretary Work

These are facts marshalled by Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work in what might be termed a sermon on the text, "This is a big country and we need to develop agriculture nearest the point of consumption."

Reclamation for a growing nation of 110,000,000 people should, from now on, he says, include recapture and restoration of lost soil fertility, beginning in the East, to feed the great cities it has built, and spreading west, following the necessity for it. Federal reclamation is no longer limited to a question of impounding water. The Government has demonstrated that it can hire engineers, buy material and build dams, but the Government cannot buy people or impress citizens for agriculture. Farming must be made attractive by being made profitable through accessibility to markets and an intensive diversity that will avoid possible crop failures.

The major portion of the unutilized land in the East can be readily reclaimed, the Secretary of the Interior points out. Much of it awaits only the plow. Other portions need clearing of second growth. In most of these States are thinly-peopled regions, the inhabitants living on a soil skimmed of its cream, that with fertilizer may be made productive. Large communities with their concentrated populations afford a ready market for food products from these lands, with short truck hauls and consequent low rates for transportation. The reclamation of the East is invited by the big wages in the cities, which mean consumers with money to spend, by the paved roads leading into those cities, cheap gasoline, and auto cars.

The de-forested lands of Mississippi, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota are within easy shipping distances of New Orleans, Birmingham, Atlanta, Memphis, Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, and other centers.

Reclamation of these humid regions does not require the expenditure of millions of dollars for irrigation works. Their water supply comes from the clouds and is spread without cost. The Federal Government has spent $200,000,000 to build irrigation works to provide water for 1,805,000 acres of arid and semi-arid lands in the West. Sixty million dollars will be required to complete these works and a like sum is to be spent in proposed new projects. Expenditure of lesser sums for fertilizers in the restoration of exhausted lands would make quick returns and eliminate the long haul.

A Similar Problem

"The same problem facing the Federal reclamation in the West, of attracting settlers and assisting them financially in erecting homes," continues Secretary Work, "applies to the East in providing fertilizer, buying farm implements, and establishing attractive agricultural communities. The question is whether we can settle agricultural communities by supplying social attractions which towns and cities provide, or must we wait for a dearth of city employment and higher prices of farm products to compel farm labor, and must we meet this labor with fertilizer or the dole?"

"How can we open the land to the plow and make it attractive to the plowman? After irrigation works have been built few now want to utilize them. It seems necessary to aid colonization and settlement of the lands under irrigation. It would appear then that the reclaiming of the uncultivated lands in the rain belt of the United States might be easier at less outlay of money."

"Reclamation is a national problem in conversation and should be so treated. It should be applied to the older sections of the United States as well as in the newer ones. We should farm less and farm better. No conservation policy, in its broad sense, that does not deal primarily with the production of human food near to the place of consumption is sound."

Secretary Work calls attention to the authorization by Congress of the expenditure of $100,000 for investigations into the settlement and reclamation of un-peopled, exhausted, and cut-over lands, and says that as yet very little interest has been aroused in the subject. The duty of conducting these investigations devolves upon his Department, and he says that the appropriation will not be expended in experimental colonization schemes on small areas of selected local interests. States have been and will be invited to participate actively in the investigations.

North and South Carolina have already joined with the Federal Government in making surveys of neglected agricultural areas within their borders and have contributed money to be watched by Federal appropriations. "Other States, having wide stretches

RAIL OFFICERS CAN CARRY GUNS

Attorney General Lee Hands Down Ruling on Subject.

A special railway officer, commissioned by the governor, may carry a pistol while in the performance of his duties without a license from circuit court.

An opinion to that effect was prepared by Attorney General H. B. Lee, in response to an inquiry from a Huntington law firm that represent the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company.

In this opinion the attorney general construes section 7-a, chapter 148, of the code, as amended and re-enacted by the legislature of 1925. He calls attention to the main provision of the new law requiring persons who desire to carry pistols, etc., to make application to the circuit court for license, and then quotes: "Provided further, that nothing herein shall prevent railroad police officers duly appointed and qualified under authority of section 31 of chapter 145 of Barnes' code or duly qualified under the laws of any other state, from carrying any such weapon while actually engaged in their duties or in doing anything reasonably incident to such duties;" provided further, he says, that the $10.00 bond is filed.

"It seems clear from this," the attorney general concludes, "that the license provision does not apply to railroad police officers. As further evidence of the fact, you will note that such officers upon filing of bond are permitted to carry weapons whether they are officers commissioned by the governor of West Virginia or commissioned under the laws of other states. Only citizens of West Virginia may be commissioned by the governor of West Virginia. In order to get a license, applicant must show that he is a bona fide resident of West Virginia. You will note from this that the law permits a railroad police officer of another state to carry weapons if proper bond has been filed, whereas such officer could not secure a license in West Virginia unless he happened to be a bona fide resident of the state."

DOLLARS AND CENTS VALUE OF HUMAN BEING IS SOUGHT

Statistical Measure Based Upon Investment Man Represents and His Production Value.

New York.—The dollars and cents value of a human being's existence, taking into consideration the investment he represents and his commercial importance to the world, is being investigated by Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Insurance company, here.

"A man's estimate of the value of his own life may fluctuate widely," said Doctor Dublin. "At one time, he may be willing to sacrifice all his worldly goods to save his skin, and at another time, as suicide statistics show, he may value his life at less than nothing. But his family and his business associates and the community at large all have a close interest in his existence, and it is sometimes necessary for courts and insurance companies to set a numerical estimate on the worth of a human life. "The same methods that are used to evaluate manufacturing plants can be applied to the individual. We have to reckon the cost of installation, running expenses, and a sinking fund against the time of expiration. On the credit side of the account we have such items as current earnings, unpaid services rendered, participation in the upkeep of population, and so forth."

YOUR HEALTH

Ulcers in Mouths of Babies Are Due to Wrong Feeding

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I ASKED a young farmer friend of mine about his baby. "He has the sprue," he replied. This is the name commonly given in the country to sore mouth of babies.

Real sprue is a disease of the tropics and of the Orient. It has inflammation and ulcers of the tongue and mouth lining as symptoms. In this respect it is not unlike the symptoms of what the doctors call "aphthous sore mouth" or "stomatitis." The same word is used for the condition known to the medical profession as "thrush." This is simply another form of stomatitis.

The simple type of stomatitis is met in all the age groups. In grown people there may be a single ulcer or a crop of them. These are known as cankers.

Aphthous stomatitis is recognized by the tiny swollen spots on the lining of the lips and cheeks and on the edge of the tongue. At first they are like little blisters, but pretty soon they break, leaving small ulcers.

Thrush differs from aphthous sore mouth. Instead of the ulcers, a sort of membrane forms on the lining of the lips and cheeks and also on the roof of the mouth. There are areas slightly raised above the surface, and in color are partly white. It is possible to scrape off the membrane which cannot be done in aphthous stomatitis.

All these disturbances of the mouth and tongue are due primarily to uncleanliness or to wrong feeding. They are rare in well-developed and usually healthy babies. On this account, poorly nourished and debilitated children are more liable to attack.

Prevention is better than cure in respect to all human ills. But it is doubly true of the most common digestive ailments of children. Ninety per cent of the disabilities of babies can be traced to the lack of simple precautions necessary to proper infant feeding.

Unclean spoons, unclean feeding-bottles, unclean utensils used in the preparation of the feedings, uncleanliness of mother's fingers—some form of neglect is at the foundation of the trouble.

Let me say at once that I am never wilful or knowing neglect. I am invariably it is due to lack of knowledge. Mothers are the most wonderful of God's creatures, and whenever they are taught, they never neglect to apply the most studied attention to the needs of their babies.

Just now we will not consider how to prepare the food and what to feed. I shall advise you what to do if Baby's mouth gets sore.

An alkaline mouth wash is useful. Lime-water or a solution of bicarbonate of soda can be used. Add one teaspoonful of the soda to a glassful of water. Or borax may be employed in the same proportion.

A piece of soft cloth or the finger wrapped with absorbent cotton may be used to wash the little mouth. This must be done tenderly because it is very sore. This treatment is repeated every hour or two.

DR. COPELAND

The food intake must be regulated and the doctor will prescribe a proper treatment to build up the general health.

Answers to Health Questions

MR.—A. G. Q.—What can I put on my daughter's nails to break her of the habit of biting them?

A.—Try painting the nails with tincture of aloe. This has a very unpleasant taste and should be effective in breaking the habit.

J. S. Q.—What would you advise for a pain in the back which is sometimes so severe as to cause the knees to become weak? I am just as tired in the morning as when I go to bed at night.

A.—Probably due to severe strain or lumbago. Try application of heat and massaging with a good liniment. If this does not benefit the condition, have your back strapped. This is usually effective. Try to improve your general health and you will benefit generally.

THANK YOU. Q.—What causes a pain in the eyeball and a black spot appearing before the vision?

A.—This is a condition which should have the attention of a competent specialist, so that the proper procedure may be advised. Properly fitted glasses will probably correct the trouble.

Indiscretion in diet for a long time, failure in kidney functioning and constipation are all more or less responsible for high blood pressure.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicine, hygiene and domestic subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally in a self-addressed, stamped envelope if enclosed. About 150 colored patients will be removed on February 1 from the Western State hospital to the new hospital for negro insane at Lakin, Mason county, it was announced by James S. The patients will be accompanied by their attendants and by other colored employees of the Western institution who will become identified with the administration of the new hospital.

At the first of the year there were 235 negroes, 132 males and 103 females, at Weston. All the women and from one-third to one-half of the men will be transferred. The others will remain where they are until a new building is provided. From 50 to 75 white women will be transferred also on February 1 from Weston to the Spencer State hospital because of the overcrowded condition at the former institution.

Dr. Constance C. Barnett of Huntington is the superintendent of the hospital at Lakin.

Don't dose a Child's Cold

CHILDREN hate to be dosed with medicine. Vicks VapoRub relieves colds, without dosing, in two ways at once. When rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime:—

(1) It is vaporized by the body heat and inhaled right to the inflamed air passages and lungs;

(2) At the same time it acts through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the pain, tightness and soreness.

New Source Foreseen for News-Print Supply

Madison, Wis.—A source that will give a plentiful supply of news-print paper at lower cost has been found by the forest products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin.

Successful experiments conducted by the laboratory have resulted in the production of paper from eucalyptus wood grown in Sao Paulo, Brazil. A small roll run through the press of a newspaper here showed favorable printing qualities and ample strength for use in high-speed presses, experimenters said.

Dr. Edmundo Navarro de Andrade, who observed the experiment, said he believed that the new product would bring paper manufacture into prominence in Brazil. The paper can be produced at about half the cost of the present imported news print, the laboratory estimated.

The eucalyptus can be grown in Cal.

NO FIGURES ON SCOUT DRIVE

Reports to be Made at Meeting Friday Night.

Although actual figures are still lacking on yesterday's Boy Scout campaign efforts, committee leaders in charge of the drive in Wellsville today expressed the opinion that the $1,200 quota would be obtained.

First definite reports on the campaign will be made at a meeting of teams, workers and committee members on Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall building.

More than a score of team captains and their workers started a city wide canvass yesterday for the city's share of the $10,000 which is being raised in the county for the promotion of a Boy Scout program.

A captain has been assigned to sections of the city as mapped out by the organization. The various districts probably will be canvassed by the teams at their convenience.

Letters to Editor

Hospital Patient's Appreciation. Elyria, Ohio, January 26, 1916. Editor Review-Tribune, East Liverpool, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

Having been admitted to the Memorial hospital at Elyria on August 3, 1925, and having been closely confined ever since I feel that it is my duty through the columns of your paper to express my thankfulness to those who have been so kind to me since leaving my home located about five miles west of Irondale.

Since entering the institution which I have found to be a fine one, I have met with various children from all parts of Ohio. The majority of them are cripples, who have been in the past and are today being greatly improved by doctors, who are specialized in orthopedic cases only.

Gates hospital, which is a short distance from the Memorial hospital, gets its name from the founder of it and in that hospital all the orthopedic cases, under the age of 14 years are taken care of. Older children are treated at the Memorial hospital.

Both hospitals under careful construction have been built so as to obtain the very best results for the children patients. For instance the Gates hospital is equipped with a sun porch while here we have a sun parlor, each serving not only for sun treatment but for recreational purposes. Gates also has its school room in the basement where each child, if able, attends. Those who are confined to their beds are taught in their rooms, thereby enabling us to prepare for our vocational calling and at the same time speed along the road to recovery.

I want to thank the teachers of the Irondale high school, where I was a student last year, for the good I have obtained as a result of their teachings, and also the students for their kindness. I wish them continued success during the school term of 1926, not only in their school work but recreational activities as well.

As for our recreation here we consider reading the most important one, along with a few games. We often amuse ourselves by watching the various things which other children are doing about the hospital—coasting and skating.

Our Christmas here was made as bright as possible, many things taking us by surprise. Each hospital had a Christmas tree, decorated very nicely. Gifts were provided each of the children. Toys were furnished the younger tots. The various clubs in Elyria cooperated in the celebration.

I want to thank all those who sent me presents and cards during the Christmas season. Each one was greatly appreciated.

I also want to thank all of those who expressed interest in me during the time that I was confined in the East Liverpool hospital.

Letters and Questions About Health

By Dr. Lewis Baker and Associates

An Advertisement Informing The Public in a Common-sense Manner How To Distinguish The Simpler Ailments And Symptoms, And The Right Remedies For Treatment. Each Medicine Possesses The Highest Qualities For The Purpose Intended.

Sometimes, small crystals form in the tubules of the kidneys, creating irritation and producing the sensation of "Backache." Often these crystals are formed in the bladder, producing pains and irritation very annoying to the person. The imperfect secretion of the urinary product also accounts for burning, stinging sensations while frequent calls at night disturb the sleep and rest, required to renew energy. Elderly persons often have to arise from three to a dozen times to get a temporary relief from such distress.

For such trouble I recommend a compound of diuretic, soothing, sedative agents, Balmwort Tablets which act promptly in almost every case, producing a normal flow of urine, strength and a general feeling of well being.

R. B. J. writes: "I have a trembling of the nerves and a 'shaky' sensation in arms and legs which annoys me greatly. I am in a nervous, run-down state, with poor appetite. Don't sleep well and am both weak and easily irritated all the time." Answer: If constipation is one source of your trouble, take Sulphur tablets as a liver and bowel tonic, while taking Cadomene tablets as a tonic for the blood and nerves. They may be taken at the same time.

Mrs. A. C. writes: "My two children have been out of school for two weeks because of a severe cold and cough. Nothing we have used has seemed to help them and I write for advice." Answer: Obtain essence Menthon-Laxene and dilute it with sugar syrup or honey. Give this to your children every hour or two. This is being used by thousands of mothers, because it is quickly effective and contains no opiates, chloroform, or narcotics to upset the little stomachs.

R. L. J. writes: "I am suffering with terrible rheumatism pain and want a safe relief without morphine or kindred drugs." Answer: Ask druggist for 5-grain Sul-thol tablets (pronounced soothe-all). Contain no opiates or narcotics, but act quickly in relieving pain, headache, etc.

Answer to Miss R. C.: Perspiration odors, armpit odors, foot odors, are readily banished and prevented by the regular use of medicated Chex soap for toilet and bath. It has elusive fragrance, but no medical odor, is beautifying to the skin because of its high quality and unusual medication.

Answer to A. R.: For nasal catarrh apply Menthon-Laxene Salve in nostrils morning and night. This salve is useful in preventing colds in the head and should have a place in every home.

Note: Dr. Lewis Baker, Medical Director of The Blackburn Products Co., 312 College Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, will send his valuable guide to Health and Beauty, to any address upon receipt of 10c. Coin The trustworthy medicines advised, can be obtained at all leading druggists.

Sulphur Drives Pimples Away

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Master Isaac Zimsky, 1 Rogers St., writes: "I am writing of the benefits I received from using Sulphur Tablets and I recommend them to all who suffer from pimples (acne) boils, constipation, etc. In the last two years my face was badly covered with pimples and my blood was poor. I read about Sulphur and when I had finished the second box my pimples had disappeared entirely. I ate better and seemed to be getting along wonderfully, etc."

Nasal Catarrh Benefited

PATERSON, N. J., Mrs. A. Zimsky, 647 E. 23rd St., writes: "The children and myself are using Menthon-Laxene Salve for nasal catarrh and we breathe much more freely, etc."

Common Troubles Corrected

NEWARK, N. J., Mrs. J. E. White, 34 Chestnut St., writes: "I am a woman over forty. Was troubled with a scant flow of urine. After taking two large boxes of Balmwort Tablets the flow became normal, as it should and I feel very much benefited and wish to recommend it, etc."

"Night" Coughing Gone

CHICAGO, ILL., Mrs. Joseph Balaban, 55 W. Ohio St., writes: "My husband and baby had a choking cough that nothing we could find helped, and I was in despair for want of sleep. One bottle of Menthon-Laxene—It's not all gone, but the coughs are, and for the first time in weeks we all sleep. I was bothered with constipation until I used the Canco-Royal Pills, and now I am regular every day. These products will always have a regular place in our medicine chest, etc."

Tonic-Medicine Brought Strength

NEW YORK CITY, Mr. E. Prete, 119 W. 16th St., writes: "I am 33 years old and married. Working as a waiter and for a long time suffering indigestion, I became all run down. After using Cadomene tablets, I can be on my feet 12 hours, go home and feel like enjoying life. Before I took Cadomene tablets I would be all in and could not even talk to my wife. Now my wife tells me I look like a young man again and full of pep, etc."

Chex Soap—"Above Any"

WACO, TEXAS: A Physician endorses Chex as follows: "We find Chex to be a high grade toilet and deodorant soap and think no better could be made. By test it is far above any we have ever used, etc."

BELGIUM BOWS HEAD IN HONOR OF CARDINAL

All Classes Pay Sobbing Homage to Mercier.

KING MOURNER

Thousands Line Streets of Brussels as Funeral Passes.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 28.—All Belgium bade her beloved Cardinal Mercier farewell today.

Within the austere cathedral of St. Gudule, its contours hidden by billowing miles of crepe, all classes gathered to pay their sobbing last homage to the heroic divine whose voice raised in defiance of the destroying German invaders had won the plaudits of a universe.

Except for the queen, confined to her bed because of an attack of grippe, all members of the royal households were present. Behind the king were the clergy, the high government officials, the diplomatic representatives of all nations, and all the every day Belgians from peasant to shopkeeper who could crowd into the church.

Five Thousand in Cathedral.
The body of the Cardinal, reposing in a simple lead casket, rested on an enormous catafalque surrounded by a triple row of huge candles. The interior of the church was lined with purple velvet. Attached to the oak-covered exterior were seven massive bronze handles, and a plain mahogany cross, and bronze plaque with the inscription:

"Desire Joseph, Cardinal Mercier, sixteenth archbishop of Malines, died January 23, 1926, in the seventy-fifth year of his life, the fifty-second year of his priesthood, the twentieth of his reign as a primate of Belgium."

While five thousand were seated within the cathedral, thousands more unable to enter pressed against the heavy outer doors. The ceremony within St. Gudule was short and severely simple. The requiem mass was chanted by a mixed sextet and the funeral oration was pronounced by Monsignor Evrard, dean of the cathedral.

On the road between East Liverpool and Lisbon traffic was not suspended. No Coal Shortage.

The Ohio Bell Telephone company office reported little damage from the storm. One or two of the toll lines are reported to have been disabled, but other lines are in working order.

In order to conserve the supply for domestic consumers, the Manufacturers' Light & Heat company today placed a ban on the use of gas for industrial purposes.

"We have plenty of pressure for the homes," said T. H. Stephens, manager of the local office. "Potteries must not light further kilns until there is some abatement of the cold weather."

This is the second time this year that the gas company has been forced to put a ban on gas in the potteries. Coal dealers reported many orders, but said deliveries are being made promptly. There is no shortage of coal.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—With the mercury hovering around two degrees above zero at 11 a. m. here today, the government weather bureau announced that below zero temperatures might be expected by Friday morning. A sharp biting wind made the cold more intense.

70-Mile Gale in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 28.—Riding on the crest of a 70-mile gale, which caused the snow that fell during the night to pile in drifts in some cases several feet high, the mercury in Cleveland had dropped to four degrees above zero today in the third cold snap of the present winter.

The storm, breaking with unexpected suddenness, stalled hundreds of automobiles, some of which were abandoned on the streets by their owners. A terrific jam, caused by cars skidding on the snow-covered streets or stalling in the drifts resulted on the west side, and police worked for hours during the early morning hours in untangling the jam. Edgewater Park boulevard, running along the shore of Lake Erie, was closed by police order, while the jam was being straightened out.

Snow plows were operated by the Cleveland Railway company throughout the night in an effort to keep the car lines open for traffic.

Cold Wave Grips West.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The entire mid-west was gripped today in the coldest of several cold waves this month. Sweeping out of Alaska a high pressure area drove the mercury down to 15 to 40 degrees below zero in Canadian provinces and the northwest.

The thermometer took a dive to five below zero in Chicago, and a 48-

Two-Week Evangelistic Meet Opens In Baptist Church

Rev. Mel Morris, of Greensboro, Md., Preaches Before Large Crowd on "Ye Old Time Revival."

Rev. Mel Morris, Greensboro, Md., "old-time religion evangelist," opened a two weeks series of special meetings in the First Baptist church, West Fifth street, last evening, preaching to a packed house. Rev. Mr. Morris is district superintendent of evangelism in the Delmar peninsula, which embraces four counties in Maryland and Delaware.

For his opening discourse last evening, Rev. Mr. Morris spoke on the subject, "Ye Old Time Religious Revival." Tonight his subject will be

Rev. Mel Morris

"Two Preachers in Jail." Special music was rendered in connection with last night's service and will be featured again this evening. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the church is assisting in the service.

In his sermon last evening, Rev. Mr. Morris said:

"The world needs a genuine, deep-seated, widespread, spiritual awakening. The general condition of affairs is proof of the truth of this statement. Anarchy lifts its red flag and there is unrest everywhere. Industrial strife, race prejudice, greed, lust, political jealousy, murder, theft, divorce and indifference to religion, are matters of everyday news in the press of this country. Sin and lawlessness are rife in the world. The world is sitting on the edge of a volcano. Satan is leading on, seeking to make the world a howling wilderness."

"The church is swamped with revivals that leave out righteousness and the witness of God's spirit. She is looking askance at the multitude of societies, conferences, syndicates of piety, aggregation of instrumentalities and plans, that make one think of the problem. She is troubled with experiments, theories and activities, all intended for her good, but few or none of them usable in the state she is in now."

"She wants her borders enlarged and convert multiplied, but is wary of those new-fangled incubators that hatch out hundreds at a brood, and all too weak to cackle, crow, or roost out of doors."

"The need of the hour is not more education, recreation, education or reformation. The need of the hour is more religion. We need a nation wide revival of the old fashioned undiluted, uncompromised, pure, clean, full, perfect and complete religion of Jesus Christ, from the halls of Congress to the factories, mines and forests."

"In short we need a revival of religion which will make every man and woman strive in every act of life to do that which on the great judgment day they will wish they had never done, as with soul uncovered they stand before the judgment bar of the Eternal Judge."

A mile wind which whipped over Lake Michigan and the Chicago district caused boats to run for cover and seriously interrupt highway and rail communication in some isolated sections of the mid-west.

The mercury reached its lowest point, officially, at the Pas, Manitoba, where the government thermometer registered 40 below. Duluth, Minnesota, with 30 below, and Fargo, North Dakota, recording 20 below, were among the coldest spots.

While but little snow fell at most mid-season points, gales whipped it into drifts which stalled many highway buses and slowed up train schedules.

Fifty fire alarms were reported in Minneapolis within a few hours after the mercury started a 35-degree dip last night to 19 below at 7 o'clock this morning.

Tonight will see the worst of the cold wave past, the weather bureau promises.

the world court, outnumbered ten or twelve to one, will know it, when he takes his seat as the joke of that court.

Great is the power of courageous initiative. You understand how Alexander with his handful of men could scatter the gigantic Persian army, including the Persian war elephants, when you read about the Italian bulldog of Turin.

This animal, not liking the appearance of five elephants in a circus parade, dashed at them and bit one of them on the soft, tender end of its trunk. Away went the five elephants, galloping and trumpeting in all directions. One of the frightened creatures was found jammed in the entrance of a stairway.

That bulldog had confidence in himself, and that is a wonderful quality. Too bad this nation and this administration lack that confidence. George Washington had it. And for that reason this is not a British colony.

A gathering of religious gentlemen, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, met to discuss the injection of religion into public schools. The meeting, naturally broke up in a row, when somebody suggested as a compromise reading the Ten Commandments out loud every day.

One lady from the National Security league objected to "Thou shalt not kill," saying it is "pacifist propaganda."

Before the meeting was over Catholic gentlemen said their church had been insulted. Protestants said that Jesus Christ had been insulted. A few atheists present smiled. Why not leave religion out of public schools, as we leave it out of government? Must that American plan be changed?

Dr. John Lester, speaking to college men, says snobbishness rules. Boys from public high schools are rejected by university examining boards, boys from expensive private schools are favored.

Private school applicants for college examinations have increased 23 percent, applicants from public high schools have fallen off 20 percent.

That annoys pure democracy. You need not pity the high school boys. They go into real life and in nine cases out of ten are more fortunate than those that devote four years to "rah-rahing" and come out of college four years behind the procession.

Writes Thanks from Venice
People who suffered from serious diseases that started with a simple cold or cold realize the importance of checking them right at the start. W. H. Gray, Venice, California, writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is wonderful for attacks of coughs and colds." "Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gives quick relief from coughs and colds. Buy a bottle today and keep it on hand for the slightest emergency. Satisfaction guaranteed. Sold everywhere."

In addition to the $2,748 collected by the two divisions, the executive committee reported $1,975. This was divided, bringing Dr. Bode's total up to $2,390.50 and that of Attorney Stevenson's unit to $2,332.50. The executive committee consisted of T. E. Lewis, W. H. Voder, Malcolm Thompson, Edwin Wells, J. M. Wells, Charles Boyce, Hugh McNeil, Fred B. Lawrence, M. J. Lynch and James S. Hilbert.

Campaign Chief Thanks Workers
T. E. Lewis presided at last night's meeting. He extended his thanks to the workers for their efforts, to the contributors and to all others who co-operated in making the drive a success.

A unanimous vote of thanks was extended The Review-Tribune for the publicity given during the campaign.

Harry Wilson, county scout executive, tentatively outlined his program in the county and the two West Virginia communities—Chester and Newell.

He said that scouting work in this district will be conducted along organized lines in the future. Troops, once organized, will never be disbanded, he declared.

"My goal for 1926," said Wilson, "is 20 scouts for every 1,000 persons in every town under my jurisdiction. I cannot do this job myself but must have the co-operation of the leading men in every community. Scoutmasters must be trained to lead the troops. Furnish me with competent leaders as scoutmasters and I'll furnish you with more boys than you can take care of."

The speaker also pointed out the need for a summer scout camp where boys may be trained in outdoor life. He also lauded the workers for their efforts asserting that he never saw a drive for funds put across more enthusiastically than in East Liverpool.

CROWD HEARS REV. M. M. BUSSEY

Nazarene Church Revival Will Close Sunday.

Large crowds are attending the closing week of the revival services at the Church of the Nazarene, St. Clair and Lincoln avenues. The services are in charge of Rev. M. M. Bussey, New Jersey evangelist.

Last night the evangelist spoke on the subject "The Greatest Conflict of the Ages." Sixteen persons were at the altar at the close of the service. Tonight he will deliver one of his most famous sermons, "The Glorious Beginning of Man." The special meetings will close Sunday.

In his last night's service, Rev. Bussey said:

"Every age has had its wars between man and man, but the conflict which lives through all the centuries is that between right and wrong. Sometimes men are able to effect terms of peace, but there is no compromise between God and the Devil. You must defeat sin through the power of Christ or have sin defeat you and bring your soul to eternal ruin."

"None are neutral in this war. The devil was defeated by the powers of heaven in the first conflict in which he engaged. He is a defeated foe from the beginning. The devil was the first sinner, and the beginning of his sin was pride. This sin lurks deep rooted in the human heart."

"God has no other remedy for sin except the Gospel of the New Testament. All wrong is as certainly doomed to defeat as there is a God on the throne."

"Satan, sin and sinners will certainly be cast into hell and there will be a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. Men may deny these facts, but they cannot change them."

"The death of Christ on calvary is the salvation of every one who is willing to be saved. Those who will not be saved, must of their own accord be lost."

herence, however, claimed their greatest victory in the reservations.

Briefly, these provide that America may withdraw at any time; that no advisory opinion can be rendered concerning any case in which the United States has an interest "or claims an interest," without the express consent of the senate, and no case can ever be submitted to the court's jurisdiction without the consent of two-thirds of the senate.

In this respect, at least, the vote of American adherence to the court represents a backward, instead of a forward step, from American support of the old Hague tribunal, to which the United States has subscribed for a quarter of a century.

"As a matter of fact," one international authority in the senate observed today, "this vote in the senate means no more than a renewal of our adherence to the old Hague tribunal."

Vote Was 76 to 17.
He referred to the fact that under The Hague tribunal, the president could submit a disputed case of arbitration, and in the case of the court, the senate has now taken over the determination of when cases involving American interests shall be submitted to the operation of international justice. It represents a distinct loss for executive power in the handling of international relations, and a distinct gain in power for the senate in its never-ending conflict with the executive branch of the government.

One of the principal effects of the senate's vote, therefore, appeared today to be a material tightening of the senate's grip on the conduct of international relations. Sixty-six senators must consent before the world court can deal with any question in which the United States has, or claims to have, an interest.

There have been few more dramatic moments in senate history than that of last night when the three-year battle ended with a vote.

Wary from the incessant battling of the last six weeks, hoarse from many speeches, nerves frayed and raw from the pin-pricking debate of some subjects, the senate snarled its way to a vote.

It was 76 to 17, fourteen more than the two-thirds necessary to ratify.

Loray, 'Girl With Double Vision,' Visits Review-Tribune

Keith Vaudeville Star, Appearing at American Theatre, Gives Private Performance in Newspaper Office.

Loray, "the girl with a double vision," is featured in the vaudeville bill, which is being offered patrons of the American theatre for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Miss Loray and her manager, Neal B. Navarre, staged a private performance for members of the editorial staff of The Review-Tribune, this morning. Although blindfolded, the "girl" was able to give names, articles of wearing apparel, numerals on a bank note, pages in a book which she had never seen, as well as answers to other baffling questions.

This act is one which has been staged on the Keith-Albee circuit for several seasons.

Miss Loray will appear three times each day during her stay in the city—at the matinee performance and twice during the evening. Three other vaudeville acts and a feature motion picture make up the bill offered for the latter part of the week.

was stated. The seas while turbulent are causing no alarm, they added. "Absolute nonsense," were the words used this morning by the officials of the company to describe the reports that the Olympic was in danger.

The Olympic sailed for Cherbourg at 8:30 last night and has not been heard from since, indicating that all was well, the officials added.

Lloyds interpreted the message as possibly coming from another steamer named Olympic which was reported proceeding to England.

British Freighter Lost.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—A victory and a defeat for man in a mighty struggle with the Atlantic in her most vicious mood were told in radio dispatches today from the liners President Roosevelt and Bremen.

The victory was the rescue of the entire crew of the British freighter Antioch—24 men in all—accomplished by the heroic efforts of the men on the United States line steamship, the President Roosevelt. The rescue cost the lives of two members of the crew of the latter vessel, together with six smashed lifeboats.

The defeat was the sinking of the British freighter Laristan, with 24 on board, in mountainous seas near Halifax while the North German Lloyd steamer Bremen stood by, virtually helpless. Through the determination of the Bremen's crew, however, six men were saved before the Laristan went to pieces.

Lifeboats Smashed.

The sad news of the Laristan's fate was contained in a message from Capt. R. Wurpts of the Bremen. It read:

"Saw the Laristan last evening, in morning only sighting floating on water, and as nothing more was seen it is assumed that the Laristan went down."

Both the Bremen and the President Roosevelt experienced extreme difficulty in keeping the sinking ships in view. The violence of the seas made it impossible for a vessel to stay on a course. The engine rooms of both the Laristan and Antioch were flooded and this disabled their radio and crippled their lighting system. The men clinging to the Antioch used hand lanterns to signal with.

Lifeboats were smashed to kindling by the raging waves, which also made it impossible to get lines aboard the helpless hulks.

Deny S. O. S. Call.
During the night considerable fright was aroused by the circulation of an erroneous report which said the White Star liner Olympic had sent out an S. O. S. The White Star Radio London as well as the Tropical Radio Corporation discredited the report.

The latter announced it had been in communication with the liner Scythia, which is in mid-Atlantic and was informed that the Scythia had got in touch with the powerful radio stations on the coast of Ireland and that neither of these stations nor the Scythia had received any S. O. S. call.

The Olympic sailed for Cherbourg at 8:30 last night.

VISCOUNT KATO DIES IN TOKIO

Japanese Cabinet Resigns as Death Claims Chief.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Viscount Kato, the Japanese prime minister, is dead after an illness of four days, a Central News dispatch from Tokio said today. Kato had been suffering with influenza.

Shortly after the announcement, the cabinet which Kato had headed since June, 1924, resigned. Kato had been active in public life for 30 years, starting his career as a statesman with his appointment in 1894 to the court of St. James. To Kato has been attributed the credit for the Anglo-Japanese treaty signed in 1911 in fulfillment of which Japan declared war on Germany in 1914.

The late premier had been described as the bitterest and most irreconcilable enemy of America's immigration policy.

Beth Merrill, Belasco Show Star Gives Beauty Hints

Leading Lady of "Ladies of Evening" Will Appear in Stage Success at Ceramic Theatre Tonight.

"Every girl who has been born with a normal body and mind can make herself more beautiful by assisting nature to accomplish that seemingly impossible feat," says Beth Merrill, the leading lady of David Belasco's "Ladies of the Evening," coming to the Ceramic theatre Thursday, January 28th. Miss Merrill is fair to look upon. Her skin would send a beauty expert into ecstasy, for it seems as translucent as alabaster. Off the stage, the actress uses no cosmetics whatever. It is to the abstinence from them that she attributes the excellence of her complexion.

"It is impossible to dictate rules that would be suitable for everybody. Unfortunately we are not all born alike, owing to the environment, the habits of ancestors and other causes. But these general rules may be observed by everyone. First, study the laws of nature and obey them. One must learn to take proper care of the body. Proper diet, a rational amount of exercise preferably in the open air and sunlight and then rest. Diet is most important, for women. Too few have sufficient exercise to use up the amount of food they put into their system and the latter soon becomes clogged up and poisoned. Then goodbye to clear complexion and energy. Food that will regulate the functions of the body and furnish nourishment with the least tax on the digestion should be eaten. I eat very little meat. I find

I am better off without it. For the girl who goes in for athletics, sweets are a necessity; for other women they are poisons.

"Mental conditions reflect on the face. Have you ever observed the faces of nuns in cloistered convents? Even in old age they have scarcely a wrinkle and their faces are filled with a spiritual beauty very often. Now and then you come across a woman in the world in whose face there is a charm that is indescribable. You will find there is a beautiful mind behind it. I know one of these women and her children are as beautiful as she is. All her life has been filled with poetry and beautiful thoughts. Her house is filled with beautiful pictures, classic statuary and other objects. The moral is, cultivate both body and mind and you will be amazed how Mother Nature will respond and help you."

MICROBES HOUSED IN A "MENAGERIE"

Germes Fatal to Man, Beast and Plant Found in London Institute.

London.—More deadly than adders, swifter than the tiger, more stealthy than the leopard and in sufficient numbers to lay low all Britain, more than 2,000 "terrors" to man and beast are housed in a Chelsea gardens structure, and thousands pass the building daily unmindful of the lurking death within. Inside the house bacteriologists, and leading surgeons, physicians and scientists of the empire handle the death-dealing "monsters" with a nonchalance that would shock the layman.

It is Menagerie of Microbes, the National Collection of Type Cultures maintained at the Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine, and the "monsters" are listed, labeled and cared for with even greater solicitude than that shown for ferocious animals in the London zoo. In the new catalogue just issued by the Medical Research Council upward of 2,000 living strains of bacteria and protozoa are listed as inmates of this scientific menagerie. The catalogue not only lists the "animals" alphabetically, but includes their scientific names with a complete description of their source and habits. It also gives a list of the subjects with reference to their related organisms.

Special Temperatures.

Just as the wild animals in the zoo require certain temperatures in which to thrive, so do the "exhibits" in the microbe menagerie. Some of the varieties insist upon polar atmosphere, others demand the heat of the torrid zone and others will live only in the balmy winds of the temperate zone. The vagaries and demands of these frequently invisible terrors are met with and precise care taken to see that nothing will interfere with pleasure and comfort.

From all parts of the world scientists and bacteriologists have sent to the Lister Institute the minute "animals" so that the private collection of the institute, long famous, has been so greatly augmented that it is said to surpass any in the world. For years the Pasteur Institute maintained a collection in Paris, another in Prague and yet another in the Museum of Natural History, New York. Each of these, however, were limited in scope, and five years ago the Medical Research Council enlisted the co-operation of the Lister Institute to expand the Chelsea gardens collection to its present size. To it also was added the type culture of fungi gathered by the British Mycological society.

As a result of the move in 1920, it now is possible for any surgeon or physician, any bacteriologist, pathologist or researcher in protozoology, or the scientific adviser of any industry to find in the Chelsea Gardens menagerie living cultures of the majority of the known strains of microbes. Here, too, he can obtain authentic knowledge of the animals with which to compare the organisms in which he is interested.

Last year more than 4,000 cultures were distributed to interested workers. While many of these went to industries, the bulk of them were used to save human and animal lives. The collection is not limited to malevolent organisms, despite the fact that the bulk of cultures are of those that cause disease in man, animals and plants. For instance there are examples of microbial pests of tobacco, which, taken from the finer strains of tobacco, when propagated and isolated may be used to improve inferior varieties. Then there is a mold from Camembert and Roquefort cheese which, when grafted on the plain English cheese, imparts to it the flavor of the foreign varieties.

Few Are Visible.

The naked eye is able to discern few of the "animals" in this compact menagerie. There are some that can be seen and these are relegated to a prominent "cage" in the institute room.

But it is the invisible "terrors" that interest the scientists and bacteriologists. There are more than thirty strains, or species, of the genus Aspergillus in the living state. They were taken from the soy products and used in making pickles in China, from the dust in the London subways, from the mealy bug of the sugar cane and from the wild animals in the London zoo.

Of the tubercle bacillus alone there are more than twenty specimens or strains. Some come from human cases

Evening Wrap Is Designed for Warm Climate

An evening wrap designed for wear in mild climates is pictured above (left and right). White fox fur covers midday's shoulders and arms, while balance of wrap is of silver lace trimmed with rhinestones and heavy glass beads. Heavy satin is used for the gown (center). It is trimmed with rhinestones and is sans shoulder straps, neckband holding the dress in place. With it is worn a rhinestone hair band and cords from shoulder. Miss Blanche Sweet, photoplay star, is the model.

CARILLON OF BELLS MAY BECOME POPULAR IN U. S.

Instrument Used in Low Countries of Europe for Centuries to Promote Love of Music.

New York.—The carillon with clavier as an instrument in civic musical education has been peeling from singing towers in continental low countries for hundreds of years, but it has only lately become better known outside the boundaries of its origin.

Belgium and Holland accepted the bells as a means of cultivating and teaching a love for folk-songs and the great melodies of their fatherland.

The carillon has shared its companionship in all the stirring events in the history of these countries, usually at the public charge. In not a few of the towers the carillon has been played for one hundred years or more.

Nerves-Fits

If you have overstepped the limit and your nerves are unstrung, have terrible nervous spells and in mind and body are on the verge of nervous exhaustion, a single dose of WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER will bring rest, sleep and recuperation. Those who are subject to fits will marvel at its wonderful effect and the many remarkable recoveries reported.

on the same day and at the same hour. While the United States has but fifteen sets of the bells in operation, declares William Gorham Rice, who has devoted a great part of his life to the chronicling of carillons, it nevertheless can boast of the largest in the world. He says no carillon built since the earliest Hemony in 1645 compares in size with the one installed in the Park Avenue Baptist church here by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother.

Rice describes the carillon as a characteristic democratic municipal music in a book published by Dodd, Mead & Co. August Hecksher, New York philanthropist, has offered to present one of the instruments to the city as a World war memorial, if the city will erect a tower in the middle of Central park in which to house it.

The carillon had its origin in a mechanical arrangement of sets of small bells in connection with the clocks which in the Fifteenth century came to be an essential part of the municipal towers of the low countries. It was not long before the mechanism was arranged to play a little tune.

The first modern carillon on the American continent was installed at the Metropolitan church, Toronto. Rice says, and the first in the United States was in the Church of Our Lady of Good Hope, at Gloucester, Mass. Others are at Andover and Cohasset, Mass.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cranbrook and Detroit, Mich.; Morristown, Plainfield and Princeton, N. J.; St. Paul, Minn.; Notre Dame, Ind., and Philadelphia. There are 184 of the instruments in existence.

Has Self Arrested as

Drunk; Dies in Fire

Marshfield, Ore.—Fire which destroyed the Lakeside wooden city hall burned to death Fred Kulja, a boy of twenty, who obtained too much moonshine while attending a dance and, at his own request, was placed in the jail until he hoped to recover.

Coroner Kelzer, who investigated the affair believed that Kulja was smoking and fired his bedding.

The jail burned before the fire was discovered. Kulja was found in the middle of the ruins, with most of the bedding wrapped about his upper body. His legs were burned off to the knees and his arms were also burned to cinders.

Kulja was said to have been drinking for the first time. His request of the night officer to put him away was verified by the officer, Willett.

Sciatic Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint, is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pain which shoots down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The disease is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain.

The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished, all pain and soreness. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and rest in comfort once again. Mathews' Original Cut Rate Store keeps Allenhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

The Wizard Edison

Perhaps no living man today has created more for the benefit of the public than the Wizard Edison, or who has devoted more actual hours to the study and science of electricity. There are many others in the world who have achieved greatness, and whose names will go down into history as inventors, philosophers, scientists, etc. For instance, there is the little army of medical scientists, the chemists, who are eternally studying and experimenting with the various ill-effects of life and medical methods with which to successfully combat them. Back in Columbus, Ohio's Capital City, is a chemist who has devoted many years of study to the human stomach and its various functions, diseases, etc., and who has successfully produced and placed on the market a remedy for stomach ailments, indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver troubles, rheumatism, etc. This remedy is Ka-di-ohk, and is a laxative herbal liquid, pleasant and healthful in its action on the stomach. Thousands who have benefited by its use have testified as to its merits in alleviating and removing the troubles mentioned above, as well as being a great blood purifier.

Mr. Frank Coe, Hager Hills, Ky., says: "My stomach and kidneys were out of order and gave me considerable trouble. I had indigestion, gas, sleepless nights, headaches, and all run down. Three bottles of Ka-di-ohk relieved me of all my misery. I now feel fine all the time."

Ka-di-ohk is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores.

KELANTAN WAXES FAT ON RUBBER

Steeping Climate of Malay State Swathes Hills in Densest Forests.

Washington.—American automobile owners unknowingly helped to pay the award of nearly $2,000,000, which the Malay state of Kelantan recently gave on court order to an Englishman. Kelantan is waxing financially fat on rubber so the treasury probably found no difficulty in compensating the winner of the case, which, among other things, revealed how English commerce penetrated Kelantan back in the eighties and how the state was incorporated into the British empire in 1899.

Kelantan's present prospects and the improvements effected in its government are related in a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Has Mountains Florida Lacks.

"Think of the Malay peninsula as an elongated Florida tacked on southern Asia. Singapore shall be Key West; then the southern boundary of Kelantan is approximately in the position of Orlando and the northern boundary is 150 miles above that, is at Jacksonville, Fla. Kelantan is 60 miles deep, which is a trifle more than half the width of Florida. Since Kelantan lies five degrees from the equator, it would be quite willing to trade mountains for a bit of Florida's latitude.

"Miami had a 14-inch fall of rain recently which seems to put it in the running with Kelantan where over 100 inches fall annually in the plains districts. When the figures are all in Florida's average will be shown only one-third as great. Kelantan's steeping climate swathes its hills in the densest of tropical forests. The jungle is matted above ground and matted below. An American surveyor boring for a bridge pier cut through 100 feet of crushed and rotting leaves and branches to find the bottom obstructed by a rotting trunk of a forest monarch that may have fallen more than a century before.

"Green is a tyrant in Kelantan. A native will cut out a garden plot in the

Marshall Neilan's Picture, "Sporting Venus," at Strand

The real atmosphere of Scotland, London, Deauville and Paris is contained in Marshall Neilan's ploturization of "The Sporting Venus," which opens a three-day engagement at the Ceramio theatre today.

At least it is as real as Neilan could make it, for he packed up his company, cameramen, actors and all, and went to those very spots to film scenes for his production.

A real castle in Scotland—Craigloch, by name—the races at Epsom Downs, the smart resort of Deauville, and various street scenes in London and Paris were transferred to celluloid on Neilan's "longest location trip."

Neilan and the executives of Metro-Goldwyn Mayer decided to take advantage of the fact that the director was forced to go London for an operation by a noted surgeon there and so was able to film the exteriors for his picture right on the spot.

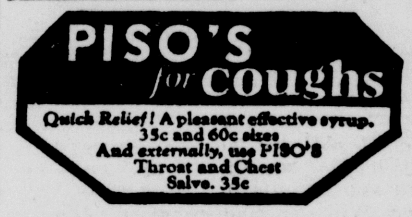

So accompanying him on the trip were his wife, Blanche Sweet, who

FRENCH DISCOVERY IS ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS AND WORKS WONDERS
"If I had not carefully analyzed, tested and seen my own sister reduce and improve her health with SAN-GRINA," says Dr. McAlpine, "I would not be recommending it to my patients today. Dr. Jacoby writes: 'My wife has about finished the SAN-GRINA you sent her, and I wish you could see the wonderful change in her appearance. She never felt better in all her life.' 'I have used SAN-GRINA for my wife,' says Dr. Harris, 'and now recommend it to my fat patients.'"

REDUCE 35 POUNDS

"I weighed 200 pounds," writes Mrs. M. D. Pasquale of Worcester, "and lost 35 pounds. I would like to have another box of SAN-GRINA."

Up to now physicians have rarely advised anything to reduce outside of diets or exercises (both strenuous and inconvenient) because they knew of nothing HARMLESS and EFFECTIVE, but today, in recommending SAN-GRINA, a doctor feels that it is something with real merit, so entirely different from all the advertised fat reducers, that he does not hesitate to advise its use even to his own family. Prominent medical men, such as Dr. Radolph, former Health Commissioner, endorse SAN-GRINA AS THE ONLY SAFE, positive and quick way to slenderize the body. SAN-GRINA is the formula of a French physician. It is put up in a small, convenient tablet, to be taken three times a day. Although only recently introduced in America, SAN-GRINA is now recognized as the most effective treatment for fat people, because—→ IT IS ENTIRELY DIFFERENT FROM ANYTHING EVER OFFERED.
→ IT IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS.
NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC: Beware of worthless imitations. SAN-GRINA is sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded. Do not drag it to day, be sure to ASK FOR AND GET SAN-GRINA.
Sold at all food drug or department stores or you can send direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, New York City.

On Sale at Haddon's, Anderson's, W. & W. Pharmacy or Mathews Medicine Store.

ROAD PROGRAM IS FORMULATED

County Commissioners
Seek Bids on First
Big Project.

Contractors are interested in the road construction program of this county as has been outlined for this year, and as a result letters are being received daily by Clerk L. H. Johnson of the county commissioners' office and also by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk inquiring about the various projects.

The county commissioners Thursday announced their purpose to open bids at 1 o'clock Monday, Feb. 15, for the grading and drainage structures of that section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road in St. Clair and Madison townships, extending from the new graded part of this road north to the Y. & O. sub-station through Cannons Mills and westward to connect with the Lincoln highway at Apples corner. A section of this road from Apples corner east to Cannons Mills has been graded, but from Cannons Mills south to the sub-station grading remains to be done.

This job has been estimated to cost $64,447.18 and has to do with three divisional sections of this new inter-county highway. The contract for the surfacing of this road will be awarded probably after the grading and drainage structures have been completed.

The Holmes Construction company of Wooster was the low bidder for the concrete surfacing of the 3.9 miles of the Cleveland-East Liverpool road in Mahoning county. It has been announced by the state highway department, according to an official report just received by County Surveyor Kirk. The bid for concrete was $115,201.67.

Jesse D. Paxton of Salem entered a bid of $119,136.67 for concrete on this job, but the Salem firm was low on a macadam surface, its bid for this type of construction being $116,667.02.

Since the bid for concrete was the lowest it is believed the state will eventually award the job to the Wooster firm. The Cleveland-East Liverpool road is that part of the Benton road leading north from Salem, and it is the purpose of the state highway department and the county commissioners to improve the short stretch of this road in this county this year.

Two other road jobs are to be awarded by the county commissioners February 8th, this being a section of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in Knox township, and also the Georgetown-Valley road, also in Knox township.

It is the purpose of the state highway department and also the county commissioners to award road contracts as early as possible, so that no delay will result in contractors getting on projects at the earliest moment.

Leon H. Colley, a National bank examiner residing in Cleveland, and a former resident of Jonesboro, Tenn., and Enid Kilbreath, a milliner of Salem, but formerly at Wilkesport, Canada, have been granted a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Miller of Salem.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

Damage Cases Dismissed.

The $1,000 automobile damage case filed in common pleas court by Abraham Burlingame against R. J. Rile has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff. A similar case against Rile, wherein John G. Hart sought $5,000 damages has also been dismissed, with no record of either action to follow. Dismissal of both actions was at the costs of the plaintiffs.

Seek Another Jurist.

Judge E. R. Eastman of Ottawa, who is presiding in common pleas court No. 2, will complete his assignment here February 13, it has been announced by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. Application was made Thursday to Chief Justice Marshall of the state supreme court at Columbus for another jurist to preside in this county when Judge Eastman completes his service.

Sales Ordered.

Leins have been foreclosed and sales have been ordered in the delinquent tax cases pending in common pleas court against Mary M. Scully. Three tracts are to be offered for sale, the taxes delinquent on one tract being $10.53, on a second tract $12 and a third tract $11.99.

Damage Case Settled.

The $2,000 automobile damage action filed in common pleas court by Frank O. Heston, father of Melvin Heston, a minor, against James H. Griffin, has been settled for $200 by a directed verdict by a jury in common pleas court No. 2.

Land Leased.

Omar Powell has taken a lease on 40 acres of the L. V. Stroup farm, near Homeworth, for oil and gas drilling purposes. The lease agreement has been made a matter of record in the office of County Recorder Paul Smith.

Judge Moore Improving.

Decided improvement is reported in the condition of Judge James G. Moore, who has been confined to his home, East Washington street, Lisbon, for the last fortnight.

Sues on Note.

An action to recover $5,000 claimed due on a note has been filed in common pleas court by the First National bank of Chester, W. Va., against the Bucher-Smith Co.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $4,280 has been rendered in common pleas court in favor of the First National bank of Salem against the Porter Rubber company. Execution in this case has been awarded by Judge E. R. Eastman.

PAIGE SHOWS STRIKING LINES

New Models Invade Popular Competitive Field.

A brand new line of Paige sixes, not to be generally introduced until late in February is revealed at the Automobile Show by the Paige-Ohio Co. distributor.

The forthcoming Paige, this advance showing discloses, is new throughout chassis and body, yet retains the striking lines that have long been characteristic of this traditionally beautiful car.

The familiar radiator outline and hood contour remain, modified to conform with the improved chassis and bodies.

The new Paige line will consist of the following models:

Five-passenger sedan, list price $1,495; the five-passenger sedan de luxe, $1,670; seven-passenger sedan, $1,995; and the limousine and touring models, prices not yet fixed.

Heretofore, the Paige has been in a considerably higher price class and now for the first time invades the very popular and highly competitive $1,500-$2,000 field.

One of the most interesting exhibits is the New-Day Jewett, the latest product of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co., a car designed to solve the most problems that have arisen with the tremendous increase in motor traffic.

The aim of the designers was to create a new type of automobile without departing radically from standard American practices. There is, therefore, nothing freakish in the New-Day Jewett. Its adaptability to present day conditions lies rather in the skillful combination of the most desirable tested features without sacrifice of any of the fundamentals.

The qualities combined in this new automobile that fit it peculiarly for modern conditions are listed by its producers as follows:

Compactness in overall dimensions combined with interior spaciousness; quick accelerating powers, balanced with the maximum braking efficiency; high power to insure flexibility in traffic without gear shifting; improved body construction to insure unobstructed vision in all directions; ease of steering and short turning radius, to promote agile action; easy riding and road ability; ease of maintenance, and economy of operation and upkeep.

Compactness was one of the prime features required to meet new day conditions, for the car that cannot turn around readily in narrow streets, that cannot easily slip into short parking spaces or thread its way through crowded streets, it is at a disadvantage today. Yet this compactness had to be attained without sacrificing roominess in the passenger space, comfortable riding, or roadability.

Despite the difficulty of reconciling these two opposing requirements, the New Day designers have produced a car that, compared with the previous well known Jewett models, effects a great saving in overall length, yet has exactly the same roomy inside dimensions. Similarly, there has been no reduction in spring length, the new car using the identical lengths as the previous models—thirty-six inches front, fifty-four inches rear. It has, therefore, actually a greater ratio of spring length to wheel base, with corresponding increase in riding comfort.

This noteworthy saving in bulk has been effected through the use of perfected steel body construction, as well as by the unusually compact power plant and an efficient layout of the clutch, transmission and controls.

The use of steel for the bodies had other important advantages. The show visitor will be instantly impressed with the open appearance of the sedan, an effect given by the unusually large area of glass and the correspondingly small space occupied by the corner pillars, door frames and other uprights. The steel construction enabled the engineers to increase the strength of the body while reducing the bulk and weight of material. The result is utmost "visibility" for the driver and passengers.

MARMON MARKS 75TH BIRTHDAY

Twelve Models Demonstrate Furthest Peak of Achievement.

As a fitting introduction to the celebration of its seventy-fifth anniversary as a manufacturing institution, Marmon enters the Cleveland show this year with a record of achievement unparalleled in the history of the company, and a line of twelve models recognized as incorporating advanced features of design and skilled craftsmanship.

At no time since the foundation of the present Nordyke & Marmon company in 1851 has the success attained by the company's product been as great and gained such world wide attention as has the new Marmon during the past year.

All twelve models of the new Marmon line are mounted on the standard Marmon chassis of 134-inch wheel base on which Marmon has concentrated for years but now including many important new engineering improvements. Outstanding among the cars on exhibit are the four models of the Marmon standard line which sell at exactly open car prices—a merchandising accomplishment in which Marmon is a pioneer. These in-

Hudson-Essex Breaks Record In Sale of 270,000 Cars

Distributors Predict 1925 Drive for Leadership is Forerunner of Larger Season During Year.

Hudson-Essex's spectacular 1925 drive for leadership in the industry— which resulted in a record-breaking total of 270,000 cars, said to be the largest number of "sixes" ever built in a year by a single maker—is the forerunner of an even larger 1926 season, according to R. J. Schunk, president of the R. J. Schunk company and Hudson distributor at Cleveland.

They pointed out that perhaps the leading trend in the industry is toward a moderately sized six-cylinder in closed car in the less-than-$1,000 field. As Hudson-Essex were first in this field with the Essex coach two years ago, and has built and sold more than a quarter million such cars, it naturally expects to be extremely active in helping fill this demand in the coming season.

Automobile trade papers are estimating 400,000 or more Hudson-Essex cars for 1926, which would be a 50 per cent increase over 1925. This would not be at all out of line with the recent record of the company.

Since Hudson-Essex began its drive in the specialized closed car market its growth has been as follows: In 1922 a high mark (up to that time) of 60,000 cars was reached; in 1923 this was increased by nearly 50 per cent to 89,000; 1924 increased this 50 per cent to 128,000, while 1925 more than doubled this exceptional business with nearly 270,000 cars—Hudson-Essex being the only volume producer to double the production of clude a Victoria for four passengers, a five-passenger standard sedan, a five-passenger brougham and a two-passenger coupe. In addition, Marmon present a seven-passenger standard sedan at price only slightly higher than that of the open type cars and a beautiful line of special closed cars slightly more elaborate in detail and a line of de luxe sedans and sedan-limousines for five and seven passengers. Also, three open type cars are included: a low-slung, racy speedster for two passengers with a rumble seat in the rear deck for two passengers, a five-passenger phaeton and seven-passenger touring car.

The twelve Marmon models were produced under the new Marmon program, which has contributed to keep the new Marmon at least six months in advance of present motor car styles, and which is pledged to give to the motoring public constant improvements in body design and engineering practice when such improvements are compatible with sound engineering and artistic craftsmanship.

Marmon has never favored the policy of yearly models. At the helm is G. M. Williams, skilled organizer and able executive, and surrounding him at the factory is a group of men widely known in the automotive industry for their merchandising and engineering genius.

Motor car engineers and motorists, generally, have joined in praise of the improvements recently added, which materially enhance the performance qualities of the car, lengthen its life and decrease its cost of maintenance. Foremost among the improvements is a new system of combustion embodying double fire ignition. Under the new double ignition system two spark plugs are employed for each cylinder, the spark plugs firing simultaneously to ignite the gases in the combustion chamber.

STUTZ SAFETY CAR APPLAUDED

Reported as One of Sensations at Automobile Show.

Nothing like the interest aroused in the new Stutz safety chassis at the Automobile Show has been seen in a decade or more. As a matter of fact, the advent of the first electrically governed starter on the Cadillac at the 1912 exhibition in Madison Square Garden is what the oldest in the automobile business offer as a comparison. The interest is not confined to the passing throngs of curiosity seekers and potential buyers, but to the master minds of the vast automobile industry and their multitudinous following.

President F. E. Moskovic of the Stutz Motor Car Co., by reason of his many years' contact with the automotive industry, early ranks as one of the best informed automobile men in the country. He has been associated with things automotive since the inception of the "horseless carriage" and his words on the advent of this new phenomena on the automobile horizon, as the new Stutz safety chassis undoubtedly is, hold a tremendous world of meaning.

"When in the course of development in any industry and commodity in that industry arises from the common level, and by the sheer weight of its individual value forces almost instant recognition—then, by the inimitable law of justice that commodity is destined to become a leader. The element of time becomes almost secondary," so says Mr. Moskovic.

the previous year. Following the well-known economies of automobile production, Hudson-Essex has signaled its increasing business with a series of price reductions which have set a new standard in the six-cylinder field. Its 1925 cars were offered at actually less than half the price of former years.

At the same time, the Hudson management asserts, the standards of workmanship, material and design have consistently improved despite the lowered prices. One official said: "It is the easiest thing in the world to cut prices, but it is quite another to cut prices and at the same time better the product sold. Our quality and values are now greater than ever before."

The great factors in this program have been volume and specialization. Whereas the usual exhibit at the show has from fifteen to twenty-five body types, Hudson-Essex has only four in its combined showing. All are in closed. The records of the motor car business will show that this is the greatest degree of specialization in the industry, and it is a vital part in the Hudson-Essex idea of economical production. This simplicity of operation is one outstanding answer to the question of where Hudson-Essex has found the possibility of its lowered prices. The compactness of the line also has made it an ideal one for dealers to handle, as only a small amount of capital and display space are necessary.

In this year's exhibit the four cars shown are: The Essex coach, which reached the wide and growing low-priced six-cylinder field; the Hudson coach, which represents similar utility and value on a larger chassis, and the Hudson brougham and seven-passenger sedan, which are built to high standards of luxury.

BUICK'S CARS ARE IN DEMAND

Price Reduction is Cited as Proof of Its Prosperity.

The Ohio Buick Co. is displaying a number of models at the show this year.

It is the eighth consecutive year that Buick has led all members of the N. A. C. C. in dollars and cents business. The volume of business which this eight-year record indicates enabled the Buick Motor Co. to reduce prices radically on the 1926 models, which officials of the company say are the best ever built by Buick. The line includes two valve-in-head engines of sixty and seventy-five horse power, respectively, and three chassis lines.

The standard line is built on a chassis of 114-inch wheel base, and is made up of two open and four closed models, including a two-door sedan. The master line includes ten body styles, four of them mounted on a chassis of 120 inches wheel base. Six models are on the 128-inch wheel base chassis. The latter group includes two sport open cars, a five-passenger brougham sedan, a two-passenger country club coupe, a seven-passenger sedan and a four-passenger coupe. On the 120-inch chassis are two open and two closed models, the latter pair being a two-door and a four-door sedan.

Each car in both the standard and master lines includes all Buick features, such as six-cylinder valve-in-head engines, cantilever springs, mechanical four-wheel brakes, torque tube drive, low pressure tires, Duco finish in new and attractive color combinations, triple seals against dirt, oil filter, air cleaner and gasoline strainer, controllable beam headlights and automatic heat control for smooth operation in cold weather.

In addition, many of the models are equipped with gasoline gauges on the dash, electric cigar lighters, radiator temperature indicators, heaters and combination vanity and smoking cases. All closed models and the two sport models have automatic windshield wipers. The other open cars have hand operated wipers as standard equipment.

Extra power and speed have been added to the current line. The standard six cars attain a speed of seventy miles an hour, and the master six models are capable of seventy-five miles an hour. An improvement in the starting motor has been made which greatly increases efficiency in starting the car, especially in cold weather. This, with the automatic heat control, practically eliminates hard starting and balky performance in cold weather.

States Broad Purpose
"Size of organizations are leveled, mass of finances becomes secondary, provided only there is sufficient of both for actual requirements," continues Mr. Moskovic. "The true value of the conception is the great measure. What is your commodity worth to humanity? Does it add one iota to the sum total of human efficiency, of human service, because, from now on, only that thing that creates something that does something for humanity deserves to survive or will survive."
"Henceforth all worth-while betterments in automobile engineering must come from the smaller makers. The cost of changes to the big mass producers is too tremendous to be gone into easily or quickly, yet changes are needed more today than ever because the rapidly shifting conditions that motor cars are put to requires differ-

CHEVROLET HAS COMPLETE LINE

Six Passenger Cars and Two Trucks Make up 1926 Series.

The Chevrolet Motor Company goes into the year 1926 with the most complete line of cars in its history. The company now produces four closed models, two open cars and two trucks.

In addition to the smartly-appointed new landau, the Chevrolet closed line now includes a coupe, coach and sedan. All have bodies by Fisher.

Striking new colors in Duco render the group of closed models even more attractive. The coupe and landau are finished in the new Arizona gray Duco, with interior decorations and velour upholstery to match. The gray of the hood, body panels and disc wheels on the landau is set off against the black of the fenders and upper-body by gold striping. The rear quarter, carrying the landau bars and windows, is leather-covered.

The new finish of the coach is Bloomfield gray while the sedan is in a rich Algerian blue.

Rear seat foot rests are provided in the sedan and landau's. The front seat of the sedan has been given a slight additional tilt which affords greater comfort to front seat passengers and increased leg room to those in the rear seat.

Complete equipment is carried on the closed line, including the VV one-piece ventilating windshield, parking lamps, sun visor, automatic windshield wiper, dome light, silk roller shades and Tensid fittings.

Gun metal gray Duco finish is retained on the two popular open models, the touring and roadster. The rear compartment of the roadster body has been altered to permit of greatly increased luggage capacity. The compartment cover opens at the level of the car floor. The cover is removable to permit substitution of a light delivery body.

Smooth operation, easier riding qualities and longer motor life are assured by the refinements on the Chevrolet which retains, however, all of the time-tried fundamentals of its famous processor.

Chief among the improvements contributing to the smooth performance of the new car are: installation of lighter pistons and pins, a new three-point motor suspension, a motor head redesigned to provide larger cooling areas around the valves and an improved oil lubricating system.

The new car is effectively cushioned against road shocks by long specially designed semi-elliptic springs.

The most important improvement in the engine is the new piston and connecting rod assembly. It is about a half pound lighter than before, decreasing by approximately two pounds the total weight of the moving parts in the cylinders. A skeleton type of piston is used which combines lightness with ample strength and bearing surface.

Wild Dogs Are Aim of Big Game Hunter

New York.—Harold White of Scarsdale, who recently returned from a hunting and collecting trip in Asia and Africa, will start out again next month on a three-year expedition embracing both continents, the principal purpose of which is to round up for the American Museum of Natural History and the New York Zoological park in the Bronx specimens of a species of wild dog known in the Arussi mountains, between Italian and British Somaliland, as the yeh.

The yeh, which probably is a variety of the hyena dog, is a huge, high-shouldered, implacable creature which hunts in packs. Mr. White has a personal as well as a scientific interest in the yeh, as on his recent trip a pack of the animals treed him and all his bearers and it was not until Mr. White, shooting from his perch, had picked off every wild dog that any of the fugitives could descend.

Packard Chassis Is Oiled By Mere Stroke of Wrist

Forty-five Points Can be Lubricated Properly by One Pull of Plunger Every 100 Miles.

Those who have attended the national automobile shows for a number of years may be disappointed by the lack of radical innovations discovered at the present exhibition. To the laymen only casually investigating today's motor cars, noticeable changes will be slight as compared with those of even two or three years ago.

Nevertheless, important advances have been made in the very recent past. Improvements have been engineered into modern chassis which, while hidden from view and effecting no immediately noticeable improvement in operation, have just as truly marked a new era in motor car design and manufacture as did the electric starter. The most important of these improvements affect lubrication.

Nothing has been more responsible for the rapid depreciation of motor cars than the purely human element of neglect. It is probably not too much to say that proper care would double the life of almost any car. Proper care of a motor car is nine-tenths a question of regular and proper lubrication. The great problem here is to get around the human element in the equation and provide some means for automatically assuring that lubrication which means so much to the owner's pocketbook.

The car which will take care of itself is still in the distant future. But two manufacturers, each interested in a specific problem and determined to find its solution, have developed in cooperation with Packard, practically automatic systems, one for the lubrication of the chassis and the other for guarding the purity of the engine oil. These systems lessen chances of neglect and the consequent rapid wear of parts.

This system which has been developed by Joseph Bijur, in co-operation with Packard engineers, makes the proper lubrication of chassis bearings the work of an instant.

This system is so simple in its fundamentals that one wonders why a quarter century passed before it was thought of. Through its application to the Packard chassis every bearing is simultaneously lubricated with properly metered amounts of oil by one operation on the part of the driver. A conveniently located plunger constantly in sight provides a gentle reminder of a simple but important duty. The action of pulling the plunger knob sends oil under pressure from a central reservoir to the metering devices or drip plugs at each bearing point. On a Packard chassis forty-five points can be lubricated properly and thoroughly by one pull of this plunger every 100 miles.

NEW HUPMOBILE SETTING PACE

Is Culmination of Tests Begun by Hupp in 1914.

Details of construction of the new Hupmobile Six, as reviewed by automotive technical experts, reveal that the same care in design, construction and manufacture which has been characteristically Hupmobile for nearly twenty years, has been included, and even improved, in this new car.

The new Six is the car which, in conjunction with the company's Eight, is expected by factory officials to make 1926 by far the greatest year in Hupp history. Productive capacity of the Hupp factories, both Six and Eight divisions, is being increased more than 50 per cent, in anticipation of a remarkable growth in demand.

The Six, introduced last November, is one of the new cars on display at the show.

It is the culmination of tests with six-cylinder cars first begun by Hupp in 1914 and which continued unceasingly for two years before the car was announced. The company reports it built and scrapped more than a dozen sizes in its effort to achieve results finally secured this car. "Into it," says A. L. Englander, president of the A. L. Englander Co., distributor, "have been built a performance and smoothness of operation, freedom from repair, dependability and other characteristics, which have long been associated with the name Hupmobile the world over. It is a true Hupmobile in every sense and meaning of the word."

The car is the companion to the Hupmobile Eight which, almost from the day it was announced, became the largest selling straight eight in the world.

Contained in the new Eight are the same advantages of the straight eight principle as were included in the Hupmobile Eight, which in 1925 attained the phenomenal success of registering greater acceptance in its first year than was ever accorded any other fine car in a similar period. These advantages, the company points out, are its smooth power, smoothness of performance at all speeds, flexibility, all-around reliability, inherent freedom from vibration, and an economy of operation that makes it a remarkable product.

Pointing out that there has been no fundamental change in the original design, Charles D. Hastings, Hupp president and general manager, said: "That fact is a splendid tribute to the work done by our engineering and manufacturing departments before the original Hupmobile Eight was placed on the market. There are some refinements in mechanism, such as are constantly made in all motor car production, but, unquestionably, the original Eight was 'right' in design and manufacture before buyers were permitted to pay their money for cars. That policy of being sure a thing is right before offering it to the public has long been a Hupmobile policy and accounts in no small measure for the remarkably fine reputation this company and its cars enjoy the world over."

Dig Up Skeleton 2,000 Years Old in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz.—The skeleton of a man, believed to have been a member of the race said by some archeologists to have inhabited this section of Arizona 2,000 years ago, was unearthed near the eastern city limits by a party of excavators working under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History. Measurements of the skeleton indicate the man was about 5 feet 8 inches tall. Both Erick Smith, in charge of the excavating work, and Dr. O. A. Turney, Phoenix archeologist, said the man undoubtedly was a member of the race that was known as the "canal builders," who are believed to have constructed the first irrigation system in the Salt River valley. Traces of these canal systems still remain. Belief was expressed that there were two rooms beneath the chamber in which the skeleton was found. Doctor Turney explained that it was the custom of this race to lay their dead in the floor of a room, cover it with earth, build a new floor and continue to live in the same dwelling.

GREAT MOTOR IN WILLYS-KNIGHT

Interest in Sleeve Valve Design is Increasing.

A year ago the Willys-Knight 66, known as the great six, was launched at the automobile show. Today it stands as the greatest achievement ever made in a Knight motored car, either here or abroad, where the car with the Knight type motor is known as the car of royalty and is used almost exclusively in the highest social and financial spheres.

Such a complete and rapid ascent into unrivaled supremacy in its field is a sensation in motor car circles. From the first, this Willys-Knight great six received conspicuous interest because of the general respect paid to the Knight type motor. But, because of the accomplishments of this same type of motor, the expectations as to service, power, silence and efficiency placed a heavy burden on the car.

That these expectations have more than been met is shown in the array of users of this Willys-Knight great six, and the great numbers of enthusiastic indorsers including the majority of the better known names throughout the country.

Whether it comes as a result of the introduction of this Willys-Knight car, both here and abroad, for the European interest in this car is as great as the local interest, or whether it is a natural trend because of the world wide acceptance of the Knight type motor, there has been an unusual amount of international interest in sleeve-valve motor design during the past year.

This interest reached its culmination point in a recent test conducted, under government auspices in Paris where a Knight type motor won in every point in a break down and power endurance contest to determine the most efficient motor for all around service.

As presented at the automobile show, the Willys-Knight great six is offered in a wide range of body types, each marked by the most careful attention to the finer details contributing to luxury and comfort.

One of the unusual features of the Overland Model 91 which has firmly established this car as one of the most popular models of its type in the United States, and which has been the subject of approval by enthusiastic owners in letters to the factory, is the exceptionally long spring base, which gives riding comfort equal to some of the largest automobiles made in this country.

In no other automobile of the same type has the spring carriage been so lengthened to such unusual extent which, because of the extension of the patented triplex springs, provides an actual spring carriage of 130 inches, or the equivalent of many cars in the two or three thousand dollar class.

Coincident with this unusual riding feature of the Overland Model 91 is the unusual handling ease of the car, because of its shorter wheelbase. This enables the driver to have access to small parking space and has made the car a favorite in crowded city traffic.

In construction the Overland Model 91 has many characteristics of cars much higher in price. Molybdenum steel axles of the same type used in more expensive cars are used in the Overland Model 91, which has a heavy pressed steel frame that absorbs many of the road shocks experienced in driving cars of this type. A "non-grabbing" disc type clutch, entirely enclosed and protected from dust and dirt, special carbon steel gears, differential case cast in one piece with unusually large pinion gear, drive and ring gears of noiseless spiral bevel type, double unit Auto Lite ignition and lighting system of six-volt capacity, chrome vanadium steel springs of the patented triplex three-point suspension and unusually large braking surface are some of the features of the Overland Model 91.

It is such quality features as these that have made the Overland Model 91 one of the most popular cars of its class in the country and resulted in unequalled performances in the hands of owners.

Gold-Filled Elephant Tusk Found in Mining Claim

Seattle, Wash.—An authentic fossil tusk of the woolly elephant of the glacial or postglacial period, with gold fillings like a modern tooth, has been presented to the museum of the University of Washington by Edward Squires, who discovered it on a mining claim on Dominion creek, 40 miles from Dawson, Yukon territory. The tusk is ten feet long and weighs 250 pounds. The theory of Nathan Kresge, museum caretaker and former Alaskan, is that the relic was there when tons of earth with pay streaks were forced into the cracks of the tusk, giving the effect of modern gold tooth fillings.

BETHANY FORMS CLASS LEAGUE

Games Get Under Way With Freshmen in Lead.

BETHANY, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Bethany college athletic authorities in an effort to promote athletics in the school, have organized an inter-class basketball league which is now going at full speed. Each of the four classes in the school have picked a team from their ranks. These players must not be connected with the varsity squad. By so doing, aspirants for the Bison varsity have a chance to display their talents, develop and in the future work into one of the coveted positions.

So far this season many promising men have been singled out as likely material for near future varsity teams. In this manner, Coach Nuss is able to look over his prospects and keep in touch with the development of the new athletic stock. Strange to say, the freshmen class team is leading the inter-class race to date. They have men of unusual ability and so far have succeeded in defeating the sophomores by a score of 10-8 and the juniors 12-17. The juniors have defeated the seniors in a one-sided game so it looks as though the yearlings will clinch the honors. There are two rounds to the series and upsets may break in at any point.

The next inter-class game will be staged Saturday night as a preliminary to the varsity contest.

AMES-JIMMY MARS CLASH IN CANTON

CANTON, Jan. 28.—What promises to be one of the best arranged mitt programs in Canton for some time will be the card promised by the Monarch Athletic and Sports club for Monday, February 1, at the auditorium.

Through Matchmaker Maxie Lewis, the club has signed Willie Ames of Akron to battle Jimmy Mars, the New York 128-pounder, and "Bad News" Taylor, of Al Zill's Youngstown stable, will trade wallops with Larry Goldberg, the Brooklyn bantam.

Both bouts are scheduled to go 10 rounds. Two six-rounders will constitute the remainder of the card.

An effort is being made to sign Benny Bass, the Philadelphia slugger who scored a one round knockout over Al Corbett at Cleveland recently, or Eddie Shea, of Chicago, to meet the winner of the Willie Ames-Jimmy Mars tussle.

Washington crossed the Delaware a century and a half or so ago, making it tough for the British and eventually leading to a glorious victory at Yorktown, Washington (another kind) crossed the Rubicon of baseball last fall and Caesar Harris was forced to send a different kind of message to the senate from what old Julius sent.

Which brings us to the question of the day among diamond fans and that is what kind of a crossing will Washington make this year? Will it be a successful one or will there be a forced retreat?

Can the veterans of the Senators' roster, which staggered through to or will there be a forced retreat?

One authority on the subject says: "Not if several other teams in the league play the kind of baseball they are capable of playing. I figure the Senators lucky to finish second and third place seems most likely their destination."

Griffith hasn't done much as yet in the way of rebuilding the team and his little unpleasantness with Harris over the latter's 1925 financial arrangements is not helping matters any. It may be that the faltering in the last world's series was the beginning of the end for Washington.

After all is said and done, the biggest problem Grif has to wrestle with is his pitching staff. Can Johnson, Coveskie, Ruether and Ferguson duplicate their 1925 performances? Many critics think not. Ruether, you know, is dissatisfied because of the deal he received in connection with the series last fall.

Lefty Thomas, Harry Kelly and Win Ballou look the best of the newcomers on the hurling staff with Marberry and Zachary in the relief roles.

Taken from any angle the Washington situation is an interesting one.

It strikes me that the promoters of boxing matches and wrestling bouts in certain parts of the country better brace up as they are giving the game a black eye in those sections where the promoters are trying to be on the "up and up." We refer to that recent return match of Ed (Strangler) Lewis and Wayne Munn, which was staged at Denver, in which Sandow, handler of Big Ed, was roughly treated by the fans, and the alleged charity bout put on by Fred Fulton and George Godfrey, wherein charity profited to the sum of $97.05. We don't know why the "generous" promoters turned over the extra five cents to charity but they did. As we said previously, some people in the crowd would better take a look at the handwriting on the wall—that is if they can read English.

St. Louis Losing Mental Balance Over Flag Talk

Possibility of 1926 Pennant Town's Biggest Topic.

NEW YORK—Is it St. Louis' turn to harbor a pennant-winning ball club for the first time since the competitive dark ages? The staid, old river town seems to have gone fairly off its civic nut in considering the matter by way of mid-winter diversion.

"What is needed to bring a major league pennant to St. Louis?" is the key-question of a symposium being conducted by one of the leading newspapers. The answers from fans have been many, varied and not without some constructive value.

The inspiration for all the agitation has been furnished by the fact that during the last ten years quite a few clubs have achieved championships for the first time. The Phillies under Pat Moran in 1915 were one of the first to upset precedent. Then the Cincinnati Reds of 1919 came through after fifty years of failure. Now, they have the present champions in Washington as a notable example.

St. Louis hasn't had a pennant winner since 1888 when the old Browns finished their string of titles and the citizens think something should be done about it. They have even gone so far as to play the "hunch" that the enlargement of the ball park means something, it being the general idea that pennants usually follow in the wake of such improvements.

Most of the boys appear to string along with the Cardinals as a better bet than the Browns. Those of the persuasion profess to believe that a full season of Hornsby's leadership plus the beneficial results expected to follow Bill Killefer's handling of the pitchers will bring success where everything else has failed.

Some of the self-appointed critics declare that the management of the Browns should be taken out of the hands of George Sisler. In this way they claim the Browns will get a better manager and better ball player at one and the same time. Others, however, seem to think that the player-manager is a sound institution

Fleming Bowlers Distance Elks In Initial Battle At Liberty

By a margin of 159 pins, Fleming's "Candy Kids" gained the decision over the Elks' duckpin stars in the first brush of the season between the two rival squads last night at the Liberty alleys.

With Canne shooting a high series score of 816 and Dr. Fred Adams scattering the timber for a high one game tally of 203, the antlered tribe was outdistanced before the clash had reached the end.

The Liberty alleys were jammed to the guards for the match and an even larger crowd is anticipated when the two team clash again later in the season.

The Fleming crew hung up a total of 3,632 against 3,473 which is hitting a fast clip, at that, for a five-game series.

Canne led the hardwood onslaught for the Fleming five, knocking off a 167 in the opener, 170 in the second, 161 in the third, dropping off a little to 146 in the fourth and coming with a 173 in the final frame.

Patterson ran him second, totalling

154 pins for the series. His final effort, which netted 115 pins in the last frame, cut down his total.
Dr. Adams hit the peak in the fourth stanza when he crashed out a mark of 203, and this score contributed materially to the high game tally of 832 registered by the winners at this point.

K.-C. PIN ENTRIES TO CLOSE FEB. 1

TOLEDO, Jan. 28.—At midnight Monday, Feb. 1, entries will close for the annual tournament of the Knights of Columbus National Bowling association. The Toledo committee is receiving entries through Ray J. Sheahan, chairman, and George Gang, secretary.

The tourney will be held at the same time as the American Bowling Congress, Feb. 27th to April 6th, at Toledo. This is the fourth visit of the congress to Toledo and the first for the K. of C. Both tourneys may be played in on the one trip. Some of the congress championships are now held by K. of C. bowlers. The K. of C. tournaments have the approval of the supreme directors of the order. The first tourney was held in Milwaukee, the second in Chicago and the third in St. Louis. Last year 312 five men teams, 432 two-men teams and 845 singles participated, a total of 3,272 players. Distance and newness has interfered with substantial participation in former events from Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, but it is expected that this handicap will not operate this year.

Milwaukee is expected to enter 35 teams, Chicago 60 and St. Louis 50. Columbus has so far entered six teams and more are expected.

EKLUND WINS IN COLUMBUS MATCH

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—In a two-fall wrestling match, Clarence Eklund, 175, world's light-heavyweight champion, defeated Charlie Peterson, Swede, 177, here Wednesday night.

George Walker, Canadian, pinned John Kilon's shoulders down after 17 minutes of boxing-wrestling.

Kid Clark won a 12-minute wrestling bout with Carl Beichtler.

Casey Berger lost his second consecutive match when he found himself unable to throw George Gattoff in 12 minutes.

VLASTO IS EASY FOR MISS WILLS

CANNES, Jan. 28.—Helen Wills disposed of another French star today when she defeated Mlle. Rolande Vlasto, 6-0, 6-2, in the third round of the Gallia tournament.

Mlle. Rolande Vlasto, while not ranking with Mlle. Didi Vlasto is nevertheless well up in the French tennis ranks. She gave Miss Wills no trouble today, however.

The California girl won the first set without losing a game and then eased up in the second set, apparently saving herself for her match with Miss Cadie.

When the most glamorous picture is over—and you come outside to the bright lights and the brighter laughter of friends—have a Camel!

WHEN the exciting scenes are over. And you leave the great theatre thrilled at what you've seen. When, as the organ peals forth its rolling music, you come outside with jovial, laughing friends—have a Camel!

For nothing else on earth could be so refreshing among the great white lights as Camel. Camel adds of its own bright goodness to the enjoyment of every pleasing scene. Camel is the hale friend and companion for eventful days and carefree evenings. Here is something worth writing in words of gold: "Camels never tire the taste, or leave a cigarette after-taste, no matter how freely you smoke them." And what's more, you can't buy choicer tobaccos or more perfect blending, no matter how much you pay.

So, this night as you leave for the brilliant scenes. And when the big show is finished and you've seen life in its tense and purposeful moments—know then the mellowest fragrance that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camell

No other cigarette in the world is like Camels. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The Camel blend is the triumph of expert blenders. Even the Camel cigarette paper is the finest—made especially in France. Into this one brand of cigarettes is concentrated the experience and skill of the largest tobacco organization in the world.

Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price.

SAFELY HARVEST BUMPER LAW CROP

State Legislatures Put 13,000 New Statutes on the Books.

New York.—One of the Founding Fathers, in the debate on the Constitution of the United States, confessed that "a voluminous code of laws is one of the inconveniences necessarily connected with the advantages of free government." Had he foreseen how voluminous it was to become he would hardly have been satisfied with so mild a word as "inconvenience," for the biennial output, which reaches floodtide in the "odd" years when nearly all the state legislatures are in session, passes understanding. Just now we are observing the efforts of some forty states, including New York, to adjust themselves to more than 13,000 new statutes.

Thirteen thousand plus! The mere size of the printing bill is enough to give every taxpayer pause. The cost in clerical work, committee fees, salary of legislators, test cases in the courts, prosecution and civil litigation is beyond calculation. But, aside from the pressure upon the pocket nerve, almost all these laws regulate in some way business conduct or personal deportment and thus irritate nerves of another kind.

Much of this stupendous flood of legal verbiage is mere tinkering with existing codes. Every legislature writes its own Sartor Resartus; it repatches the patched fabric of the law, if not always dexterously, at least industriously and with gusto. Those who have attended sessions may have heard the clerk droning: "This is an act entitled an act to amend an act entitled an act to amend an act"—and so on to the ninth degree of amendment. To attend one of these sessions is a good lesson in self-control. The electorate can learn best in the schoolhouse of its state capitals how its representatives function.

Fashions in Laws.

In every legislative gathering laws are offered which affect education, health, banking and railroads. These are familiar standbys. They are the teething rings on which thousands of legislators have cut their first teeth. But there is fashion in laws as in garments and bobs; and laws aimed at the motorist are becoming almost passe now that motion pictures may be censored and beauty parlors regulated. Senator Wray of the state of Washington, for instance, is the proud parent of a law authorizing schools for the teaching of the art of hairdressing and facial massage, a bill licensing persons to carry on such practice and prescribing penalties for violation. The radio, which ignores state boundaries, is a little beyond or above the state legislator; but regulation of the hours during which voices caught from the air may be turned loose upon the neighborhood is the demerit cri in legislation.

And there is always a crop of measures which may be classed as oddities. Connecticut debated with spirit a measure intended to impose a tax of $4 on each bachelor, spinster and alien. Taxation of unwedded voters is no new thing, but to jump them with aliens betrays that the author of the law regards them as strange and outlandish. The majority, however, overrode this construction of single blessedness. Iowa, in its zeal for prohibition, adopted a measure intended to prevent the sale of a kind of canned beer, for fear that the alcohol in the device would be diverted to unholy purposes.

Arizona, which is a quiet state, demanded that railroads equip their locomotives with automatic bell-ringers. Among a great many states in which taxes of various sorts were proposed on cigarettes, Tennessee adopted a sales tax of 10 per cent. Illinois offered a reward of $1,000 to any man, woman or child capturing or killing a bank robber; and Kansas taxed the use—not the sale—of gasoline for any purpose except a farm tractor.

Missouri provided that butcher shops selling both kosher and non-kosher meats should so stipulate in their window signs and advertising; and Ohio passed a law requiring that every public school teacher must read aloud daily ten verses from the Bible, without comment. This measure was vetoed by the governor.

Concern about education is invariably acute among our legislators. The ten Biblical verses in Ohio were not alone; in another state a bill was offered providing for the memorizing of the Ten Commandments. There was another bill requiring that study of the Constitution of the United States and of the state should be a prerequisite of graduation, not only from public but private schools.

Laws to Conserve Patriotism.

The battle over the Americanization of history is still waging merrily here and there. In one bill, for instance, it was provided that any school teacher speaking slightly of the Republic, its founders or the Constitution should be dismissed; and, further, that the textbooks on history and civil government should stress adequately "the services rendered by the men who achieved our national independence."

But there is little of the unusual about such measures. The crop is fairly uniform and varies only in that it tends to get larger and larger as time goes on. The chief ingenuity is exhibited in devising new methods of taxation. The income tax is becoming more and more popular, and there are many states which tax the sale of gasoline, chewing gum and smoking tobacco. Some now have a state automobile fund, to which every owner of a motor vehicle must contribute, wherefrom persons injured in accidents are to receive damages.

It must be remembered that the 13,000 measures mentioned were actually enacted. More than twice as many went into the legislative hoppers from the hands of earnest legislators. The percentage of enactments was, indeed, without precedent. There are two ways to judge a state legislature; first, by the number of bills introduced; second, by the number which survive committee pitfalls and the gauntlet of debate. New York, for instance, was the Abou Ben Adhem of the states in the number of measures offered, leading with 3,186; but only 686 of them became law, whereas in North Carolina, of only 1,773 offered 1,173 were enacted.

The actual number of bills passed in 38 of these states was 13,018. Texas, perhaps preoccupied with the Fergusons, did not make any return to the National Industrial council, which reported the legislative crop; and Governor Hartley of Washington resorted to the unusual expedient of a split session, in order to give the legislators time to think over what they had done at the first gathering. During the first session the Washington legislators adopted but 34 of 128 bills offered.

The National Industrial council was organized in 1907 by the National Association of Manufacturers to oppose the enactment of laws likely to affect business unfavorably. Commenting on the new crop of statutes, M. J. Hickey, assistant secretary of the council, said that "the state legislatures were constantly finding new ways of getting revenue, thus piling up the costs of government and imposing constantly heavier taxes."

Several states adopted the executive budget during the year, and others undertook a reorganization of the executive departments.—New York Times.

BURBANK PRESENTS SEVEN NEW PLANTS TO THE WORLD

Noted Major Creations and Improvements Result of Year's Work by Famous Naturalist.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—With the completion of one of the busiest years in his half century of work in the laboratory of nature, Luther Burbank presented to the world as a New Year gift a beautiful group of new flowers and plants.

The plant wizard announced that during the year just closed he had perfected seven major creations and improvements. Today he sent to all parts of the world seeds which will bear these new creations.

After 26 years of experimentation Mr. Burbank has created a new camassia, a striking blue flower. While the camassia is not widely known, the new product excels all others in its beauty and ability to multiply. From his rainbow corn Burbank has produced the rainbow teosinte, a marvelous plant that grows eight feet tall and bears from 8 to 14 ears to each stalk.

Third is a new giant cactus flowering zinnia, a truly giant plant developed from a more familiar flower.

Others are a new hybrid flower, a new species of the torch lily, which will bloom profusely in cold climates; a new and improved strain of the popular Shasta daisy, much larger and more colorful than the present Shasta; a new strain of fluffy giant asters; and the perfection of eight newly named gladioli.

The noted naturalist begins the new year in good health, and is looking forward to one of accomplishment.

"I can say that I am satisfied with my year's work," he told visitors at his experimental gardens, "for I must be satisfied. The year is done, and it has been one of my busiest. I have worked and enjoyed every day of it. But I will go on with the new year."

Old English Dances Are Being Revived

London.—There has been a sudden country-wide revival of the old English country dances, and a great all-England folk dance festival is ushering in the new year in the grand hall of London university. In South Kensington.

The revival is bringing the morris dance and the sword dance into their own again, says a report by the English Folk Dance society, which asserts these dances are being taken up with enthusiasm by tens of thousands of young people throughout England. The society is compelled to refuse hundreds of applications from would-be learners because of its inability to secure enough ballroom space.

Women are taking up sword dancing enthusiastically, many with the purpose of teaching it to boy scouts, girl guides and members of similar organizations.

Scottish reels are also regaining favor, mainly because of the partiality of the duchess of York for them, although the duchess herself will not be seen in the ballroom for the next few months because of the approach of an interesting family event.

Winter Colds Are Dangerous

The serious diseases that develop from simple coughs or colds make them dangerous and they should not be neglected. There is no better remedy for quick relief from coughs and colds than Fowley's Honey and Tar Compound. Is Age Controlled by Glands?

Dr. Serge Voronoff of France, famous physician and surgeon, who has devoted years to research and experimentation with glandular treatment, says: "A man is worth only as much as his glands." Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions by changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals." The new scientific method—Glandogen—embodies this method. Glandogen is a highly concentrated gland compound in convenient, compact tablet form which combines the important extracts of the vital glands of healthy young animals with other efficacious ingredients. Hundreds of keen-eyed men and women are today taking Glandogen. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Matthews Cut Rate Store will supply you.

HOME TOWNS OF FAMOUS CHEESE

Must Go to Baedeker for Guide to Places Made Famous by Product.

Washington.—The memorial tablet which has been erected to Mme. Marie Harel, creator of camembert cheese, on her Brittany cottage in Camembert, France, recalls that the United States Department of Agriculture was surprised to find a large increase in the imports of camembert cheese from France immediately after the World War. Investigation showed that the A. E. F., like the old Crusaders returning from Palestine with a new-found love for the spices and silks of the East, came back from France with a relish for camembert. "Bully beef" was drab fare to the American doughboy. He craved a substitute for the pies and all the rest that mother made. So he sought out French farmhouses where he begged or bought food that knew not tins. Usually his search was rewarded with cheese. What could banish camp rations monotonous easier than spicy-odored and spicy-flavored camembert? With a bit of camembert wrapped in tin-foil there must be purchased in many American delicatessens today memories of friendly folk in deep-roofed Norman cottages.

Made by a Mold.

"What Mme Harel discovered in Camembert, thirty miles south of the resort Deauville, was the way to control a certain mold," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington (D. C.) headquarters, on the well-known foreign and domestic cheeses. "The camembert culture can now be secured from concerns who make it a business to grow it. Camembert and allied varieties like Brie are cured widely throughout northern France. American production now shares the United States market."

"So slender is the path the world makes to the historic homes of famous cheeses that one often must go to Baedeker for the sign posts. Camembert is on few maps; Cheddar, which supplies the technical title for American or 'rat trap' cheese, is 15 miles southeast of Bristol, England; Stilton is 65 miles directly north of London; Gorgonzola is in Italy, close to Milan; Parma, one of the largest of the cheese towns, is the city in south Lombardy that gives its name to Parmesan; Swiss cheese is more properly Emmentaler, for the valley of Emmenthal near Bern; Munster in Germany saw the birth of Munster cheese; red and yellow Edam cheese balls are still colorful ornaments to the Edam market near Amsterdam; Neuchâtel on the Dieppe-Paris rail line, was the object of German drives for far other purposes than to get soft cream cheese; Limbourg, the town made famous by an odor, lies near Liège where Belgium halted the invaders; and finally there is Roquefort, in the Auvergne plateau of central France.

"For more than two thousand years the caverns of Roquefort have cured cheeses. Roquefort has a natural monopoly because nowhere else do Nature and man combine the same elements. In the limestone rock are numerous linked caves in which there is much water. Nature maintains in these caverns a constant temperature which hovers above freezing and an atmosphere saturated with moisture.

perfect conditions to favor the Roquefort mold and discourage growth of other molds.

"America's contributions to the cheese industry have been chiefly scientific production, large scale output and improved styles of marketing. "Philadelphia cream cheese and some other cream cheeses are new in that fresh curd is used, but the texture links them to the Neuchâtel group."

Wisconsin Outstrips Switzerland.

"Wisconsin in one year produces more than twice as much cheese as Switzerland."

"Loaf cheese, wrapped in tin-foil, is strictly a Yankee invention and a good one because a slice is the size of a piece of bread and because drying cannot exact great losses in money and quality."

"Not many months ago a man who is a big figure in American politics and industry arrived in Washington. Employees in this man's Washington office stood ready to do his bidding. His first question on this trip made their heads whirl."

"How can one put holes in Swiss cheese?" he asked.

"His employees soon found this was no joking matter. This famous man, it appears, when he can forget affairs of the United States, the world and its business, is absorbed in his big farm. A problem had arisen in the dairy. The Swiss cheese had no holes. Since the presence or absence of holes affect the flavor, this was important. He had come to Washington in search of holes. Next day a four-page report on holes for Swiss cheese was on his desk. It said in part that bacteria known as Swiss cultures were the excavators, or more properly, the bellows. Gas generated by the bacteria expands the rubbery, raw cheese as yeast does bread. Further, that the organisms can be had from the Department of Agriculture and certain state universities.

"The Department of Agriculture not only knows Swiss cheese, but also makes it in their experimental dairy."

LINER OLYMPIC SAFE; BRITISH FREIGHTER SINKS

Europe Does Not Love Us.
An Italian Bulldog.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

Uncle Sam is headed for the world court, no doubt about that, apparently. How soon will the United States slip through the world court into the league of nations, and what will be the cost of the slip? That question interests this country.

Henry Ford, in his Dearborn "Independent," asks these questions: "Are we ready to subordinate the constitution of the United States to the covenant (or constitution) of the league?"

"Are we ready to place the monroe doctrine at the disposal of a European court whose principles run counter to it?"

"Are we ready to resign our decision as to when, if ever, we shall fight to a court, one of whose posers is to tell us when we must institute an economic boycott and when we must fight to enforce its decrees?"

"Have we, as citizens, or has Congress, as our representative, or has the President, as our chief magistrate, the right or the power to do any of these things? We think not?"

To Henry Ford's questions about the world court add these:

Are we ready to submit to that court the question of Asiatic immigration? Japan will take that question to the court as soon as it is in working order.

Are southern states willing to submit to the world court the payment of Confederate bonds issued during the Civil war? That question will be brought up.

Asking questions won't do much good. This country is practically in the world court now and will know more about European diplomacy presently than it ever knew before.

The league of nations offers a prize of 220,000 francs for an architectural competition. American architects are barred, because we are not in the league or nation—yet.

One hundred and twenty thousand francs are worth about $4,800, so the American architects can stand it.

More unpleasant is the loud applause with which Paris every night greets Marcelle Parisys, when that young lady denounces this country for its "bloodthirsty stinkiness," saying, "honest French girls are taxed to pay the debts of France to those stubborn Americans."

They do not LOVE us in Europe, and our lonesome little representative in

Eight Men Face Death on Tugs in Ice-bound Lake

MUSKEGON, Mich., Jan. 28.—Night-long efforts to reach two fishing tugs with eight men aboard caught in the ice a mile off Muskegon were unavailing at daybreak today.

The ice floes are crushing the tugs—the Helen and the Indian, both of this port—while a 50-mile gale, getting steadily worse this morning, makes hope of rescue slight.

Two coast guard crews from here are trying to reach the tugs. The ice breaker Alabama has made several futile attempts to crush a path to the stricken boats.

SOLONS VOTE $302,741 FOR CITY EXPENSES

Appropriation Ordinance Adopted at Special Meeting.

APPORTION FUND

Decide to Move Traffic Light on Fourth Street.

It will cost $302,741.59 to meet the operating expenses of the city during 1926, according to the appropriation ordinance passed on three readings under suspension of the rules at a special meeting of the municipal legislators last night.

Of this amount, $119,618.81 is derived from taxation, while the remaining $183,122.78 will come from water rates, gasoline tax, automobile licenses and other sources.

The water works department gets the "lion's share" of the appropriation, $147,100.00 being set aside for this fund. Most of this money is used for interest on bonded indebtedness and liquidation of bonds.

Boy Coaster Hurt When Auto Strikes Sled; Driver Flees

George, Jr., 8-year-old son of Councilman and Mrs. George Hughes, of West Third street, sustained an injury to his right leg when struck by an automobile while coasting in East alley yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred as the youngster's sled was crossing Second street at the foot of the alley. The car, a sedan, knocked him from his sled to the street, but the driver failed to stop. The boy was assisted to his home by two companions.

Two youths, who witnessed the accident, took the number of the car. An arrest may be made in the case, it was said today.

Radio Dispatches Tell of Victory and Defeat for Man in Mighty Struggle With Atlantic.

Crew of Antiope are Snatched From Death as Men on Laristan go to Watery Grave.

Thrilling stories of battles with tempestuous seas, of sinking ships, daring rescues, and of disaster, were flashing into New York today in laconic radio messages telling of the terrific storm that has been raging in mid-Atlantic for four days and which has spread to the western coast of Europe, the North Sea and to the Azores.

Twenty-four were drowned when the British freighter Laristan went down in mid-ocean. The liner Bremen succeeded in saving six of the Laristan's crew.

Schooner Hits Rocks.

The entire crew of 24 of the sinking British freighter Antiope was rescued by the liner President Roosevelt, after a desperate battle with the elements. Two of the President Roosevelt's crew lost their lives.

Four were drowned when the schooner Dorna hits the rocks off the Spanish coast. Ships were imperilled off the coast of Sweden.

In the Azores, the British steamer Errington has been drifting since Sunday, and one officer lost his life when the vessel careened in the storm. Violent gales are sweeping the North sea.

Rumors that the S. S. Olympic was experiencing difficulty in mid-ocean were disposed of in radio reports from that ship that "all is well."

LONDON, Jan. 28.—"All is well." This brief message to the International News Service today, received by radio from Commander Marshall, of the S. S. Olympic, put a final quietus on reports circulated from the interior of the United States that the White Star liner was in difficulties in mid-ocean.

Reports are Ridiculed.
White Star officials today did not attempt to hide their displeasure over the circulation of these reports in the United States, which they said were obviously "nonsense" inasmuch as they came from points inland and were not confirmed by any messages picked up by the powerful coastal radio stations.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—White Star line officials today ridiculed reports circulated in the United States that the Olympic had sent out S. O. S. calls. The Olympic is proceeding on her way and is in no trouble whatever, it was said today.

CAPITAL TAKES STOCK AS U. S. GETS PLACE IN WORLD COURT

Marks End of Three-Year Tumult and Shouting.

ANTIS BITTER

Both Sides Emerge With Measure of Victory.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Three years of tumult and shouting over the world court came to an end today. America is in the court, theoretically at least, and official Washington began to take stock of just what American adherence to the league tribunal means.

Both sides emerged from the memorable struggle with a measure of victory.

Those who have consistently advocated American adherence claimed a great moral victory, those who have fought bitterly against it found their satisfaction in the stringent, even devastating reservations that were attached, and claimed the practical, if not the moral victory.

But for the bitterness that remained today—and it is real bitterness in the senate—it might truthfully be said that both sides are fairly well satisfied.

Theoretically in Court.
America is theoretically in the court—yet actual American participation is still a long way off, and is hedged about with so many ifs, ands, and buts, that a court decision affecting the United States appears only in the dim and misty future.

In the first place, the emasculating reservations attached to the original Harding-Hughes proposal—without which it could not have passed—must be ratified by 49 other nations before American adherence becomes an actual fact. Each of these 49 nations must, by an exchange of notes with the state department, signify their willingness to let America come in on her own terms.

This procedure alone may take several years. International machinery is cumbersome. It moves slowly, as evidenced by the fact that the Washington conference treaties, now four years old, are not yet completely ratified.

Should even the smallest of these nations, Costa Rica, Latvia, Liberia, Panama, Salvador, San Domingo, let alone the great powers like France, Italy, Japan and Great Britain, decline to give their consent to America adhering to the court in terms so radically different from their own, then the senate's vote of adherence last night means nothing. The whole business is invalidated.

Irreconcilables Claim Victory.
The little band of irreconcilables that so bitterly opposed American ad

CRABBE RULES ON GASOLINE TAX

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—Attorney General Crabbe today ruled that a municipality cannot legally buy street repair equipment, tools and machinery with any portion of the gasoline tax fund. A similar opinion was announced recently by the attorney general affecting county officials.

The lunch room fund, provided by state law, shall be considered as a part of the general school funds to be deposited in the usual depositories and paid out upon warrants properly signed by the president and clerk of the board of education, Crabbe also ruled.

Both opinions were addressed to officials of the state bureau of public accounting and inspection.

$4,723 Raised For Boy Scouts In One-Day Campaign Here

Plans to Increase Membership in Movement Announced at Dinner Closing Successful Campaign.

The East Liverpool-Chester-Newell district's quota of $4,000 in the county's $10,000 Boy Scout fund was oversubscribed by $723 within approximately nine hours yesterday, according to reports made by 75 workers at a dinner in the Y. M. C. A. last evening.

Approximately $3,000 was in cash, while the remaining $1,723 was in the form of pledges payable not later than June 1. Of the fund $3,600 will be placed to the credit of the county organization, while the remaining $1,723 will be retained for special work among troops of the local district.

The workers in Dr. R. R. Bode's division carried off honors collecting contributions of $1,403 as compared with $1,345 secured by teams under the leadership of Attorney W. S. Stevenson. The team in charge of L. W. Smith of Dr. R. R. Bode's contingent reported the largest number of subscriptions and collections, the total being $386. Louis Ward's Auto Stolen; Police on Trail of Joyrider

Police today were seeking a clue to the identity of a man, believed to be a joyrider, who stole a Chevrolet roadster, owned by Louis Ward, 918 Eighth street, from its parking place on Fifth street Monday night. The car, which carried license number 240,510, was taken while Ward, a pottery worker, was attending a union meeting in Trades and Labor Council hall.

BUCKET FORCE FIGHTS STOP 55 BLAZE IN NEAR ZERO WEATHER

William Rose Meat Market Destroyed; $2,500 Damage.

SNOW DRIFTING

Curtail Gas for Potteries; Trolley Service Suffers.

With the mercury hovering around the zero mark and a 25-mile gale sweeping the district, a butcher shop owned and operated by William Rose, near Stop 55 in Glenmoor, four miles north of here, was destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. The loss is estimated at $2,500, upon which there is no insurance.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and kept the flames from spreading to a warehouse adjoining the meat market.

Motorist Discovers Blaze.

The blaze, discovered by an automobile driver, who awakened neighbors, is believed to have been started from a gas fire which was left burning in the building. Rose has been confined to his home near Stop 55 during the last few days by illness and the business was being conducted by his son.

The fire department was notified, but did not respond inasmuch as the shop was located far beyond the city water mains.

The temperature dropped approximately 26 degrees between 10 o'clock last night and 6 o'clock this morning. A gale began blowing shortly before midnight and the mercury this morning averaged from two to four degrees above the zero mark. Readings of zero and below were reported from the country districts.

Snow Plows on Highways
Transportation was crippled this morning due to the heavy drifts, which covered the street car tracks, especially in the outlying districts. Service on the Grandview line was irregular until 9 o'clock when the tracks were cleared by the sweeper. Schedules were maintained after that hour. The Y. & O. cars were late during the forenoon. Service on the Steubenville and Beaver branches was almost on schedule after the first cars had broken through the drifts.

The road between Salem and Lisbon was closed all night while automobiles made fruitless efforts to plow through the drifts on the Lincoln highway, west of Lisbon, this morning. County and state snow plows cleared the Lisbon-Salem road before noon. Another truck is working out of Lisbon in the direction of Minerva.

J. T. Croxall Named President at Meet Of Health Board

J. T. Croxall, who resigned from the board of health a year ago, was sworn into office to serve the unexpired term of Mayor Ralph C. Benedum at the monthly meeting last night. At the reorganization session, Croxall was elected president.

The monthly report of Health Commissioner John Fraser, showed 10 cases of smallpox, 10 of scarlet fever, 15 of measles and one each of diphtheria and tuberculosis. Four cases of smallpox and seven of scarlet fever are under quarantine.

In the clinic, nine new cases were reported. There were 58 male and 37 female treatments given. Mrs. Alice Davidson, deputy registrar of vital statistics, reported 38 deaths, 21 males and 15 females. Births numbered 58 of which 32 were males and 26 females.

LATE PRESIDENT M'KINLEY'S FAVORITE HYMN WILL BE PLAYED AT CEREMONY OF COLORS OF EIGHTH OHIO VOLUNTEERS AT STATE CAPITAL

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—"Lead, Kindly Light," favorite hymn of McKinley, will be played by the United States Army band from Fort Hayes, as the opening selection of the ceremony of the colors which the veterans of the Eighth Ohio Volunteers, "McKinley's Own," war with Spain, will hold at the state house, tomorrow afternoon, anniversary of the birth of the late president, when the colors carried by this regiment in '93, will be formally turned over to the state for placement in its archives.

The program will open with brief exercises promptly at 3 o'clock at the McKinley monument, at the main entrance to the state house, opposite the Neil House, residence of McKinley during his four years as governor of Ohio, where the colors will be unfurled for the last time and dipped as a mark of respect and honor to the memory of McKinley and the comrades of the attending veterans, who lost their lives during the war or have died since.

The colors will be borne by the regiment's original color guard, headed by John M. Eldt, Ashland, who was the "Eighth's" chief color sergeant, and who has sent word that he will surely be on hand for the occasion. A uniformed squad with rifles, furnished by Columbus camp No. 49, United Spanish War Veterans, will act as escort for the color guard. The trumpet and drum corps of the camp will take part in the exercises.

Critchfield Will Present Colors.
Judge Lyman R. Critchfield of Wooster, who was a buck private, will present the colors on behalf of the regiment to Governor Donahay, who will receive them as representative of the state. The governor will turn them over to Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, to be placed in a hermetically sealed case in the rotunda of the capitol, where the Ohio battle flags are kept.

The ceremonies will be followed by speaking in the senate chamber in the afternoon and at Memorial Hall in the evening, with a banquet at the latter place at 8 o'clock. Principal speakers will be former United States Senator Charles Dick, Akron; General Edward Vollrath, Bucyrus; General A. B. Critchfield, Shreve; Col. Frank C. Gerlach, Wooster; W. R. McCord, New York city; Thomas M. Bell, Mansfield; Judge Charles F. Schaber, Bucyrus; Harry S. Quine, Akron, and

Rev. Mr. George W. Brown, Nankin.

Frank A. McGowan, Canton, presides in the afternoon, and C. H. McCowan, Alliance, in the evening. Arthur C. Johnson, Sr., Columbus, is officer of the day.

To Place Wreath on Monument.
A feature of the ceremonies will be the placing of a wreath of McKinley carnations at the monument, for the veterans, by Miss Miriam, young daughter of William H. Hughes, of 212 North Powell avenue, Columbus, formerly of Wooster, who served in the regiment.

The "Eighth," commanded by the late Colonel Curtis V. Hard of Wooster, served at Santiago and was recruited from central and eastern Ohio.

The colors of the regiment, lost years ago, recently were found in the basement of the state house.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

FIFTY-EIGHT.
What had happened between Noble and Laurel? Mrs. Mary Farr Harwood was endeavoring to solve a puzzle presented by the report of Operative Michael Finnerton of the Star Private Secret Service, and a guarded, unsigned note that she guessed was from Louis.
She was worrying over the matter when her desk-clock warned her it was time to be preparing for the guests she was to have that afternoon. Her daughters were coming to tea. She had not had them both in the house at the same time before.
The girls came together in Lilah's car. Mrs. Lyons' little daughter was with them, a silent figure on the rear seat. Marion was uncomfortable; Lilah was expectant.
They found their mother in her drawing room reading a French novel with a plain paper cover: her knowledge of French was superficial, but when she came to a passage she thought might be particularly interesting, she had her maid to call upon for assistance. The title of this particular novel was "A Lovely Day." She could not have told you the name of the author without looking at the cover.
"I'm so glad you brought little

Honey along; I've wanted to see her so much," she said, taking one of her granddaughter's hands and offering her lips to be kissed.
"Little Honey" had to be coaxed. "Kiss granny, dear. The child did so reluctantly."
Lilah felt the need of being apologetic. "I'm afraid that she doesn't know granny very well; but she is going to know her better, aren't you, Honey?"
The child only stared at her mother.
Mrs. Mary Farr Harwood affected a smile. "I could hardly expect her to remember me... But sit down, dears." She rang for the maid.
Honey wandered away from the group to the window and looked out. There weren't any interesting pictures, here, and no dog, or anything. She remembered about this time from the first time she had been in the house, the other day. Nothing of interest was in the street, either: just old automobiles passing by. She wished she had her dolly. She gravely surveyed her mother, and aunt, and grandmother, and walked slowly around the room and into the hall. Maybe there was something interesting leading upstairs. There might, for instance, be a dog. She would see.
"These are my daughters, Felice," she said, when the maid appeared with the tea-tray.
"Oul, madame, I have seen them before." She beamed upon one, and then the other.
Marion didn't like her manner, and frowned. How had her mother happened to employ such a maid?
Lilah smiled appreciately at the servant. When the girl departed, she said to her mother: "She's a dear, isn't she?"
Marion, before her mother had time to answer, put in some words: "I thought you called her Marie the last time I was here."
Their mother laughed. "I did. I give her a new name every day. I play that I have a new maid every day."
Marion looked at her sister, then down at her hands. Her mother certainly had changed. This sounded like childish foolishness.
"And how is Mrs. Laurel Todd Harwood?" the elder woman asked as she handed her youngest daughter a steaming cup.
"Very well, I believe." What else could she say?
"I saw her the other day."
The two girls turned their eyes upon her with surprised interest.
"Yes, she was with Wyman Holt." Marion's eyes flamed.
Mrs. Joseph Lyons laughed a little. "Oh, I suppose she was just furthering Marion's cause with Wyman."
Marion turned upon her sister furiously. "She's in love with him!"
Their mother was electrified by this announcement. She was not aware of her daughter's deep interest in Wyman Holt.
"I don't think you ought to say that, Marion," the elder said. She was scared of such an accusation.
"It's true. Oh, mother!"
Mrs. Harwood was moved. A fierce light was burning in her eyes. "Just wait! Just wait!"
The intensity of her tone got her the attention of her daughters. "Laurel Todd is getting her foot in a trap." She wondered if she should tell her daughters about the detective, and, swayed by her agitation, did so.
"Here's his first report..."
The visitors bent over it avidly. Marion was the first to speak. "It doesn't think this is right, mother. 'It's—"

Lilah turned a deprecating look upon her sister. "You think that whatever father does is all right. He has bought you—"
Marion got up, setting her teacup down on the tea-tray, with such force that its contents were spilled.
"You're a liar, Lilah, and you know it. He's our father, whatever he has done... Mother, I love you, and I'm not excusing father, but I won't see him—"
"But," Lilah broke in, "we're not saying anything about father. It's Laurel—" Marion subsided.
"Before I am done with her, she's going to suffer something of what I have suffered," her mother exclaimed. "He needs me. Me—"
Marion got up in desperation. She couldn't stand it here. She had listened to the brawls of her father and mother all of her younger years; now she must listen to her mother's attacks on her father. Her dislike of Laurel was outweighed for the moment by her sympathy for her father. To her he was a tragic figure. Understanding of him that had come with the awakening womanhood swayed her thoughts now. Could she save him from more unhappiness? "I'm going—I must go." She fled out into the world that of late had become to her a distorted thing. She was very unhappy.

"Bobbed Hair," Film Classic, Featured At The American

"Bobbed Hair" the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, now at the American theatre, is a picturization of the popular novel written by twenty well known authors. How the book came to be written is told in entertaining fashion by Marguerite Aspinwall, who acted as a sort of liaison officer among them all, picking up lost clues, keeping track of geographical positions and seeing that enthusiasm didn't lead to the cast's growing over-crowded.

"The idea of producing a composite mystery novel of twenty chapters, each chapter to be written by a well known author," says Miss Aspinwall, "originated with Mr. George Palmer

Putnam. After he had interested twenty authors of his choice in the idea, it naturally remained for one person—quite outside of the actual collaborators—to keep a watchful eye on the trend of the story. I happened to be the one chosen for the work.

"The Trail of the Plot." "Until about the middle of the book, the writer had a free hand in building the plot, each one, of course, receiving carbon copies of all the chapters preceding his; but about that time they voted to have a skeleton outline of the rest of the story made, and allotted to them, chapter by chapter.

"By gathering together the clues to date, taking into account what we had already decided the end must be, I managed to work out a rough synopsis, which I submitted to them for approval.

"My thanks to every one of the twenty, here and now, for the fine

spirit of team-work they showed! While entirely ready to give all the credit in the world to everyone else's ideas, there wasn't one who hadn't some little helpful suggestion of his or her own to slip into place—for all the world like fitting the pieces into a picture puzzle.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

N. Y., JANUARY 28, 1926.

To The People

Irreconcilables in the senate, defeated, talk of starting a campaign now to take the country out of the world court into which the United States will enter as a result of last night's vote in the upper house, when American adherence was approved, 76 to 17. They may think better of that, on reflection.

"Carrying the issue to the people" may bring them disappointment. There should be little doubt, among open-minded observers, as to what the public thinks about this matter. Many organizations, political, economic, financial, social, religious and educational, have declared for the court, with suitable reservations. A recent census of American newspapers showed four-fifths of them for the court.

In fact, there is little uncompromising opposition to this step toward international justice and world peace.

Closure In The Senate

Closure—the closing of debate by two-thirds vote—is a dreadful thing, according to Senator Blease, of South Carolina.

"If the gag rule is applied in the senate," he declared just before closure was adopted as the only way to reach a vote on the world court, "the day is going to come when, instead of the senate being a great open forum, it will become like some other legislative bodies where the only consideration given measures is in committee.

"If these states want now to put a gag on me and those standing with me in this great battle, in which we believe we are right, you may have the power to do so; but you will set a precedent that will break down the whole principle of debate in this senate."

The public is inclined to think that senate debate ought to be broken down. This was supposed to have been accomplished when the closure rule was first authorized, as a necessary recourse in emergencies.

What the senate needs most is to stop being an "open forum" and start being a legislative body. It will never serve the purpose intended by the constitution until it comes to regard legislation as more important than oratory, team work more important than individual whim and the rule of the majority more important than the rule of the minority.

Equal Rights For Working Women

Organized feminism is heard from again, at a national gathering of feminine leaders in Washington for an industrial conference. And a curious situation develops.

The conservatives and radicals divide. The former, working in harmony with the women's bureau and the department of labor, want safeguards thrown around women in industrial work, comparable with the safeguards that modern civilized society seeks for its children. The radicals, ignoring these agencies, demand direct action on a basis of absolute equality in industry for men and women.

This branch of the feminist movement, represented by the National Woman's party, insists that women want no coddling, that they are as capable of looking after their own interests individually and privately as men are, that they want the same industrial rights and privileges of men. They want the eight-hour day along with the men, and they want to go into any occupation they choose, by day or night, and they want to work overtime when they are so inclined. They have as good a right to put in long hours in the factory, they say, as they have in the kitchen.

So these militant women propose to demand an amendment to the federal constitution guaranteeing them all these masculine rights.

Will they also amend the physical constitution that nature has given them, to qualify for their industrial equality?

Poor Forest Economy

Wherever there is great natural wealth there is great national responsibility to conserve it and to use it thriftily. Canada suffers as greatly from forest fires as this country. Yet it spends on fire protection, according to an official, only an amount equal to two-tenths of 1 per cent of the total estimated value of its stand-in gforests. It is a poor sort of forestry economy.

On both sides of the border the public is beginning to rouse itself to the need of reforestation. Hundreds of communities in the United States are establishing local forests and the government is setting aside for permanent maintenance national forests and parks. But the general attitude toward fire-prevention remains indifferent. Campers continue to be careless about their fires and the appropriations for fire-fighting remain low in proportion to the value of the timber tracts needing protection.

This is something for every citizen to think about, both those who got into the forests for business or pleasure and those who have it in their power to strengthen the means of protecting the forests.

Public sympathy seems to be with Vice President Dawes. Senate filibusters annoy the public, too; but Dawes has to listen to them.

If the prison population's any criterion, Texas is a mighty law-abiding state.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Catching the eye of million-footed New York is an art that pays golden dividends. Behold the window dresser! We used to laugh at the man who draped waxen ladies behind window curtains. He was a topic of vaudeville and comic weekly jest.

He was generally a blond and slightly effeminate young man, as thin as a fine. Today the window dresser is considered an artist, and in some instances is paid $25,000 a year. He has a corps of assistants and tours European capitals for ideas.

Windows used to be dressed semi-monthly and the big splash was around the holidays. Now windows are decorated three and four times a week, and in many cases daily. Thousands of dollars are spent weekly and effects achieved are worthy of Belasco and Ziegfeld.

Many small and exclusive shops on Fifth and Madison avenue depend almost entirely upon their window display for patronage. As an example of the pulling power it is cited that one window blown in by a storm resulted in a total suspension of patronage until it was repaired.

A novel given a window display in New York will almost invariably make it one of the best sellers of the week in the city. The mah jong and crossword puzzle books are said to have received the first impetus of popularity through window displays.

Yet it has been discovered the pantomime performance of a window demonstrator rarely increases sales. Passersby will stop to watch and usually bulge the sidewalk, but will not go inside to buy the article demonstrated. They are seized by fear of being thought a Rube.

Very few high class jewelry establishments will run the risk of an expensive exhibit. The rewards for the daring and successful thief are too great, yet they say if they could display their most expensive baubles their business would be greatly increased.

The tragedy of failure seems to fall heaviest on those who pursue music as a career. There is an agency that furnishes singers, pianists and violinists for private home teas. Most of the performers are those who just missed fame and fortune. The field for operatic and concert work is small and as those who have failed have usually spent their all in pursuit of their studies they are forced to take whatever comes along.

One of the best short stories ever written was by Charles R. Barnes about 15 years ago. It was a true story, although the names were fictitious. The plot concerned a young girl from a small town whose parents mortgaged the home to cultivate her voice. A shy teacher promised an operatic career when he knew her voice was mediocre. She wound up singing mawkish tunes in a cabaret. One night the teacher came in. She went to his table, as was the custom in those unhalloved days, and said, "Meet your pupil and don't laugh!" and then sang her favorite aria he had taught her in her new cracked and gin husky voice. And the next morning they found her floating in the Hudson.

New York was nicknamed Gotham by Washington Irving in his Knickerbocker History. Hotels, apartment houses, banks, theaters and what not have been named in honor of the odd sobriquet. The men of the original Gotham in England were wise men or fools, as you please. The original Gotham is seven miles from Nottingham. The present population is 1,666. The men of Gotham, mostly farmers, are employed in the gypsum mines, which furnish England's plaster floors and ceilings. There is a legend that

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A New Reclamation Policy

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.—It is estimated that there are approximately one billion acres of arable land in the United States, barely half of which have been converted into improved land. There are 452,000,000 acres never brought under the plow.

Much of this vast uncultivated area consists of neglected, exhausted, or abandoned lands, or cut-over lands capable of being brought into agriculture. Millions of acres are located outside of the arid and semi-arid regions of the west. A considerable portion is to be found at the gates of the great cities of the East and Central states.

Within sight of the city of Washington, or readily accessible from the city, are thousands of acres of neglected lands in Virginia and Maryland, worn out and abandoned, yet susceptible of regeneration. In North Carolina 22,000,000 acres of the State's 31,000,000 acres are unimproved. Only 8,000,000 acres are in farms. Of 19,000,000 acres in South Carolina only 5,000,000 acres in 1924 were crop land. Tennessee cropped less than 8,000,000 of her 26,000,000 acres.

In the New England States several million acres of land have reverted to pasture. Of the 3,000,000 acres in Connecticut 497,435 acres were harvested in the last year for which figures are available. Vermont harvested 1,124,000 acres. Added to this were approximately 1,000,000 of unimproved land lost to agriculture through non-use, while the pasture lands in this State total 2,175,000 acres. New Hampshire cropped but 542,846 acres out of 2,262,000 acres in farms. The pasture lands in this State aggregate over 1,000,000 acres. Maine, with 5,164,000 acres in farms, cropped only 1,659,000 acres. Similar proportionate conditions exist in other States in this section of the country.

Great forests have been razed in Mississippi, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota during the last half century. The land lies idle. The soil in some localities requires only stumping to prepare it for the plow. Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, and Kentucky also contain neglected land and waste areas that might be utilized.

Sermon by Secretary Work
These are facts marshalled by Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work in what might be termed a sermon on the text, "This is a big country and we need to develop agriculture nearest the point of consumption."

Reclamation for a growing nation of 110,000,000 people should, from now on, he says, include recapture and restoration of lost soil fertility, beginning in the East, to feed the great cities it has built, and spreading west, following the necessity for it. Federal reclamation is no longer limited to a question of impounding water. The Government has demonstrated that it can hire engineers, buy material and build dams, but the Government cannot buy people or impress citizens for agriculture. Farming must be made attractive by being made profitable through accessibility to markets and an intensive diversity that will avoid possible crop failures.

The major portion of the untitled land in the East can be readily reclaimed, the Secretary of the Interior points out. Much of it awaits only the plow. Other portions need clearing of second growth. In most of these States are thinly-peopled regions, the inhabitants living on a soil skimmed of its cream, that with fertilizer may be made productive. Large communities with their concentrated populations afford a ready market for food products from these lands, with short truck hauls and consequent low rates for transportation. The reclamation of the East is invited by the king threatened to cut off the noses of all the inhabitants and to save themselves they decided to act like stark fools so the ruler would not harm them.

big wages in the cities, which mean consumers with money to spend, by the paved roads leading into those cities, cheap gasoline, and auto cars. The deforested lands of Mississippi, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota are within easy shipping distances of New Orleans, Birmingham, Atlanta, Memphis, Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, and other centers.

Reclamation of these humid regions does not require the expenditure of millions of dollars for irrigation works. Their water supply comes from the clouds and is spread without cost. The Federal Government has spent $200,000,000 to build irrigation works to provide water for 1,805,000 acres of arid and semi-arid lands in the West. Sixty million dollars will be required to complete these works and a like sum is to be spent in proposed new projects. Expenditure of lesser sums for fertilizers in the restoration of exhausted lands would make quick returns and eliminate the long haul.

A Similar Problem
"The same problem facing the Federal reclamation in the West, of attracting settlers and assisting them financially in erecting homes," continues Secretary Work, "applies to the East in providing fertilizer, buying farm implements, and establishing attractive agricultural communities. The question is whether we can settle agricultural communities by supplying social attractions which towns and cities provide, or must we wait for a dearth of city employment and higher prices of farm products to compel farm labor, and must we meet this labor with fertilizer or the dole?"

"How can we open the land to the plow and make it attractive to the plowman? After irrigation works have been built few now want to utilize them. It seems necessary to aid colonization and settlement of the lands under irrigation. It would appear then that the reclaiming of the uncultivated lands in the rain belt of the United States might be easier at less outlay of money."

"Reclamation is a national problem in conversation and should be so treated. It should be applied to the older sections of the United States as well as in the newer ones. We should farm less and farm better. No conservation policy, in its broad sense, that does not deal primarily with the production of human food near to the place of consumption is sound."

Secretary Work calls attention to the authorization by Congress of the expenditure of $100,000 for investigations into the settlement and reclamation of unpeopled, exhausted, and cut-over lands, and says that as yet very little interest has been aroused in the subject. The duty of conducting these investigations devolves upon his Department, and he says that the appropriation will not be expended in experimental colonization schemes on small areas of selected local interests. States have been and will be invited to participate actively in the investigations.

North and South Carolina have already joined with the Federal Government in making surveys of neglected agricultural areas within their borders, and have contributed money to be watched by Federal appropriations. "Other States, having wide stretches

RAIL OFFICERS CAN CARRY GUNS

Attorney General Lee Hands Down Ruling on Subject.

A special railway officer, commissioned by the governor, may carry a pistol while in the performance of his duties without a license from circuit court.

An opinion to that effect was prepared by Attorney General H. B. Lee, in response to an inquiry from a Huntington law firm that represent the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company.

In this opinion the attorney general construes section 7-a, chapter 148, of the code, as amended and re-enacted by the legislature of 1925. He calls attention to the main provision of the new law requiring persons who desire to carry pistols, etc., to make application to the circuit court for license, and then quotes: "Provided further, that nothing herein shall prevent railroad police officers duly appointed and qualified under authority of section 21 of chapter 145 of Barnes' code or duly qualified under the laws of any other state, from carrying any such weapon while actually engaged in their duties or in doing anything reasonably incident to such duties;" provided further, he says, that the $10,000 bond is filed.

"It seems clear from this," the attorney general concludes, "that the license provision does not apply to railroad police officers. As further evidence of the fact, you will note that such officers upon filing of bond are permitted to carry weapons whether they are officers commissioned by the governor of West Virginia or commissioned under the laws of other states. Only citizens of West Virginia may be commissioned by the governor of West Virginia. In order to get a license, applicant must show that he is a bona fide resident of West Virginia. You will note from this that the law permits a railroad police officer of another state to carry weapons if proper bond has been filed, whereas such officer could not secure a license in West Virginia unless he happened to be a bona fide resident of the state."

DOLLARS AND CENTS VALUE OF HUMAN BEING IS SOUGHT

Statistical Measure Based Upon Investment Man Represents and His Production Value.

New York.—The dollars and cents value of a human being's existence, taking into consideration the investment he represents and his commercial importance to the world, is being investigated by Dr. Louis L. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Insurance company, here.

"A man's estimate of the value of his own life may fluctuate widely," said Doctor Dublin. "At one time, he may be willing to sacrifice all his worldly goods to save his skin, and at another time, as suicide statistics show, he may value his life at less than nothing. But his family and his business associates and the community at large all have a close interest in his existence, and it is sometimes necessary for courts and insurance companies to set a numerical estimate on the worth of a human life. "The same methods that are used to evaluate manufacturing plants can be applied to the individual. We have to reckon the cost of installation, running expenses, and a sinking fund against the time of expiration. On the credit side of the account we have such items as current earnings, unpaid services rendered, participation in the upkeep of population, and so forth."

YOUR HEALTH

Ulcers in Mouths of Babies
Are Due to Wrong Feeding

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I ASKED a young farmer friend of mine about his baby. "He has the sprue," he replied. This is the name commonly given in the country to sore mouth of babies.

Real sprue is a disease of the tropics and of the Orient. It has inflammation and ulcers of the tongue and mouth lining as symptoms. In this respect it is not unlike the symptoms of what the doctors call "aphthous sore mouth" or "stomatitis." The same word is used for the condition known to the medical profession as "thrush." This is simply another form of stomatitis.

The simple type of stomatitis is met in all the age groups. In grown people there may be a single ulcer or a crop of them. These are known as cankers.

Aphthous stomatitis is recognized by the tiny swollen spots on the lining of the lips and cheeks and on the edge of the tongue. At first they are like little blisters, but pretty soon they break, leaving small ulcers.

Thrush differs from aphthous sore mouth. Instead of the ulcers, a sort of membrane forms on the lining of the lips and cheeks and also on "the roof of the mouth." There are areas slightly raised above the surface, and in color are pearly white. It is possible to scrape off the membrane which cannot be done in aphthous stomatitis.

All these disturbances of the mouth and tongue are due primarily to uncleanness or to wrong feeding. They are rare in well-developed and usually healthy babies. On this account, poorly nourished and debilitated children are more liable to attack.

Prevention is better than cure in respect to all human ills. But it is doubly true of what we may call the digestive ailments of children. Nine-tenths of the disabilities of babies can be traced to the lack of simple precautions necessary to proper infant feeding.

Unclean spoons, unclean feeding-bottles, unclean utensils used in the preparation of the feedings, uncleanliness of mother's fingers—some form of neglect is at the foundation of the trouble.

Let me say at once that I am never wilful or knowing neglect. Invariably it is due to lack of knowledge. Mothers are the most wonderful of God's creatures, and whenever they are taught, they never neglect to apply the most studied attention to the needs of their babies.

Just now we will not consider how to prepare the food and what to feed. I shall advise you what to do if baby's mouth gets sore.

An alkaline mouth wash is useful. Lime-water or a solution of bicarbonate of soda can be used. Add one teaspoonful of the soda to a glassful of water. Or borax may be employed in the same proportions.

A piece of soft cloth or the finger wrapped with absorbent cotton may be used to wash the little mouth. This must be done tenderly because it is very sore. This treatment is repeated every hour or two.

DR. COPELAND

The food intake must be regulated and the doctor will prescribe a proper treatment to build up the general health.

Answers to Health Questions

MR. A. G. Q.—What can I put on my daughter's nails to break her of the habit of biting?

A.—Try painting the nails with liniment of asafoetida. This has a very unpleasant taste and she should be effective in breaking the habit.

J. S. Q.—What would you advise for a pain in the back which is sometimes so severe as to cause the knees to become weak? I am just as tired in the morning as when I go to bed at night.

A.—Probably due to severe strain or lumbago. Try application of heat and massage with a good liniment. If this does not benefit the condition, have your back strapped. This is usually effective. Try to improve your general health and you will benefit generally.

THANK YOU. Q.—What causes a pain in the eyeball and a black spot appearing before the vision?

A.—This is a condition which should have the attention of a competent eye specialist, so that the proper procedure may be advised. Properly fitted glasses will probably correct the trouble.

A.—Indigestion in diet for a long time, failure in kidney functioning and constipation are all more or less responsible for high blood pressure.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of the paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. PLAN TO TRANSFER
INSANE PATIENTS

About 150 colored patients will be removed from Federal Reformatory for the Western State hospital to the new hospital for negro insane at Lakin, Mason county, it was announced by James S. Lakin, president of the state board of control. This removal will be made by a special train of three coaches. The patients will be accompanied by their attendants and by other colored employees of the Western institution who will become identified with the administration of the new hospital.

At the first of the year there were 235 negroes, 132 males and 103 females, at Weston. All the women and from one-third to one-half of the men will be transferred. The others will remain where they are until a new building is provided. From 50 to 75 white women will be transferred also on February 1 from Weston to the Spencer State hospital because of the overcrowded condition at the former institution.

Dr. Constance C. Barnett of Huntington is the superintendent of the hospital at Lakin.

Madison, Wis.—A source that will give a plentiful supply of news-print paper at lower cost has been found by the forest products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin.

Successful experiments conducted by the laboratory have resulted in the production of paper from eucalyptus wood grown in Sao Paulo, Brazil. A small roll run through the press of a newspaper here showed favorable printing qualities and ample strength for use in high-speed presses, experimenters said.

Dr. Edmundo Navarro de Andrade, who observed the experiment, said he believed that the new product would bring paper manufacture into prominence in Brazil. The paper can be produced at about half the cost of the present imported news print, the laboratory estimated.

NO FIGURES ON SCOUT DRIVE

Reports to be Made at Meeting Friday Night.

Although actual figures are still lacking on yesterday's Boy Scout campaign efforts, committee leaders in charge of the drive in Wellsville today expressed the opinion that the $1,300 quota would be obtained.

First definite reports on the campaign will be made at a meeting of teams, workers and committee members on Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall building.

More than a score of team captains and their workers started a city wide canvass yesterday for the city's share of the $10,000 which is being raised in the county for the promotion of a Boy Scout program.

A captain has been assigned to sections of the city as mapped out by the organization. The various districts probably will be canvassed by the teams at their convenience.

Funeral at Baptist Church. Funeral services for Mrs. Maud Martin, 61 years old, who died yesterday morning at her home in Kentworth following a long illness, will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the First Baptist church here, in charge of Rev. George White, pastor. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

How do you feel at 5 o'clock?

"ANOTHER day's work done! Now, for a regular dinner—and a good time with the wife and kiddies! Guess we'll see a movie, go for a walk in the park or take a long ride. Bet my wife has a fine juicy steak and potatoes—good cold buttered milk and hot rolls—and pie. Oh, Boy! makes my mouth water just to think of it."

Is that the way you feel at 5 P. M.? Or, are you just too played out for any good when your day's work is over?

If quitting time isn't really beginning time for you, then it's a sure sign that your entire system is starving for healthy, rich, red blood. And this is just as sure a sign that you need S. S. S. You've simply got to build up your blood.

For 100 years S. S. S. has been proving that a run-down system, rheumatism, loss of weight, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and nervousness, just as skin eruptions—boils, pimples, pale complexion and a lowered vitality, are all the result of blood weak in red cells.

Once let S. S. S. get to work and the joy of living will come back. 5 P. M. will have a different meaning to you. Get S. S. S. today. All druggists sell it. The larger size is more economical.

KIRBY CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

Final argument by Defense Attorney William L. Day and United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein and the charge of Judge John M. Killits, presiding in federal district court in Cleveland, were to be made today in the case of Josiah Kirby, founder and former head of the Cleveland Discount company, indicted for alleged use of the mails to defraud.

The case was expected to reach the jury late today.

Clashes between counsel and frequent admonitions from the bench marked the close of the case, the fifth in which Kirby has faced a jury as a result of the collapse of his gigantic concern.

He was tried and acquitted in California on a charge of violating that state's blue sky law.

Later, a grand jury in Cleveland, acting under the direction of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, returned three indictments against him. Kirby was tried on two of these, being acquitted on the first charge, the second trial resulting in a hung jury. He was then taken before the court of Delaware county, where another disagreement was reported.

A few weeks ago, a federal jury disagreed after long deliberation upon the alleged illegal use of the mails. Judge Killits, presiding at that time, immediately set the case down for trial again.

2 HARD GAMES FOR HIGH FIVE

Play E. Palestine Friday and Mingo Saturday.

A pair of road games will constitute Coach Earl Klineck's high school team's schedule this week and both engagements will provide stiff battles for the Orange and Black.

The locals will tackle East Palestine on Friday night and will go to Mingo on Saturday.

East Palestine is figuring strongly on boosting its average in the Columbian county conference flag race by winning over the locals on Friday. A defeat, on the other hand, would practically eliminate the Orange and Black from further consideration as a title contender, inasmuch as Salem thus far is undefeated and East Liverpool has been beaten once.

While the Orange and Black passers are not so optimistic as to entertain thoughts of a victory over the East Palestine five, which is really a strong, fast squad, they are confident that they are going to make the north counties step for every tally they gather in.

In view of the rapidity with which the local five has been coming along in recent weeks, in comparison to the efforts of the early days of the season, a victory would not be entirely an impossibility and Klineck's lads themselves feel they will be in the running until the last whistle.

HENRY AVENUE COASTING TRACK

In his efforts to provide coasting tracks for children of the city and at the same time maintain a certain degree of safety, Mayor W. L. Fogo has not overlooked the youngsters of the west end.

Fifth street and Fourteenth street have already been designed for coasters of the upper and mid-sections of the city. And now Henry avenue has been announced as a track for children in the west end who have no other available place to use their sleds.

Mayor Fogo, however, warns coasters to steer clear of Clark avenue, and to confine the sport to the upper portion of Henry avenue, starting from Buckeye.

Letters to Editor

Hospital Patient's Appreciation. Elyria, Ohio, January 26, 1916. Editor Review-Tribune, East Liverpool, Ohio.

Dear Sir: Having been admitted to the Memorial hospital at Elyria on August 3, 1925, and having been closely confined ever since I feel that it is my duty through the columns of your paper to express my thankfulness to those who have been so kind to me since leaving my home located about five miles west of Irontona.

Since entering the institution which I have found to be a fine one, I have met with various children from all parts of Ohio. The majority of them are cripples, who have been in the past and are today being greatly improved by doctors, who are specialized in orthopedic cases only.

Gates hospital, which is a short distance from the Memorial hospital, gets its name from the founder of it and in that hospital all the orthopedic cases, under the age of 14 years are taken care of. Older children are treated at the Memorial hospital.

Both hospitals under careful construction have been built so as to obtain the very best results for the children patients. For instance the Gates hospital is equipped with a sun porch while here we have a sun porch, each serving not only for sun treatment but for recreational purposes. Gates also has its school room in the basement where each child, if able, attends. Those who are confined to their beds are taught in their rooms, thereby enabling us to prepare for our vocational calling and at the same time speed along the road to recovery.

I want to thank the teachers of the Irontona high school, where I was a student last year, for the good I have obtained as a result of their teachings and also the students for their kindness during the school term of 1925, not only in their school work but recreational activities as well.

As for our recreation here we consider reading the most important one, along with a few games. We often amuse ourselves by watching the various things which other children are doing about the hospital—coasting and skating.

Letters and Questions About Health

By Dr. Lewis Baker and Associates

An Advertisement Informing The Public In a Common-sense Manner How To Distinguish The Simple Ailments And Symptoms, And The Right Remedies For Treatment. Each Medicine Possesses The Highest Qualities For The Purpose Intended.

Sometimes, small crystals form in the tubules of the kidney, creating irritation and producing the sensation of "backache." Often these crystals are formed in the bladder, producing pains and irritation very annoying to the person. The imperfect secretion of the urinary product also accounts for burning, stinging sensations while frequent calls at night disturb the sleep and rest, required to renew energy. Elderly persons often have to arise from three to a dozen times to get a temporary relief from such distress.

For such trouble I recommend a compound of diuretic, soothing, saline agents, Balmwort Tablets which act promptly in almost every case, producing a normal flow of urine, strength and a general feeling of well being.

R. B. J. writes: "I have a trembling of the nerves and a 'shaky' sensation in arms and legs which annoys me greatly. I am in a nervous, run-down state, with poor appetite. Don't sleep well and am both weak and easily irritated all the time." Answer: If constipation is one source of your trouble, take Sulphur tablets as a liver and bowel tonic, while taking Cadomene tablets as a tonic for the blood and nerves. They may be taken at the same time.

Mrs. A. C. writes: "My two children have been out of school for two weeks because of a severe cold. Nothing we have used has seemed to help them and I write for advice."

Answer: Obtain essence Menthon-Laxene and dilute it with sugar syrup or honey. Give this to your children every hour or two. This is being used by thousands of mothers, because it is quickly effective and contains no opiates, chloroform, or narcotics to upset the little stomachs.

R. L. J. writes: "I am suffering with terrible rheumatism pain and want a safe relief without morphine or kindred drugs." Answer: Ask druggist for 5-grain Sul-thol tablets (pronounced sooth-ally). Contain no opiates or narcotics, but act quickly in relieving pain, headache, etc.

Answer to Miss R. C.: Perspiration odors, armpit odors, foot odors, are readily banished and prevented by the regular use of medicated Chex soap for toilet and bath. It has elusive fragrance, but no medicinal odor, is beautifying to the skin because of its high quality and unusual medication.

Answer to A. R.: For nasal catarrh apply Menthon-Laxene Salve in nostrils morning and night. This salve is useful in preventing colds in the head and should have a place in every home.

Note: Dr. Lewis Baker, Medical Director of The Blackburn Products Co., 312 College Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, will send his valuable guide to Health and Beauty, to any address upon receipt of five cents. The trustworthy medicines advertised can be obtained at all leading druggists.

Dr. Baker is known to millions, and the scores of grateful letters received daily similar to the following:

Sulphur Drives Pimples Away

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Master Isaac Zilinsky, 1 Rogers St., writes: "I am writing of the benefits I received from using Sulphur Tablets and I recommend them to all who suffer from pimples (acne) boils, constipation, etc. In the last two years my face was badly covered with pimples and my blood was poor. I read about Sulphur and when I had finished the second box my pimples had disappeared entirely. I ate better and seemed to be getting along wonderfully, etc."

Nasal Catarrh Benefited

PATERSON, N. J., Mrs. A. Zimlingham, 647 E. 23rd St., writes: "The children and myself are using Menthon-Laxene Salve for nasal catarrh and we breathe much more freely, etc."

Common Trouble Corrected

NEWARK, N. J., Mrs. J. E. White, 34 Chestnut St., writes: "I am a woman over forty. Was troubled with a scant flow of urine. After taking two large boxes of Balmwort Tablets the flow became normal, as it should and I feel very much benefited and wish to recommend it, etc."

"Night" Coughing Gone

CHICAGO, ILL., Mrs. Joseph Balaban, 55 W. Ohio St., writes: "My husband and baby had a choking cough that nothing we could find helped, and I was in despair for want of sleep. One bottle of Menthon-Laxene—it's not all gone, but the coughs are, and for the first time in weeks we all sleep. I was bothered with constipation until I used the Casca-Royal Pills, and now I am regular every day. These products will always have a regular place in our medicine chest, etc."

Tonic-Medicine Brought Strength

NEW YORK CITY, Mr. E. Prete, 119 W. 16th St., writes: "I am 33 years old and married. Working as a waiter and for a long time suffering indigestion, I became all run down. After using Cadomene tablets, I can be on my feet 12 hours, go home and feel like enjoying life. Before I took Cadomene tablets I would be all in and could not even talk to my wife. Now my wife tells me I look like a young man again and full of pep, etc."

Chex Soap—"Above Any"

WACO, TEXAS: A Physician endorses Chex as follows: "We find Chex to be a high grade toilet and deodorant soap and think no better could be made. By test it is far above any we have ever used, etc."

BELGIUM BOWS HEAD IN HONOR OF CARDINAL

All Classes Pay Sobbing Homage to Mercier.

KING MOURNER

Thousands Line Streets of Brussels as Funeral Passes.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 28.—All Belgium bade her beloved Cardinal Mercier farewell today.

Within the austere cathedral of St. Gudule, its contours hidden by billowing miles of crepe, all classes gathered to pay their sobbing last homage to the heroic divine whose voice raised in defiance of the destroying German invaders had won the plaudits of a universe.

Except for the queen, confined to her bed because of an attack of grippa, all members of the royal household were present. Behind the king were the clergy, the high government officials, the diplomatic representatives of all nations, and all the everyday Belgians from peasant to shopkeeper who could crowd into the church.

Five thousand in Cathedral.
The body of the Cardinal, reposing in a simple lead casket rested on an enormous catafalque surrounded by a triple row of huge candles. The interior of the casket was lined with purple velvet. Attached to the oak-covered exterior were seven massive bronze handles, and a plain mahogany cross, and bronze plaque with the inscription:

"Desire Joseph, Cardinal Mercier, sixteenth archbishop of Malines, died January 23, 1926, in the seventy-fifth year of his life, the fifty-second year of his priesthood, the twentieth of his reign as a primate of Belgium."

While five thousand were seated within the cathedral, thousands more unable to enter pressed against the heavy outer doors. The ceremony within St. Gudule was short and severely simple. The requiem mass was chanted by a mixed choir and the funeral oration was pronounced by Monsignor Evard, dean of the cathedral.

On the road between East Liverpool and Lisbon traffic was not suspended.

No Coal Shortage.

The Ohio Bell Telephone company office reported little damage from the storm. One or two of the toll lines are reported to have been disabled, but other lines are in working order.

In order to conserve the supply for domestic consumers, the Manufacturers' Light & Heat company today placed a ban on the use of gas for industrial purposes.

"We have plenty of pressure for the homes," said T. H. Stephens, manager of the local office. "Potteries must not light further kilns until there is some abatement of the cold weather."

This is the second time this year that the gas company has been forced to put a ban on gas in the potteries. Coal dealers reported many orders, but said deliveries are being made promptly. There is no shortage of coal.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—With the mercury hovering around two degrees above zero at 11 a. m. here today, the government weather bureau announced that below zero temperatures might be expected by Friday morning. A sharp biting wind made the cold more intense.

70-Mile Gale in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 28.—Riding on the crest of a 70-mile gale, which caused the snow that fell during the night to pile in drifts in some cases several feet high, the mercury in Cleveland had dropped to four degrees above zero today in the third cold snap of the present winter.

The storm, breaking with unexpected suddenness, stalled hundreds of automobiles, some of which were abandoned on the streets by their owners. A terrific jam, caused by cars skidding on the snow-covered streets, or stalling in the drifts resulted on the west side, and police worked for hours during the early morning hours in untangling the jam. Edgewater Park boulevard, running along the shore of Lake Erie, was closed by police order, while the jam was being straightened out.

Snow plows were operated by the Cleveland Railway company throughout the night in an effort to keep the car lines open for traffic.

Cold Wave Grips West.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The entire mid-west was gripped today in the coldest of several cold waves this month.

Sweeping out of Alaska a high pressure area bore the mercury down to 25 to 40 degrees below zero in Canadian provinces and the northwest.

The thermometer took a dive to five below zero in Chicago, and a 48-

Two-Week Evangelistic Meet Opens In Baptist Church

Rev. Mel Morris, of Greensboro, Md., Preaches Before Large Crowd on "Ye Old Time Revival."

Rev. Mel Morris, Greensboro, Md., "old-time religion evangelist," opened a two weeks series of special meetings in the First Baptist church, West Fifth street, last evening, preaching to a packed house. Rev. Mr. Morris is district superintendent of evangelism in the Delmar peninsula, which embraces four counties in Maryland and Delaware.

For his opening discourse last evening, Rev. Mr. Morris spoke on the subject, "Ye Old Time Religious Revival." Tonight his subject will be

Rev. Mel Morris

"Two Preachers in Jail." Special music was rendered in connection with last night's service and will be featured again this evening. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the church is assisting in the services.

In his sermon last evening, Rev. Mr. Morris said:

"The world needs a genuine, deep-seated, widespread, spiritual awakening. The general condition of affairs is proof of the truth of this statement. Anarchy lifts its red flag and there is unrest everywhere. Industrial strife, race prejudice, greed, lust, political jealousy, murder, theft, divorce and indifference to religion, are matters of everyday news in the press of this country. Sin and lawlessness are rife in the world. The world is sitting on the edge of a volcano. Satan is leading on, seeking to make the world a howling wilderness."

"The church is swamped with revivals that leave out righteousness and the witness of God's spirit. She is looking askance at the multitude of societies, conferences, syndicates of piety, aggregation of instrumentalities and plans, that make one think of the problem. She is troubled with experiments, theories and activities, all intended for her good, but few or none of them usable in the state she is now in."

"She wants her borders enlarged and convert multiplied, but is wary of those new-fangled incubators that hatch out hundreds at a brood, and all too weak to cackle, crow, or roost out of doors."

"The need of the hour is not more education, recreation, education or reformation. The need of the hour is more religion. We need a nation wide revival of the old fashioned unadulterated, uncompromised, pure, clean, full, perfect and complete religion of Jesus Christ, from the halls of Congress to the factories, mines and forests."

"In short we need a revival of religion which will make every man and woman strive in every act of life to do that which on the great judgment day they will wish they had never done, as with soul uncovered they stand before the judgment bar of the Eternal Judge."

mile wind which whipped over Lake Michigan and the Chicago district caused boats to run for cover and seriously interrupt highway and rail communication in some isolated sections of the mid-west.

The mercury reached its lowest point, officially, at the Pas, Manitoba, where the government thermometer registered 40 below. Duluth, Minnesota, with 30 below, and Fargo, North Dakota, recording 20 below, were among the coldest spots.

While but little snow fell at most mid-season points, gales whipped it into drifts which stalled many highway buses and slowed up train schedules.

Fifty fire alarms were reported in Minneapolis within a few hours after the mercury started a 35-degree dip last night to 19 below at 7 o'clock this morning.

Tonight will see the worst of the cold wave past, the weather bureau promises.

the world court, outnumbered ten or twelve to one, will know it, when he takes his seat as the joke of that court.

Great is the power of courageous initiative. You understand how Alexander with his handful of men could scatter the gigantic Persian army, including the Persian war elephants, when you read about the Italian bulldog of Turin.

This animal, not liking the appearance of five elephants in a circus parade, dashed at them and bit one of them on the soft, tender end of its trunk. Away went the five elephants, galloping and trumpeting in all directions. One of the frightened creatures was found jammed in the entrance of a stairway.

That bulldog had confidence in himself, and that is a wonderful quality. Too had this nation and this administration lack that confidence. George Washington had it. And for that reason this is not a British colony.

A gathering of religious gentlemen, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, met to discuss the injection of religion into public schools. The meeting, naturally broke up in a row, when somebody suggested as a compromise reading the Ten Commandments out loud every day.

One lady from the National Security league objected to "Thou shalt not kill," saying it is "pacifist propaganda."

Before the meeting was over Catholic gentlemen said their church had been insulted. Protestants said that Jesus Christ had been insulted. A few atheists present smiled. Why not leave religion out of government? Must that American plan be changed?

Dr. John Lester, speaking to college men, says snobbishness rules. Boys from public high schools are rejected by university examining boards, boys from expensive private schools are favored.

Private school applicants for college examinations have increased 23 percent, applicants from public high schools have fallen off 20 percent.

That annoys our high school boys. They need not pity the high school boys. They go into real life and in nine cases out of ten are more fortunate than those that devote four years to "rah-rahing" and come out of college four years behind the procession.

In addition to the $2,748 collected by the two divisions, the executive committee reported $1,975. This was divided, bringing Dr. Bode's total up to $2,390.50 and that of Attorney Stevenson's unit to $2,332.50. The executive committee consisted of T. E. Lewis, W. H. Vodrey, Malcolm Thompson, Edwin Wells, J. M. Wells, Charles Boyce, Hugh McNeil, Fred B. Lawrence, M. J. Lynch and James S. Hilbert.

Campaign Chief Thanks Workers
T. E. Lewis presided at last night's meeting. He extended his thanks to the workers for their efforts, to the contributors and to all others who cooperated in making the drive a success. A unanimous vote of thanks was extended The Review-Tribune for the publicity given during the campaign.

Harry Wilson, county scout executive, tentatively outlined his program in the county and the two West Virginia communities—Chester and Newell. He said that scouting work in this district will be conducted along organized lines in the future. Troops, once organized, will never be disbanded, he declared.

"My goal for 1926," said Wilson, "is 20 scouts for every 1,000 persons in every town under my jurisdiction. I cannot do this job myself but must have the co-operation of the leading men in every community. Scoutmasters must be trained to lead the troops. Furnish me with competent leaders as scoutmasters and I'll furnish you with more boys than you can take care of."

The speaker also pointed out the need for a summer scout camp where boys may be trained in outdoor life. He also lauded the workers for their efforts asserting that he never saw a drive for funds put across more enthusiastically than in East Liverpool.

CROWD HEARS LORAY, 'Girl With Double Vision,' Visits Review-Tribune

REV. M. M. BUSSEY
Nazarene Church Revival Will Close Sunday.

Large crowds are attending the closing week of the revival services at the Church of the Nazarene, St. Clair and Lincoln avenues. The services are in charge of Rev. M. M. Bussey, New Jersey evangelist.

Last night the evangelist spoke on the subject "The Greatest Conflict of the Ages." Sixteen persons were at the altar at the close of the service. Tonight he will deliver one of his most famous sermons, "The Glorious Beginning of Man."

The special meetings will close Sunday.

In his last night's service, Rev. Bussey said:
"Every age has had its wars between man and man, but the conflict which lives through all the centuries is that between right and wrong. Sometimes men are able to effect terms of peace, but there is no compromise between God and the Devil. You must defeat sin through the power of Christ or have sin defeat you and bring your soul to eternal ruin."

"None are neutral in this war. The devil was defeated by the powers of heaven in the first conflict in which he engaged. He is a defeated foe from the beginning. The devil was the first sinner, and the beginning of his sin was pride. This sin lurks deep rooted in the human heart."

"God has no other remedy for sin except the Gospel of the New Testament. All wrong is as certainly doomed to defeat as there is a God on the throne."

"Satan, sin and sinners will certainly be cast into hell and there will be a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. Men may deny these facts, but they cannot change them."

"The death of Christ on calvary assures the salvation of every one who is willing to be saved. Those who will not be saved, must of their own accord be lost."

herence, however, claimed their greatest victory in the reservations.

Briefly, these provide that America may withdraw at any time; that no advisory opinion can be rendered concerning any case in which the United States has an interest "or claims an interest," without the express consent of the senate, and no case can be submitted to the court's jurisdiction without the consent of two-thirds of the senate.

In this respect, at least, the vote of American adherence to the court represents a backward, instead of a forward step, from American support of the old Hague tribunal, to which the United States has subscribed for a quarter of a century.

"As a matter of fact," one international authority in the senate observed today, "this vote in the senate means no more than a renewal of our adherence to the old Hague tribunal."

He referred to the fact that under The Hague tribunal, the president could submit a disputed case of arbitration, and in the case of the court the senate has now taken over the determination of when cases involving American interests shall be submitted to the operation of international justice. It represents a distinct loss for executive power in the handling of international relations, and a distinct gain in power for the senate in its never-ending conflict with the executive branch of the government.

One of the principal effects of the senate's vote, therefore, appeared today to be a material tightening of the senate's grip on the conduct of international relations. Sixty-six senators must consent before the world court can deal with any question in which the United States has, or claims to have, an interest.

There have been few more dramatic moments in senate history than that of last night when the three-year battle ended with a vote.

Wary from the incessant battling of the last six weeks, hoarse from many speeches, nerves frayed and raw from the pin-pricking debate of sore subjects, the senate snarled its way to a vote.

It was 76 to 17, fourteen more than the two-thirds necessary to ratify.

Loray, 'Girl With Double Vision,' Visits Review-Tribune

Keith Vaudeville Star, Appearing at American Theatre, Gives Private Performance in Newspaper Office.

Loray, "the girl with a double vision," is featured in the vaudeville bill, which is being offered patrons of the American theatre for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Miss Loray and her manager, Neal B. Navarre, staged a private performance for members of the editorial staff of The Review-Tribune, this morning. Although blindfolded the "girl" was able to give names, articles of wearing apparel, numerals on a bank note, pages in a book which she had never seen, as well as answers to other baffling questions.

This act is one which has been staged on the Keith-Albee circuit for several seasons.

Miss Loray will appear three times each day during her stay in the city—at the matinee performance and twice during the evening. Three other vaudeville acts and a feature motion picture make up the bill offered for the latter part of the week.

was stated. The seas while turbulent are causing no alarm, they added.

"Absolute nonsense," were the words used this morning by the officials of the company to describe the reports that the Olympic was in danger.

The Olympic sailed for Cherbourg at 8:30 last night and has not been heard from since, indicating that all was well, the officials added.

British Freighter Lost.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—A victory and a defeat for man in a mighty struggle with the Atlantic in her most vicious mood were told in radio dispatches today from the liners President Roosevelt and Bremen.

The victory was the rescue of the entire crew of the British freighter Antioch—24 men in all—accomplished by the heroic efforts of the men on the United States line steamship, the President Roosevelt. The rescue cost the lives of two members of the crew of the latter vessel, together with six smashed lifeboats.

The defeat was the sinking of the British freighter Laristan, with 24 on board, in mountainous seas near Halifax while the North German Lloyd steamer Bremen stood by, virtually helpless. Through the determination of the Bremen's crew, however, six men were saved before the Laristan went to pieces.

Lifeboats Smashed.

The sad news of the Laristan's fate was contained in a message from Capt. R. Wurpts of the Bremen. It read:

"Saw the Laristan last evening. In morning only sighting floating on water, and as nothing more was seen it is assumed that the Laristan went down."

Both the Bremen and the President Roosevelt experienced extreme difficulty in keeping the sinking ships in view. The violence of the seas made it impossible for a vessel to stay on a course. The engine rooms of both the Laristan and Antioch were flooded and this disabled their radio and crippled their lighting system. The men clinging to the Antioch used hand lanterns to signal with.

Lifeboats were smashed to kindling by the raging waves, which also made it impossible to get lines aboard the helpless hulks.

Deny S. O. S. Call.

During the night considerable fright was aroused by the circulation of an erroneous report which said the White Star liner Olympic had sent out an S. O. S. The White Star line in London as well as the Tropical Radio Corporation discredited the report.

The latter announced it had been in communication with the liner Scythia, which is in mid-Atlantic and was informed that the Scythia had got in touch with the powerful radio stations on the coast of Ireland and that neither of these stations nor the Scythia had received any S. O. S. call.

The Olympic sailed for Cherbourg at 8:30 last night.

VISCOUNT KATO DIES IN TOKIO

Japanese Cabinet Resigns as Death Claims Chief.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Viscount Kato, the Japanese prime minister, is dead after an illness of four days, a Central News dispatch from Tokio said today. Kato had been suffering with influenza.

Shortly after the announcement, the cabinet which Kato had headed since June, 1924, resigned.

Kato had been active in public life for 30 years, starting his career as a statesman with his appointment in 1894 to the court of St. James. To Kato has been attributed the credit for the Anglo-Japanese treaty signed in 1911 in fulfillment of which Japan declared war on Germany in 1914.

The late premier had been described as the bitterest and most irreconcilable enemy of America's immigration policy.

Beth Merrill, Belasco Show Star Gives Beauty Hints

Leading Lady of "Ladies of Evening" Will Appear in Stage Success at Ceramic Theatre Tonight.

"Every girl who has been born with a normal body and mind can make herself more beautiful by assisting nature to accomplish that seemingly impossible feat," says Beth Merrill, the leading lady of David Belasco's "Ladies of Evening," coming to the Ceramic theatre Thursday, January 28th. Miss Merrill is fair to look upon. Her skin would send a beauty expert into ecstasy, for it seems as translucent as alabaster. Off the stage, the actress uses no cosmetics whatever. It is to the abstinence from them that she attributes the excellence of her complexion.

"It is impossible to dictate rules that would be suitable for everybody. Unfortunately we are not all born alike, owing to the environment, the habits of ancestors and other causes. But these general rules may be observed by everyone. First, study the laws of nature and obey them. One must learn to take proper care of the body. Proper diet, a rational amount of exercise preferably in the open air and sunlight and then rest. Diet is most important, for women. Too few have sufficient exercise to use up the amount of food they put into their system and the latter soon becomes clogged up and poisoned. Then goodbye to clear complexion and energy. Food that will regulate the functions of the body and furnish nourishment with the least tax on the digestion should be eaten. I eat very little meat. I find

I am better off without it. For the girl who goes in for athletics, sweets are a necessity; for other women they are poisons.

"Mental conditions reflect on the face. Have you ever observed the faces of nuns in cloistered convents? Even in old age they have scarcely a wrinkle and their faces are filled with a spiritual beauty very often. Now and then you come across a woman in the world in whose face there is a charm that is indescribable. You will find there is a beautiful mind behind it. I know one of these women and her children are as beautiful as she is. All her life has been filled with poetry and beautiful thoughts. Her house is filled with beautiful pictures, classic statuary and other objects. The moral is, cultivate both body and mind and you will be amazed how Mother Nature will respond and help you."

MICROBES HOUSED IN A "MENAGERIE"

Germes Fatal to Man, Beast and Plant Found in London Institute.

London.—More deadly than adders, swifter than the tiger, more stealthy than the leopard and in sufficient numbers to lay low all Britain, more than 2,000 "terrors" to man and beast are housed in a Chelsea gardens structure, and thousands pass the building daily unmindful of the lurking death within. Inside the house bacteriologists, and leading surgeons, physicians and scientists of the empire handle the death-dealing "monsters" with a nonchalance that would shock the layman.

It is Menagerie of Microbes, the National Collection of Type Cultures maintained at the Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine, and the "monsters" are listed, labeled and cared for with even greater solicitude than that shown for ferocious animals in the London zoo. In the new catalogue just issued by the Medical Research Council upward of 2,000 living strains of bacteria and protozoa are listed as inmates of this scientific menagerie. The catalogue not only lists the "animals" alphabetically, but includes their scientific names with a complete description of their source and habits. It also gives a list of the subjects with reference to their related organisms.

Special Temperatures.

Just as the wild animals in the zoo require certain temperatures in which to thrive, so do the "exhibits" in the microbe menagerie. Some of the varieties insist upon polar atmosphere, others demand the heat of the torrid zone and others will live only in the balmy winds of the temperate zone. The vagaries and demands of these frequently invisible terrors are met with and precise care taken to see that nothing will interfere with pleasure and comfort.

From all parts of the world scientists and bacteriologists have sent to the Lister Institute the minute "animals" so that the private collection of the Institute, long famous, has been so greatly augmented that it is said to surpass any in the world. For years the Pasteur Institute maintained a collection in Paris, another in Prague and yet another in the Museum of Natural History, New York. Each of these, however, were limited in scope, and five years ago the Medical Research Council enlisted the co-operation of the Lister Institute to expand the Chelsea gardens collection to its present size. To it also was added the type culture of fungi gathered by the British Mycological society.

As a result of the move in 1920, it now is possible for any surgeon or physician, any bacteriologist, pathologist or researcher in protozoology, or the scientific adviser of any industry to find in the Chelsea Gardens menagerie living cultures of the majority of the known strains of microbes. Here, too, he can obtain authentic knowledge of the animals with which to compare the organisms in which he is interested.

Last year more than 4,000 cultures were distributed to interested workers. While many of these went to industries, the bulk of them were used to save human and animal lives. The collection is not limited to malevolent organisms, despite the fact that the bulk of cultures are of those that cause disease in man, animals and plants. For instance there are examples of microbial pests of tobacco, which, taken from the finer strains of tobacco, when propagated and isolated may be used to improve inferior varieties. Then there is a mold from Camembert and Roquefort cheese which, when grafted on the plain English cheese, imparts to it the flavor of the foreign varieties.

Few Are Visible.

The naked eye is able to discern few of the "animals" in this compact menagerie. There are some that can be seen and these are relegated to a prominent "cage" in the institute room.

But it is the invisible "terrors" that interest the scientists and bacteriologists. There are more than thirty strains, or species, of the genus Aspergillus in the living state. They were taken from the soy products and used in making pickles in China, from the dust in the London subway, from the meaty bug of the sugar cane and from the wild animals in the London zoo.

Of the tubercle bacillus alone there are more than twenty specimens or strains. Some come from human cases

CARILLON OF BELLS MAY BECOME POPULAR IN U. S.

Instrument Used in Low Countries of Europe for Centuries to Promote Love of Music.

New York.—The carillon with clavier as an instrument in civic musical education has been peeling from singing towers in continental low countries for hundreds of years, but it has only lately become better known outside the boundaries of its origin.

Belgium and Holland accepted the bells as a means of cultivating and teaching a love for folk-songs and the great melodies of their fatherland.

The carillon has shared its companionship in all the stirring events in the history of these countries, usually at the public charge. In not a few of the towers the carillon has been played for one hundred years or more.

Nerves-Fits

If you have overstepped the limit and your nerves are unstrung, have terrible nervous spells and in mind and body are on the verge of nervous exhaustion, a single dose of WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER will bring rest, sleep and recuperation. on the same day and at the same hour.

While the United States has but fifteen sets of the bells in operation, declares William Gorham Rice, who has devoted a great part of his life to the chronicling of carillons, it nevertheless can boast of the largest in the world. He says no carillon built since the earliest Hemony in 1645 compares in size with the one installed in the Park Avenue Baptist church here by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother.

Rice describes the carillon as a characteristic democratic municipal music in a book published by Dodd, Mead & Co. August Heckscher, New York philanthropist, has offered to present one of the instruments to the city as a World war memorial. If the city will erect a tower in the middle of Central park in which to house it.

The carillon had its origin in a mechanical arrangement of sets of small bells in connection with the clocks which in the Fifteenth century came to be an essential part of the municipal towers of the low countries. It was not long before the mechanism was arranged to play a little tune.

The first modern carillon on the American continent was installed at the Metropolitan church, Toronto, Rice says, and the first in the United States was in the Church of Our Lady of Good Hope, at Gloucester, Mass. Others are at Andover and Cohasset, Mass.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cranbrook and Detroit, Mich.; Morristown, Plainfield and Princeton, N. J.; St. Paul, Minn.; Notre Dame, Ind., and Philadelphia. There are 184 of the instruments in existence.

Has Self Arrested as

Drunk; Dies in Fire

Marshfield, Ore.—Fire which destroyed the Lakeside wooden city jail burned to death Fred Kulju, a boy of twenty, who obtained too much moonshine while attending a dance and, at his own request, was placed in the jail until he hoped to recover.

Coroner Kelzer, who investigated the affair believed that Kulju was smoking and fired his bedding.

The jail burned before the fire was discovered. Kulju was found in the middle of the ruins, with most of the bedding wrapped about his upper body. His legs were burned off to the knees and his arms were also burned to cinders.

Kulju was said to have been drinking for the first time. His request of the night officer to put him away was verified by the officer, Willetts.

Sciatic Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint, is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pain which shoots down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The disease is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain.

The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenru Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished, all pain and soreness. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and rest in comfort once again. Mathews' Original Cut Rate Store keeps Allenru Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

The Wizard Edison

Perhaps no living man today has created more for the benefit of the public than the Wizard Edison, or who has devoted more actual hours to the study and science of electric energy. There are many others in the world who have achieved greatness, and whose names will go down into history as inventors, philosophers, scientists, etc. For instance, there is the little army of medical scientists, the chemists, who are eternally studying and experimenting with the various ills of life and medical methods with which to successfully combat them. Back in Columbus, Ohio's Capital City, is a chemist who has devoted many years of study to the human stomach and its various functions, diseases, etc., and who has successfully produced and placed on the market a remedy for stomach ailments, indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver troubles, rheumatism, etc. This remedy is Ka-di-ol, and is a laxative herbal liquid, pleasant and healthful in its action on the stomach. Thousands who have benefited by its use have testified as to its merits in alleviating and removing the troubles mentioned above, as well as being a great blood purifier.

Mr. Frank Coe, Hager Hills, Ky., says: "My stomach and kidneys were out of order and gave me considerable trouble. I had indigestion, gas, sleepless nights, headaches, and all run down. Three bottles of Ka-di-ol relieved me of all my misery. I now feel fine all the time."

Ka-di-ol is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores.

KELANTAN WAXES FAT ON RUBBER

Steeping Climate of Malay State Swathes Hills in Densest Forests.

Washington.—American automobile owners unknowingly helped to pay the award of nearly $2,000,000, which the Malay state of Kelantan recently gave on court order to an Englishman. Kelantan is waxing financially fat on rubber so the treasury probably found no difficulty in compensating the winner of the case, which, among other things, revealed how English commerce penetrated Kelantan back in the eighties and how the state was incorporated into the British empire in 1909.

Kelantan's present prospects and the improvements effected in its government are related in a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. Has Mountains Florida Lacks.

"Think of the Malay peninsula as an elongated Florida tucked on southeast Asia. Singapore shall be Key West; then the southern boundary of Kelantan is approximately in the position of Orlando and the northern boundary is 150 miles above, that is, at Jacksonville, Fla. Kelantan is 60 miles deep, which is a trifle more than half the width of Florida. Since Kelantan lies five degrees from the equator, it would be quite willing to trade mountains for a bit of Florida's latitude.

"Miami had a 14-inch fall of rain recently which seems to put it in the running with Kelantan where over 100 inches fall annually in the plains districts. When the figures are all in Florida's average will be shown only one-third as great. Kelantan's steeping climate swathes its hills in the densest of tropical forests. The jungle is matted above ground and matted below. An American surveyor boring for a bridge pier cut through 100 feet of crushed and rotting leaves and branches to find the bottom obstructed by a rotting trunk of a forest monarch that may have fallen more than a century before.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker.

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, in the form of a white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, antritis, neuritis, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frostbitten feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

FRIDAY'S SILENT STATIONS

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

West Park Ave.,
Lisbon, O.
Phone 319-R.

ROAD PROGRAM IS FORMULATED

County Commissioners
Seek Bids on First
Big Project.

Contractors are interested in the road construction program of this county as has been outlined for this year, and as a result letters are being received daily by Clerk L. H. Johnson of the county commissioners' office and also by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk inquiring about the various projects.

The county commissioners Thursday announced their purpose to open bids at 1 o'clock Monday, Feb. 15, for the grading and drainage structures of that section of the East Liverpool-Yongstown road in St. Clair and Madison townships, extending from the new graded part of this road north to the Y. & O. sub-station through Cannons Mills and westward to connect with the Lincoln highway at Apples corner. A section of this road from Apples corner east to Cannons Mills has been graded, but from Cannons Mills south to the sub-station grading remains to be done.

This job has been estimated to cost $64,447.18 and has to do with three divisional sections of this new inter-county highway. The contract for the surfacing of this road will be awarded probably after the grading and drainage structures have been completed.

The Holmes construction company of Wooster was the low bidder for the concrete surfacing of the 3.9 miles of the Cleveland-East Liverpool road in Mahoning county, it has been announced by the state highway department, according to an official report just received by County Surveyor Kirk. The bid for concrete was $115,201.07.

Jesse D. Paxson of Salem entered a bid of $119,136.57 for concrete on this job, but the Salem firm was low on a macadam surface, its bid for this type of construction being $116,607.02.

Since the bid for concrete was the lowest it is believed the state will eventually award the job to the Wooster firm. The Cleveland-East Liverpool road is that part of the Benton road leading north from Salem, and it is the purpose of the state highway department and the county commissioners to improve the short stretch of this road in this county this year.

Two other road jobs are to be awarded by the county commissioners February 8th, this being a section of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in Knox township, and also the Georgetown-Valley road, also in Knox township.

It is the purpose of the state highway department and also the county commissioners to award road contracts as early as possible, so that no delay will result in contractors getting on projects at the earliest moment.

Marriage Licenses.

Leon H. Colley, a National bank examiner residing in Cleveland, and a former resident of Jonesboro, Tenn., and Enid Kilbreath, a milliner of Salem, but formerly at Wilkesport, Canada, have been granted a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Miller of Salem.

Elmer J. McConnell of East Liverpool, formerly residing at Ashville, Pa., and Irma Catherine Perrett, also of East Liverpool and a former resident of Creston, Pa., have been granted a marriage license. They are to be married by Rev. W. J. Fowler of St. Aloysius church at East Liverpool.

Commissioners Named.

George E. Heller, J. B. Lyder and C. E. Hamilton have been appointed by the court as commissioners in the partition action pending in common pleas court in the case of James R. Jordan against George H. Huston and others. A decree of partition has been entered, and the commissioners have been instructed by the court to employ County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk to establish certain property lines.

Sale Confirmed.

A sale has been confirmed and a deed and distribution ordered by Judge Eastman in the case of the Peoples State bank of Lisbon against John W. Gebbard and others. The action was filed in common pleas court Sept. 5 last.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—
—Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

Damage Cases Dismissed.

The $1,000 automobile damage case filed in common pleas court by Abraham Burlingame against R. J. Rile has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff. A similar case against Rile, wherein John G. Hart sought $5,000 damages has also been dismissed, with no record of either action to follow. Dismissal of both actions was at the costs of the plaintiffs.

Seek Another Jurist.

Judge E. R. Eastman of Ottawa, who is presiding in common pleas court No. 2, will complete his assignment here February 12, it has been announced by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. Application was made Thursday to Chief Justice Marshall of the state supreme court at Columbus for another jurist to preside in this county when Judge Eastman completes his service.

Sales Ordered.

Leins have been foreclosed and sales have been ordered in the delinquent tax cases pending in common pleas court against Mary M. Scully. Three tracts are to be offered for sale, the taxes delinquent on one tract being $10.53, on a second tract $12 and a third tract $11.99.

Damage Case Settled.

The $2,000 automobile damage action filed in common pleas court by Frank O. Heston, father of Melvin Heston, a minor, against James H. Griffin, has been settled for $200 by a directed verdict by a jury in common pleas court No. 2.

Land Leased.

Omar Powell has taken a lease on 40 acres of the L. V. Stroup farm, near Homeworth, for oil and gas drilling purposes. The lease agreement has been made a matter of record in the office of County Recorder Paul Smith.

Judge Moore Improving.

Decided improvement is reported in the condition of Judge James G. Moore, who has been confined to his home, East Washington street, Lisbon, for the last fortnight.

Sues on Note.

An action to recover $5,000 claimed due on a note has been filed in common pleas court by the First National bank of Chester, W. Va., against the Bucher-Smith Co.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $4,280 has been rendered in common pleas court in favor of the First National bank of Salem against the Porter Rubber company. Execution in this case has been awarded by Judge E. R. Eastman.

Columbiana

Three Columbiana churches, the Methodist, Reformed and Presbyterian, will unite in an evangelistic campaign of three weeks duration, from February 28th to March 21. One week will be given to each church, the pastors alternating in the preaching.

The Central Market basketball team won their ninth straight game Monday evening at the Penhale gym, East Youngstown, when they took over the Hillcrest A. C., 19 to 10. This team had previously been defeated at Columbiana, 25 to 21.

Rev. E. F. West has been appointed a delegate to a missionary convention to be held at Philadelphia, February

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative
—Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occa-

to add weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in what-

"regularity"—or must you purge and
"physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps

AUTO BEAUTY IS ON DISPLAY IN CLEVELAND SHOW

PAIGE SHOWS STRIKING LINES

New Models Invade Popular Competitive Field.

A brand new line of Paige sixes, not to be generally introduced until late in February is revealed at the Automobile Show by the Paige-Ohio Co., distributor.

The forthcoming Paige, this advance showing discloses, is not throughout chassis and body, yet retains the striking lines that have long been characteristic of this traditionally beautiful car.

The familiar radiator outline and hood contour remain, modified to conform with the improved chassis and bodies.

The new Paige line will consist of the following models:

Five-passenger sedan, list price $1,495; the five-passenger sedan de luxe, $1,670; seven-passenger sedan, $1,985; and the limousine and touring models, prices not yet fixed.

Heretofore, the Paige has been in a considerably higher price class and now for the first time invades the very popular and highly competitive $1,500-$2,000 field.

One of the most interesting exhibits is the New-Day Jewett, the latest product of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co., a car designed to solve the many problems that have arisen with the tremendous increase in motor traffic.

The aim of the designers was to create a new type of automobile without departing radically from standard American practice. There is, therefore, nothing freakish in the New-Day Jewett.

Its adaptability to present day conditions lies rather in the skillful combination of the most desirable tested features without sacrifice of any of the fundamentals.

The qualities combined in this new automobile that fit it peculiarly for modern conditions are listed by its producers as follows:

Compactness in over all dimensions combined with interior spaciousness; quick accelerating powers balanced with the maximum braking efficiency; high power to insure flexibility in traffic without gear shifting; improved body construction to insure unobstructed vision in all directions; ease of steering and short turning radius; to promote agile action; easy riding and road ability; ease of maintenance, and economy of operation and upkeep.

Compactness was one of the prime features required to meet new day conditions, for the car that cannot turn around readily in narrow streets, that cannot easily slip into short parking spaces or thread its way through crowded streets, at a disadvantage today. Yet this compactness had to be attained without sacrificing roominess in the passenger space, comfortable riding, or roadability.

Despite the difficulty of reconciling these two opposing requirements, the New Day designers have produced a car that, compared with the previous well known Jewett models, effects a great saving in overall length, yet has exactly the same roomy inside dimensions. Similarly, there has been no reduction in spring length, the new car using the identical lengths as the previous models—thirty-three inches front, fifty-four inches rear.

Therefore, actually a greater ratio of spring length to wheel base, with corresponding increase in riding comfort. This noteworthy saving in bulk has been effected through the use of perfect steel body construction, as well as by the unusually compact power plant and efficient layout of the clutch, transmission and controls.

The use of steel for the bodies had other important advantages. The show visitor will be instantly impressed with the open appearance of the sedan, an effect given by the unusually large area of glass and the correspondingly small space occupied by the corner pillars, door frames and other uprights. The steel construction enabled the engineers to increase the strength of the body while reducing the bulk and weight of material. The result is utmost "visibility" for the driver and passengers.

Hudson-Essex Breaks Record In Sale of 270,000 Cars

Distributors Predict 1925 Drive for Leadership is Forerunner of Larger Season During Year.

Hudson-Essex's spectacular 1925 drive for leadership in the industry—which resulted in a record-breaking total of 270,000 cars, said to be the largest number of "sixes" ever built in a year by a single maker—is the forerunner of an even larger 1926 season, according to R. J. Schmunk, president of the R. J. Schmunk company and Hudson distributor at Cleveland.

They pointed out that perhaps the leading trend in the industry is toward a moderate-sized six-cylinder enclosed car in the less-than-$1,000 field. As Hudson-Essex were first in this field with the Essex coach two years ago, and has built and sold more than a quarter million such cars, it naturally expects to be extremely active in helping fill this demand in the coming season.

Automobile trade papers are estimating 400,000 or more Hudson-Essex cars for 1926, which would be a 50 per cent increase over 1925. This would not be at all out of line with the record of the company.

Since Hudson-Essex began its drive in the specialized closed car market its growth has been as follows: In 1922 a high mark (up to that time) of 60,000 cars was reached; in 1923 this was increased by nearly 50 per cent to 89,000; 1924 increased this 50 per cent to 128,000, while 1925 more than doubled this exceptional business with nearly 270,000 cars.

Hudson-Essex being the only volume producer to double the production of the previous year.

Following the well-known economies of automobile production, Hudson-Essex has signaled its increasing business with a series of price reductions which have set a new standard in the six-cylinder field. Its 1925 cars were offered at actually less than half the price of former years.

At the same time, the Hudson management asserts, the standards of workmanship, material and design have consistently improved despite the lowered prices. One official said: "It is the easiest thing in the world to cut prices, but it is quite another to cut prices and at the same time better the product sold. Our quality and values are now greater than ever before."

The great factors in this program have been volume and specialization. Whereas the usual exhibit at the show has run from fifteen to twenty-five body types, Hudson-Essex has only four in its combined showing. All are enclosed. The records of the motor car business will show that this is the greatest degree of specialization in the industry, and it is a vital part in the Hudson-Essex idea of economical production. This simplicity of operation is one outstanding answer to the question of where Hudson-Essex has found the possibility of its lowered prices. The compactness of the line also has made it an ideal one for dealers to handle, as only a small amount of capital and display space are necessary.

In this year's exhibit the four cars shown are: The Essex coach, which reaches the wide and growing low-priced six-cylinder field; the Hudson coach, which represents similar utility and value on a larger chassis, and the Hudson brougham and seven-passenger sedan, which are built to high standards of luxury.

CHEVROLET HAS COMPLETE LINE

Six Passenger Cars and Two Trucks Make up 1926 Series.

The Chevrolet Motor Company goes into the year 1926 with the most complete line of cars in its history. The company now produces four closed models, two open cars and two trucks.

In addition to the smartly-appointed new landau, the Chevrolet closed line now includes a coupe, coach and sedan. All have bodies by Fisher.

Striking new colors in Duco render the group of closed models even more attractive. The coupe and landau are finished in the new Arizona gray Duco, with interior decorations and velour upholstery to match. The gray of the hood, body panels and disc wheels on the landau is set off against the black of the fenders and upper-body by gold striping. The rear quarter, carrying the landau bars and windows, is leather-covered.

The new finish of the coach is Bloomfield gray while the sedan is in a rich Algerian blue.

Rear seat foot rests are provided in the sedan and landau sedan. The front seat of the sedan has been given a slight additional tilt which affords greater comfort to front seat passengers and increased leg room to those in the rear seat.

Complete equipment is carried on the closed line, including the VV one-piece ventilating windshield, parking lamps, sun visor, automatic windshield wiper, dome light, silk roller shades and Tensid fittings.

Gun metal gray Duco finish is retained on the two popular open models, the touring and roadster. The rear compartment of the roadster body has been altered to permit of greatly increased luggage capacity. The compartment cover opens at the level of the car floor. The cover is removable to permit substitution of a light delivery body.

Smooth operation, easier riding qualities and longer motor life are assured by the refinements on the Chevrolet which retains, however, all of the time-tried fundamentals of its famous predecessor.

Chief among the improvements contributing to the smooth performance of the new car are: installation of lighter pistons and pins, a new three-point motor suspension, a motor head redesigned to provide larger cooling areas around the valves and an improved engine lubricating system.

The new car is effectively cushioned against road shocks by long specially designed semi-elliptic springs.

The most important improvement in the engine is the new piston and connecting rod assembly. It is about a half pound lighter than before, decreasing by approximately two pounds the total weight of the moving parts in the cylinders. A skeleton type of piston is used which combines lightness with ample strength and bearing surface.

Packard Chassis Is Oiled By Mere Stroke of Wrist

Forty-five Points Can be Lubricated Properly by One Pull of Plunger Every 100 Miles.

Those who have attended the national automobile shows for a number of years may be disappointed by the lack of radical innovations discovered at the present exhibition. To the laymen only casually investigating today's motor cars, noticeable changes will be slight as compared with those of even two or three years ago.

Nevertheless, important advances have been made in the very recent past. Improvements have been engineered into modern chassis which, while hidden from view and effecting no immediately noticeable improvement in operation, have just as truly marked a new era in motor car design and manufacture as did the electric starter. The most important of these improvements affect lubrication.

Nothing has been more responsible for the rapid depreciation of motor cars than the purely human element of neglect. It is probably not too much to say that proper care would double the life of almost any car. Proper care of a motor car is nine-tenths a question of regular and proper lubrication. The great problem has been to get around the human element in the equation and provide some means for automatically assuring that lubrication which means so much to the owner's pocketbook.

The car which will take care of itself is still in the distant future. But two manufacturers, each interested in a specific problem and determined to find its solution, have developed in cooperation with Packard, practically automatic systems, one for the lubrication of the chassis and the other for guarding the purity of the engine oil. These systems lessen chances of neglect and the consequent rapid wear of parts.

This system which has been developed by Joseph Bjor, in co-operation with Packard engineers, makes the proper lubrication of chassis bearings the work of an instant.

This system is so simple in its fundamentals that one wonders why it was thought of. Through its application to the Packard chassis every bearing point is simultaneously lubricated with properly metered amounts of oil by one operation on the part of the driver. A conveniently located plunger constantly in sight provides a gentle reminder of a simple but important duty. The action of pulling the plunger knob sends oil under pressure from a central reservoir to the metering devices or drip plugs at each bearing point. On a Packard chassis forty-five points can be lubricated properly and thoroughly by one pull of this plunger every 100 miles.

The local distributor is the Packard Service & Sales Company, 142 West Seventh Street.

GREAT MOTOR IN WILLYS-KNIGHT

Interest in Sleeve Valve Design is Increasing.

A year ago the Willys-Knight 66, known as the great six, was launched at the automobile show. Today it stands as the greatest achievement ever made in a Knight motor car, either here or abroad, where the car with the Knight type motor is known as the car of royalty and is used almost exclusively in the highest social and financial spheres.

Such a complete and rapid ascent into unrivaled supremacy in its field is a sensation in motor car circles.

From the first, this Willys-Knight great six received conspicuous interest because of the general respect paid to the Knight type motor. But, because of the accomplishments of this same type of motor, the expectations as to service, power, silence and efficiency placed a heavy burden on the car.

That these expectations have more than been met is shown in the array of users of this Willys-Knight great six, and the great numbers of enthusiastic endorsers including the majority of the better known names throughout the country.

Whether it comes as a result of the introduction of this Willys-Knight car, both here and abroad, for the 2500-horsepower interest in the most as great as the local interest, or whether it is a natural trend because of the world-wide acceptance of the Knight type motor, there has been an unusual amount of international interest in sleeve-valve motor design during the past year.

This interest reached its culminating point in a recent test conducted under government auspices in Paris where a Knight type motor won in every point in a break down and power endurance contest to determine the most efficient motor for all around service.

As presented at the automobile show, the Willys-Knight great six is offered in a wide range of body types, each marked by the most careful attention to the finer details contributing to luxury and comfort.

One of the unusual features of the Overland Model 91 which has firmly established this car as one of the most popular models of its type in the United States, and which has been the subject of approval by enthusiastic owners in letters to the factory, is the exceptionally long spring base, which gives riding comfort equal to some of the largest automobiles made in this country.

In no other automobile of the same type has the spring carriage been so lengthened to such unusual extent which, because of the extension of the patented triplex springs, provides an actual spring carriage of 130 inches, or the equivalent of many cars in the two or three thousand dollar class.

Coincident with this unusual riding feature of the Overland Model 91 is the unusual handling ease of the car, because of its shorter wheelbase. This enables the driver to have access to small parking space and has made the car a favorite in crowded city traffic.

In construction the Overland Model 91 has many characteristics of cars much higher in price. Molybdenum steel axles of the same type used in more expensive cars are used in the Overland Model 91, which has a heavy pressed steel frame that absorbs many of the road shocks. Type A "grabbing" disc type clutch, entirely enclosed and protected from dust and dirt, special carbon steel gears, differential case cast in one piece with unusually large pinion gear, drive and ring gears of noiseless spiral bevel type, double unit Auto Lite ignition and lighting system of six-volt capacity, chrome vanadium steel springs of the patented triplex three-point suspension and unusually large braking surface are some of the features of the Overland Model 91.

It is such quality features as these that have made the Overland Model 91 one of the most popular cars of its class in the country and resulted in unequalled performances in the hands of owners.

The car is the companion to the Hummobile Eight which, almost from the day it was announced, became the largest selling straight eight in the world.

Contained in the new Eight are the same advantages of the straight eight principle as were included in the Hummobile Eight, which in 1925 attained the phenomenal success of registering greater acceptance in its first year than was ever accorded any other fine car in a similar period. These advantages, the company points out, are its smooth power, smoothness of performance at all speeds, flexibility, all-around reliability, inherent freedom from vibration, and an economy of operation that makes it a remarkable product.

Pointing out that there has been no fundamental change in the original design, Charles D. Hastings, Hupp president and general manager, said: "That fact is a splendid tribute to the work done by our engineering and manufacturing departments before the original Hummobile Eight was placed on the market. There are some refinements in mechanism, such as are constantly made in all motor car production, but, unquestionably, the original Eight was 'right' in design and manufacture before buyers were permitted to pay their money for cars. That policy of being sure a thing is right before offering it to the public has long been a Huppmobile policy, and accounts in no small measure for the remarkably fine reputation this company and its cars enjoy the world over."

The local distributor is the Ohio Motor Sales Co., West Fifth Street.

NEW HUMMOBILE SETTING PACE

Is Culmination of Tests Begun by Hupp in 1914.

Details of construction of the new Hummobile Six, as reviewed by automotive technical experts, reveal that the same care in design, construction and manufacture which has been characteristically Huppmobile for nearly twenty years, has been included, and even improved, in this new car.

The new Six is the car which, in conjunction with the company's Eight, is expected by factory officials to make 1926 by far the greatest year in Hupp history. Productive capacity of the Hupp factories, both Six and Eight divisions, is being increased more than 50 per cent, in anticipation of a remarkable growth in demand.

The Six, introduced last November, is one of the new cars on display at the show.

It is the culmination of tests with six-cylinder cars first begun by Hupp in 1914 and which continued unceasingly for two years before the car was announced. The company reports that during that eleven year period it built and scrapped more than a dozen sizes in its effort to achieve results finally secured this car, "Into it," says A. L. Englander, president of the A. L. Englander Co., distributor, "have been built a performance and smoothness of operation, freedom from repair, dependability and other characteristics, which have long been associated with the name Huppmobile the world over. It is a true Huppmobile in every sense and meaning of the word."

The car is the companion to the Hummobile Eight which, almost from the day it was announced, became the largest selling straight eight in the world.

Contained in the new Eight are the same advantages of the straight eight principle as were included in the Hummobile Eight, which in 1925 attained the phenomenal success of registering greater acceptance in its first year than was ever accorded any other fine car in a similar period. NEW NASH-AJAX IS UNVEILED

Three New Body Styles are Also Exhibited.

The Nash-Ajax exhibit at the automobile show is attracting unusual interest among visitors this year because of the initial presentation of the new Nash "enclosed car" motor, the first showing of three new Nash body styles and the first exhibition at any automobile show of the Nash-built Ajax.

In fact the Nash-Ajax exhibit is pronounced by visitors as the "feature attraction" of the show. The new Nash body styles, unveiled at the show, are a new 4-door advanced six sedan, a new advanced six roadster, six coupe, The Nash-built Ajax makes its show debut in its new body color of Mallard green with luxurious new upholstery in duotone velour.

The improved Nash motor is the outgrowth of Nash determination to achieve even for the heaviest of its enclosed car bodies, power, speed, acceleration, quietness, and long life which motorists have heretofore been content to believe existed only in open car performance. Because of the interest that is bound to center about the new Nash motor it is being shown in a completely stripped chassis.

The new Nash motor is equipped with an oil purifier, gasoline filter and air cleaner, all of which contribute in a large measure to satisfactory operation and years of service.

Chief among the closed car attractions is the introduction of the new Nash 4-door sedan which is offered at a surprisingly low cost—in fact the lowest price at which Nash has ever offered an advanced six 4-door sedan.

Original Body Design.

The design and construction of this model show a still higher degree of Nash accomplishment in beauty and expert craftsmanship. The body illustrates Nash-Seaman originality and thoroughness. There is an exceptionally rich color scheme of lilac gray, contrasting with gold striping and black upper body and running gear. Doors are wider than is customary in this type of car, affording much easier entrance and exit for all passengers. The broad and restful seats are charmingly upholstered in the finest grade of mohair velvet. All hardware is silver-finished after the Rich Colonial pattern. Four-wheel brakes, five disc wheels and full balloon tires are standard equipment at no extra cost.

An ideal car expertly designed for economical travel and full comfort is presented in the low-slung and smartly equipped advanced six 4-passenger roadster. The rumble seat is thoroughly contrived for easy entrance, comfortable roominess and riding ease. The pleasing lines of the car are accentuated by the black top and running gear, with gold striping against the attractive lilac gray of the body proper. Genuine leather upholstery, also, in duotone colors blends fittingly in color harmony.

In the special six line Nash also offers a great new value for those who desire a utility car—the special six coupe. Low sweeping lines characterize this model. The body proper and wheels are toned a deep lilac gray, while the upper structure, fenders and running gears are in black. Upholstery is of genuine leather of a duotone green to harmonize with the body. There is an especially roomy luggage chamber with sixteen cubby feet underneath the rear deck. An easy swinging door permits ready access.

The Local Distributor is the Turk-Nash Company, 618 Dreden Avenue.

Price Reduction is Cited as Proof of Its Prosperity.

The Ohio Buick Co. is displaying a number of models at the show this year.

It is the eighth consecutive year that Buick has led all members of the N. A. C. C. in dollars and cents business.

The volume of business which this year's record indicates enabled the Buick Motor Co. to reduce prices radically on the 1926 models, which officials of the company say are the best ever built by Buick.

The line includes two valve-in-head engines of sixty and seventy-five horse power, respectively, and three chassis lengths.

The standard line is built on a chassis of 114-inch wheel base, and is made up of two open and four closed models, including a two-door sedan. The master line includes ten body styles, four of them mounted on a chassis of 120 inches wheel base. Six models are on the 128-inch wheel base chassis. The latter group includes two sport open cars, a five-passenger brougham sedan, a two-passenger country club coupe, a seven-passenger sedan and a four-passenger coupe. On the 120-inch chassis are two open and two closed models, the latter pair being a two-door and a four-door sedan.

Each car in both the standard and master lines includes all Buick features, such as six-cylinder valve-in-head engines, cantilever springs, mechanical four-wheel brakes, torque tube drive, low pressure tires, Duco finish in new and attractive color combinations, triple seals against dirt, oil filter, air cleaner and gasoline strainer, controllable beam headlights and automatic heat control for smooth operation in cold weather.

In addition, many of the models are equipped with gasoline gauges on the dash, electric cigar lighters, radiator temperature indicators, heaters and combination vanity and smoking cases. All closed models and the two sport models have automatic wind shield wipers. The other open cars have hand operated wipers as standard equipment.

Extra power and speed have been added to the current line. The standard six cars attain a speed of seventy miles an hour, and the master six models are capable of seventy-five miles an hour. An improvement in the starting motor has been made which greatly increases efficiency in starting the car, especially in cold weather. This, with the automatic heat control, practically eliminates hard starting and balky performance in cold weather.

The local distributor is Harris-Buick Co., 119 West Fifth street.

States Broad Purpose

"Size of organizations are leveled, mass of finances becomes secondary, provided only there is sufficient of both for actual requirements," continues Mr. Moskovic. "The true value of the conception is the great measure. What is your commodity worth to humanity? Does it add one iota to the sum total of human efficiency, of human service, because, from now on, only that thing that creates something that does something for humanity deserves to survive or will survive."

"Henceforth all worth-while betterments in automobile engineering must come from the smaller makers. The cost of changes to the big mass producers is too tremendous to be gone into easily or quickly, yet changes are needed more today than ever because the rapidly shifting conditions that motor cars are put to requires differ-

Wild Dogs Are Aim of Big Game Hunter

New York.—Harold White of Scarsdale, who recently returned from a hunting and collecting trip in Asia and Africa, will start out again next month on a three-year expedition embracing both continents, the principal purpose of which is to round up for the American Museum of Natural History and the New York Zoological park in the Bronx specimens of a species of wild dog known in the Arussi mountains, between Italian and British Somaliland, as the yeha.

The yeha, which probably is a variety of the hyena dog, is a huge, high-shouldered, implacable creature which hunts in packs. Mr. White has a personal as well as a scientific interest in the yeha, as on his recent trip a pack of the animals treed him and all his bearers and it was not until Mr. White, shooting from his perch, had picked off every wild dog that any of the fugitives could descend.

Danger in "Petting"

Spartanburg, S. C.—"Petting," when indulged in by persons not "in love," injures them physically, mentally and morally and may lead to insanity. Dr. T. B. Bailey, professor of psychology, University of the South, Seawane, Tenn., was authority for this statement.

"Can you imagine any of the larger organizations spending tens of millions of dollars until they are forced to? Yet that is the cost of doing the most obvious things! Who then will do this pioneering if not the smaller, well-financed companies? For them a great business, a great future always will exist, but the price of their very existence is eternal vigilance and a constant, forward movement. They can't stop."

MARMON MARKS 75TH BIRTHDAY

Twelve Models Demonstrate Furthest Peak of Achievement.

As a fitting introduction to the celebration of its seventy-fifth anniversary as a manufacturing institution, Marmon enters the Cleveland show this year with a record of achievement unparalleled in the history of the company, and a line of twelve models recognized as incorporating advanced features of design and skilled craftsmanship.

At no time since the foundation of the present Nordyke & Marmon company in 1851 has the success attained by the company's product been as great and gained such world wide attention as has the new Marmon during the past year.

All twelve models of the new Marmon line are mounted on the standard Marmon chassis of 130-inch wheel base on which Marmon has concentrated for years but now including many important new engineering improvements. Outstanding among the cars on exhibit are the four models of the Marmon standard line which sell at exactly open car price—a merchandising accomplishment in these times.

STUTZ SAFETY CAR APPLAUDED

Reported as One of Sensations at Automobile Show.

Nothing like the interest aroused in the new Stutz safety chassis at the Automobile Show has been seen in a decade or more. As a matter of fact, the advent of the first electrically governed starter on the Cadillac at the 1912 exhibition in Madison Square Garden is what the oldest men in the automobile business offer as a comparison. The interest is not confined to the passing throngs of curiosity seekers and potential buyers, but to the master minds of the vast automobile industry and their multitudinous following.

President F. E. Moskovic of the Stutz Motor Car Co., by reason of his many years' contact with the automobile industry, easily ranks as one of the best informed automobile men in the country. He has been associated with things automotive since the inception of the "horseless carriage" and his words on the advent of this new phenomena on the automobile horizon, as the new Stutz safety chassis unquestionably is, hold a tremendous world of meaning.

"When in the course of development in any industry and commodity in that industry arises from the common level, and by the sheer weight of its individual value forces almost instant recognition—then, by the inimitable law of justice that commodity is destined to become a leader. The element of time becomes almost secondary," so says Mr. Moskovic.

Gold-Filled Elephant Tusk Found in Mining Claim

Seattle, Wash.—An authentic fossil tusk of the woolly elephant of the glacial or postglacial period, with gold fillings like a modern tooth, has been presented to the museum of the University of Washington by Edward Squires, who discovered it on a mining claim on Dominion creek, 40 miles from Dawson, Yukon territory.

The tusk is ten feet long and weighs 250 pounds. The theory of Nathan Kresge, museum caretaker and former Alaskan, is that the relic was there when tons of earth with pay streak settled down, so that gold nuggets were forced into the cracks of the tusk, giving the effect of modern gold tooth fillings.

North County Draws Week's Games In Columbiana Circuit

Lorah's Lads to Take On Columbiana Outfit

Salem, Leading Loop, Meets Lisbon Friday and East Palestine Saturday; Cleveland John Marshall Here Saturday.

EAST LIVERPOOL cage fans interested particularly in intra-county basketball will have to hike over to the north end of the county this week-end if they expect to get first hand evidence of what's what in the triangular race for leadership among Salem, East Liverpool and East Palestine, for everything in the line of county basketball is looked for the upper section of the county.

The John Marshall engagement here on Saturday night is the solitary engagement listed for southern county enthusiasts.

Salem will face a tough foe at Lisbon, East Liverpool will be playing at Columbiana and Wellsville will be in action at East Palestine.

The Quakers at present are leading the circuit with three consecutive victories. Lorah's five has dropped only one in four starts and East Palestine has lost only one of the three games it has played thus far.

The three leaders should win unless the dogs get a violent kick, although Salem, from all indications, will have the hardest job of the lot. Lisbon has won only two, has been trampled on three times and is getting tired of the doormat act. Like the proverbial worm, the county seaters are going to make a desperate effort at turning Friday night and will have the advantage of their home court.

Salem will tackle another fast coming team in East Palestine on Saturday night, playing at Salem, and if the Red and Black is not "on" for this particular occasion, there's a chance for a slip-up here, too, for Orndorff and his crew have been plugging right along and can be expected to make the leaders step.

Providing they play the basketball they are capable of, Lorah's Blue and White five should have no more than ordinary difficulty in winning from Columbiana.

K.-C. PIN ENTRIES TO CLOSE FEB. 1

TOLEDO, Jan. 28.—At midnight Monday, Feb. 1, entries will close for the annual tournament of the Knights of Columbus National Bowling association. The Toledo committee is receiving entries through Ray J. Sheahan, chairman, and George Gang, secretary.

The tourney will be held at the same time as the American Bowling Congress, Feb. 27th to April 5th, at Toledo. This is the fourth visit of the congress to Toledo and the first for the K. of C. Both tourneys may be played in on the one trip. Some of the congress championships are now held by K. of C. bowlers. The K. of C. tournaments have the approval of the supreme directors of the order. The first tourney was held in Milwaukee, the second in Chicago and the third in St. Louis. Last year 312 fifteen men teams, 432 two-men teams and 848 singles participated, a total of 3,272 players. Distance and newness has interfered with substantial participation in former events from Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, but it is expected that this handicap will not operate this year.

Milwaukee is expected to enter 35 teams, Chicago 60 and St. Louis 50. Columbus has so far entered six teams and more are expected.

EKLUND WINS IN COLUMBUS MATCH

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28.—In a two-fall wrestling match, Clarence Eklund, 175, defeated Charlie Peterson, Swede, 177, here Wednesday night.

George Walker, Canadian, pinned John Kilian's shoulders down after 17 minutes of boxing-wrestling.

Kid Clark won a 12-minute wrestling bout with Carl Beikhtler. Casey Berger lost his second consecutive match when he found himself unable to throw George Gatsoff in 12 minutes.

VLASTO IS EASY FOR MISS WILLS

CANNES, Jan. 28.—Helen Wills disposed of another French star today when she defeated Mlle. Rolande Vlasto, 6-0, 6-2, in the third round of the Gallia tournament.

Mlle. Rolande Vlasto, while not ranking with Mlle. Didi Vlasto is nevertheless well up in the French tennis ranks. She gave Miss Wills no trouble today, however.

The California girl won the first set without losing a game and then eased up in the second set, apparently saving herself for her match with Miss Cadie.

BETHANY FORMS CLASS LEAGUE

Games Get Under Way With Freshmen in Lead.

BETHANY, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Bethany college athletic authorities in an effort to promote athletics in the school, have organized an inter-class basketball league which is now going at full speed. Each of the four classes in the school have picked a team from their ranks. These players must not be connected with the varsity squad. By so doing, aspirants for the Bison varsity have a chance to display their talents, develop and in the future work into one of the coveted positions.

So far this season many promising men have been singled out as likely material for near future varsity teams. In this manner, Coach Nuss is able to look over his prospects and keep in touch with the development of the new athletic stock. Strange to say, the freshmen class team is leading the inter-class race to date. They have men of unusual ability and so far have succeeded in defeating the sophomores by a score of 10-8 and the juniors 22-17. The juniors have defeated the seniors in a one-sided game so it looks as though the yearlings will clinch the honors. There are two rounds to the series and upsets may break in at any point.

The next inter-class game will be staged Saturday night as a preliminary to the varsity contest.

AMES-JIMMY MARS CLASH IN CANTON

CANTON, Jan. 28.—What promises to be one of the best arranged mitt programs in Canton for some time will be the card promised by the March Athletic and Sports club for Monday, February 1, at the auditorium.

Through Matchmaker Maxie Lewis, the club has signed Willie Ames of Akron to battle Jimmy Mars, the New York 125-pounder, and "Bad News" Taylor, of Al Zill's Youngstown stable, will trade wallops with Larry Goldberg, the Brooklyn bantam.

Both bouts are scheduled to go 10 rounds. Two six-rounders will constitute the remainder of the card.

An effort is being made to sign Benny Bass, the Philadelphia slugger who scored a one round knockout over Al Corbett at Cleveland recently, or Eddie Shea, of Chicago, to meet the winner of the Willie Ames-Jimmy Mars tussle.

Washington crossed the Delaware a century and a half or so ago, making it tough for the British and eventually leading to a glorious victory at Yorktown, Washington (another kind) crossed the Rubicon of baseball last fall and Caesar Harris was forced to send a different kind of message to the senate from what old Julius sent.

Which brings us to the question of the day among diamond fans and that is what kind of a crossing will Washington make this year? Will it be a successful one or will there be a forced retreat?

Can the veterans of the Senators' roster, which staggered through to or will there be a forced retreat? One authority on the subject says: "Not if several other teams in the league play the kind of baseball they are capable of playing. I figure the Senators lucky to finish second and third place seems most likely their destination."

Griffith hasn't done much as yet in the way of rebuilding the team and his little unpleasantness with Harris over the latter's 1925 financial arrangements is not helping matters any. It may be that the faltering in the last world's series was the beginning of the end for Washington.

After all is said and done, the biggest problems Griff has to wrestle with is his pitching staff. Can Johnson, Coveleskie, Ruether and Ferguson duplicate their 1925 performances? Many critics think not. Ruether, you know, is dissatisfied because of the deal he received in connection with the series last fall.

Lefty Thomas, Harry Kelly and Win Ballou look the best of the newcomers on the hurling staff with Marberry and Zachary in the relief roles.

Taken from any angle the Washington situation is an interesting one.

It strikes me that the promoters of boxing matches and wrestling bouts in certain parts of the country better brace up as they are giving the game a black eye in those sections where the promoters are trying to be on the "in and out." We refer to that recent return match of Ed (Strangler) Lewis and Wayne Munn, which was staged at Denver, in which Sandow, handler of Big Ed, was roughly treated by the fans, and the alleged charity bout put on by Fred Fulton and George Godfrey, wherein charity profited to the sum of $97.05. We don't know why the "generous" promoters turned over the extra five cents to charity but they did. As we said previously, some people in the snow world better take a look at the handwriting on the wall—that is if they can read English.

St. Louis Losing Mental Balance Over Flag Talk

Possibility of 1926 Pennant Town's Biggest Topic.

NEW YORK.—Is it St. Louis' turn to harbor a pennant-winning ball club for the first time since the competitive dark ages? The staid, old river town seems to have gone fairly off its civic nut in considering the matter by way of mid-winter diversion.

"What is needed to bring a major league pennant to St. Louis" is the key-question of a symposium being conducted by one of the leading newspapers. The answers from fans have been many, varied and not without some constructive value.

The inspiration for all the agitation has been furnished by the fact that during the last ten years quite a few clubs have achieved championships for the first time. The Phillies under Pat Moran in 1915 were one of the first to upset precedent. Then the Cincinnati Reds of 1919 came through after fifty years of failure. Now, they have the present champions in Washington as a notable example.

St. Louis hasn't had a pennant winner since 1888 when the old Browns finished their string of titles and the citizens think something should be done about it. They have even gone so far as to play the "hunch" that the enlargement of the ball park means something, it being the general idea that pennants usually follow in the wake of such improvements.

Most of the boys appear to string along with the Cardinals as a better bet than the Browns. Those of this persuasion profess to believe that a full season of Hornsby's leadership plus the beneficial results expected to follow Bill Killefer's handling of the pitchers will bring success where everything else has failed.

Some of the self-appointed critics declare that the management of the Browns should be taken out of the hands of George Sisler. In this way they claim the Browns will get a better manager and better ball player at one and the same time. Others, however, seem to think that the player-manager is a sound institution

By a margin of 150 pins, Fleming's "Candy Kids" gained the decision over the Elks' duckpin stars in the first brush of the season between the two rival squads last night at the Liberty alleys.

With Canne shooting a high series score of 816 and Dr. Fred Adams scattering the timber for a high one-gamely of 203, the antlered tribe was outdistanced before the clash had reached the end.

The Liberty alleys were jammed to the guards for the match and an even larger crowd is anticipated when the two team clash again later in the season.

The Fleming crew hung up a total of 3,632 against 3,473 which is hitting a fast clip, at that, for a five-game series.

Canne led the hardwood onslaught for the Fleming five, knocking off a 167 in the opener, 170 in the second, 161 in the third, dropping off a little to 146 in the fourth and coming with a 173 in the final frame.

Patterson ran him second, totalling

754 pins for the series. His final effort, which netted 115 pins in the last frame, cut down his total.

Dr. Adams hit the peak in the fourth stanza when he crashed out a mark of 203, and this score contributed materially to the high game tally of 832 registered by the winners at this point.

SAFELY HARVEST BUMPER LAW CROP

State Legislatures Put 13,000 New Statutes on the Books.

New York.—One of the Founding Fathers, in the debate on the Constitution of the United States, confessed that "a voluminous code of laws is one of the inconveniences necessarily connected with the advantages of free government." Had he foreseen how voluminous it was to become he would hardly have been satisfied with so mild a word as "inconvenience." For the biennial output, which reaches floodtide in the "odd" years when nearly all the state legislatures are in session, passes through the efforts of some forty states, including New York, to adjust themselves to more than 13,000 new statutes.

Thirteen thousand plus! The mere size of the printing bill is enough to give every taxpayer pause. The cost in clerical work, committee fees, salary of legislators, test cases in the courts, prosecution and civil litigation is beyond calculation. But, aside from the pressure upon the pocket nerve, almost all these laws regulate in some way business conduct or personal deportment and thus irritate nerves of another kind.

Much of this stupendous flood of legal verbiage is mere tinkering with existing codes. Every legislature writes its own Sartor Resartus; it patches the patched fabric of the law, if not always dexterously, at least industriously and with gusto. Those who have attended sessions may have heard the clerk droning: "This is an act entitled an act to amend an act— and so on to the ninth degree of amendment. To attend one of these sessions is a good lesson in what Elihu Root has called organized self-control. The electorate can learn best in the schoolhouse of its state capitals how its representatives function.

Fashions in Laws.
In every legislative gathering laws are offered which affect education, health, banking and railroads. These are familiar standbys. They are the teething rings on which thousands of legislators have cut their first teeth. But there is fashion in laws as in garments and bobs; and laws aimed at the motorist are becoming almost passe now that motion pictures may be censored and beauty parlors regulated. Senator Wray of the state of Washington, for instance, is the proud parent of a law authorizing schools for the teaching of the art of hairdressing and facial massage, a bill licensing persons to carry on such practice and prescribing penalties for violation. The radio, which ignores state boundaries, is a little beyond or above the state legislator; but regulation of the hours during which voices caught from the air may be turned loose upon the neighborhood are the denier cri in legislation.

And there is always a crop of measures which may be classed as oddities. Connecticut debated with spirit a measure intended to impose a tax of $4 on each bachelor, spinster and alien. Taxation of unwedded voters is no new thing, but to jump them with aliena betrays that the author of the law regards them as strange and outlandish. The majority, however, overrode this construction of single blessedness. Iowa, in its zeal for prohibition, adopted a measure intended to prevent the sale of a kind of canned heat, for fear that the alcohol in the device would be diverted to unholy purposes.

Arizona, which is a quiet state, demanded that railroads equip their locomotives with automatic bell-ringers. Among a great many states in which taxes of various sorts were proposed on cigarettes, Tennessee adopted a sales tax of 10 per cent. Illinois offered a reward of $1,000 to any man, woman or child capturing or killing a bank robber; and Kansas taxed the use—not the sale—of gasoline for any purpose except a farm tractor.

Missouri provided that butcher shops selling both kosher and non-kosher meats should stipulate in their window signs and advertising; and Ohio passed a law requiring that every public school teacher must read aloud daily ten verses from the Bible, without comment. This measure was vetoed by the governor.

Concern about education is invariably acute among our legislators. The ten Biblical verses in Ohio were not alone; in another state a bill was offered providing for the memorizing of the Ten Commandments. There was another bill requiring that study of the Constitution of the United States and of the state should be a prerequisite of graduation, not only from public but private schools.

Laws to Conserve Patriotism.
The battle over the Americanization of history is still waging merrily here and there. In one bill, for instance, it was provided that any school teacher speaking slightly of the Republic, its founders or the Constitution should be dismissed; and, further, that the textbooks on history and civil government should stress adequately "the services rendered by the men who achieved our national independence . . . and preserved the Union."

But there is little of the unusual about such measures. The crop is fairly uniform and varies only in that it tends to get larger and larger as time goes on. The chief ingenuity is exhibited in devising new methods of taxation. The income tax is becoming more and more popular, and there are many states which tax the sale of gasoline, chewing gum and smoking tobacco. Some now have a state automobile fund, to which every owner of a motor vehicle must contribute, wherefrom persons injured in accidents are to receive damages.

It must be remembered that the 13,000 measures mentioned were actually enacted. More than twice as many went into the legislative hopper from the hands of earnest legislators. The percentage of enactments was, indeed, without precedent. There are two ways to judge a state legislature; first, by the number of bills introduced; second, by the number which survive committee pitfalls and the gauntlet of debate. New York, for instance, was the Abou Ben Adhem of the states in the number of measures offered, leading with 3,186; but only 686 of them became law, whereas in North Carolina, of only 1,773 offered, 1,173 were enacted.

The actual number of bills passed in 38 of these states was 13,018. Texas, perhaps preoccupied with the Fergusons, did not make any return to the National Industrial council, which reported the legislative crop; and Governor Hartley of Washington resorted to the unusual expedient of a split session, in order to give the legislators time to think over what they had done at the first gathering. During the first session the Washington legislators adopted but 34 of 128 bills offered.

The National Industrial council was organized in 1907 by the National Association of Manufacturers to oppose the enactment of laws likely to affect business unfavorably. Commenting on the new crop of statutes, M. J. Hickey, assistant secretary of the council, said that "the state legislatures were constantly finding new ways of getting revenue, thus piling up the costs of government and imposing constantly heavier taxes."

Several states adopted the executive budget during the year, and others undertook a reorganization of the executive departments.—New York Times.

BURBANK PRESENTS SEVEN NEW PLANTS TO THE WORLD

Noted Major Creations and Improvements Famous of Year's Work by Famous Naturalist.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—With the completion of one of the busiest years in his half century of work in the laboratory of nature, Luther Burbank presented to the world as a New Year gift a beautiful group of new flowers and plants.

The plant wizard announced that during the year just closed he had perfected seven major creations and improvements. Today he sent to all parts of the world seeds which will bear these new creations.

After 25 years of experimentation Mr. Burbank has created a new camassia, a striking blue flower. While the camassia is not widely known, the new product excels all others in its beauty and ability to multiply.

From his rainbow corn Burbank has produced the rainbow teosinte, a marvelous plant that grows eight feet tall and bears from 8 to 14 ears to each stalk.

Third is a new plant cactus flowering zinnia, a truly giant plant developed from a more familiar flower.

of London university, in South Kensington. The revival is bringing the morris dance and the sword dance into their own again, says a report by the English Folk Dance society, which asserts these dances are being taken up with enthusiasm by tens of thousands of young people throughout England. The society is compelled to refuse hundreds of applications from would-be learners because of its inability to secure enough ballroom space.

Women are taking up sword dancing enthusiastically, many with the purpose of teaching it to boy scouts, girl guides and members of similar organizations. Scottish reels are also regaining favor, mainly because of the partiality of the duchess of York for them, although the duchess herself will not be seen in the ballroom for the next few months because of the approach of an interesting family event.

Winter Colds Are Dangerous
The serious diseases that develop from simple coughs or colds make them dangerous and they should not be neglected. There is no better remedy for quick relief from coughs and colds than Fowley's Honey and Tar Compound. "My grandchild could get no relief whatever from a very bad croupy cough until I gave him Fowley's Honey and Tar," writes Peter Landis, Meyersdale, Pa. Keep a bottle on hand for any emergency. Is Age Controlled by Glands?

Dr. Serge Voronoff of France, famous physician and surgeon, who has devoted years to research and experimentation with glandular treatment, says: "A man is worth only as much as his glands."
Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his booklet, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals."
The new scientific formula—Glandogen—embodies this method. Glandogen is a highly concentrated gland compound in convenient, compact tablet form which combines the important extracts of the vital glands of healthy young animals with other efficacious ingredients. Hundreds of keen-eyed men and women are today taking Glandogen. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

HOME TOWNS OF FAMOUS CHEESE

Must Go to Baedeker for Guide to Places Made Famous by Product.

Washington.—The memorial tablet which has been erected to Mme. Marie Harel, creator of camembert cheese, on her Brittany cottage in Camembert, France, recalls that the United States Department of Agriculture was surprised to find a large increase in the imports of camembert cheese from France immediately after the World War. Investigation showed that the A. E. F., like the old Crusaders returning from Palestine with a new-found love for the spices and silks of the East, came back from France with a relish for camembert. "Bully beef" was drab fare to the American doughboy. He craved a

Discovers Way to Dodge Tax

They have incorporated themselves as literature manufacturers, and have to pay only a corporation tax.

substitute for the pies and all the rest that mother made. So he sought out French farmhouses where he begged or bought food that knew not tins. Usually his search was rewarded with cheese. What could banish camp rations monotony easier than spicy-odored and spicy-flavored camembert? With a bit of camembert wrapped in tin-foil there must be purchased in many American delicatessens today memories of friendly folk in deep-roofed Norman cottages.

Made by a Mold.
"What Mme Harel discovered in Camembert, thirty miles south of the resort Deauville, was the way to control a certain mold," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington (D. C.) headquarters, on the well-known foreign and domestic cheeses. "The camembert culture can now be secured from concerns who make it a business to grow it. Camembert and allied varieties like Brie are cured widely throughout northern France. American production now shares the United States market."

"So slender is the path the world makes to the historic homes of famous cheeses that one often must go to Baedeker for the sign posts. Camembert is on few maps; Cheddar, which supplies the technical title for American or 'rat trap' cheese, is 15 miles southeast of Bristol, England; Stilton is 65 miles directly north of London; Gorgonzola is in Italy, close to Milan; Parma, one of the largest of the cheese towns, is the city in Lombardy that gives its name to Parmesan; Swiss cheese is more properly Emmentaler, for the valley of Emmenthal near Bern; Munster in Germany saw the birth of Munster cheese; red and yellow Edam cheese balls are still colorful ornaments to the Edam market near Amsterdam; Neuchâtel on the Dieppe-Paris rail line, was the object of German drives for far other purposes than to get soft cream cheese; Limbourg, the town made famous by an odor, lies near Liege where Belgium halted the invaders; and finally there is Roquefort, in the Auvergne plateau of central France.

"For more than two thousand years the caverns of Roquefort have cured cheeses. Roquefort has a natural monopoly because nowhere else do Nature and man combine the same elements. In the limestone rock are numerous linked caves in which there is much water. Nature maintains in these caverns a constant temperature which hovers above freezing and an atmosphere saturated with moisture; perfect conditions to favor the Roquefort mold and discourage growth of other molds.

"America's contributions to the cheese industry have been chiefly scientific production, large scale output and improved styles of marketing."
"Philadelphia cream cheese and some other cream cheeses are new in that fresh curd is used, but the texture links them to the Neuchâtel group."

Wisconsin Outstrips Switzerland.
"Wisconsin in one year produces more than twice as much cheese as Switzerland."

"Loaf cheese, wrapped in tin-foil, is strictly a Yankee invention and a good one because a slice is the size of a piece of bread and because drying cannot exact great losses in money and quality."

"Not many months ago a man who is a big figure in American politics and industry arrived in Washington. Employees in this man's Washington office stood ready to do his bidding. His first question on this trip made their heads whirl.
"How can one put holes in Swiss cheese?" he asked.
"His employees soon found this was no joking matter. This famous man, it appears, when he can forget affairs of the United States, the world and its business, is absorbed in his big farm. A problem had arisen in the dairy. The Swiss cheese had no holes. Since the presence or absence of holes affect the flavor, this was important. He had come to Washington in search of holes. Next day a four-page report on holes for Swiss cheese was on his desk. It said in part that bacteria known as Swiss cultures were the excavators, or more properly, the bellows. Gas generated by the bacteria expands the rubbery, raw cheese as yeast does bread. Further, that the organisms can be had from the Department of Agriculture and certain state universities.

"The Department of Agriculture not only knows Swiss cheese, but also makes it in their experimental dairy."

Claims Increase.
COLUMBUS, O.—An increase of 24,849 claims for workmen's compensation is shown in records of the industrial commission for the year 1925 as compared to 1924.
A total of 290,202 claims were filed with the department in 1925, while 175,353 were filed during the former year.
